JOHNSON ASSAILS HIRING OF 475 NEWSMEN AS USIA WRITERS

Senate Democratic Leader Hits at Spending $70,000 of Taxpayers' Money and Promises Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, May 29 (UP)—Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson today promised a thorough investigation of the hiring of newspaper men by the United States Information Agency to write special articles.

The practice was attacked in Senate debate on an appropriation bill which cut by one-third the funds requested by the agency.

The Senate approved the $96,200,000 appropriation bill 75 to 2 and sent it to the White House after three hours of debate. The House had passed it earlier by voice vote. Senators Jacob K. Javits (Rep.), New York, and Richard L. Neuberger (Dem.), Oregon, cast the only two votes against the bill.

Johnson read a House committee report that USIA at various times had bought special articles from about 475 newspaper men at a total cost of about $70,000. One St. Louis newspaper writer, who was not immediately identified, was listed as having received $1800 in one month.

(In St. Louis, John Hicks, a reporter for the Post-Dispatch, said he had written articles for the United States Information Agency for the agency's use abroad. Hicks said he had received approximately $1800 for this work in the last year.)

'Shocked' by Practice.

The Senator said he was "shocked" by the practice. He expressed fear that it "may wind up . . .by having a government-kept or at least a government-controlled press . . . to the extent of 500 or 600 writers."

He said he was not questioning the integrity of the newspaper men.

"I don't say anybody was bought or even influenced but I do question the wisdom of spending the taxpayers' money for this purpose," Johnson said.

He questioned the wisdom of letting any government bureau, especially a propaganda agency such as USIA, have authority "to go out and reach into the editorial rooms of this nation."

As chairman of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee passing on USIA funds, he said he "will go into it thoroughly."

Senators Styles Bridges (Rep.), New Hampshire, and J. W. Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas, indorsed Johnson's remarks.

Fulbright said it is "bad public policy" for newspaper men to have such a "dual capacity." He went on to say it could have been "purely coincidental," but that all the newspapers he had seen had gone "overboard for USIA" in the controversy over cutting its funds.

Neuberger Remarks.

Senator Neuberger objected to "the moral and ethical implications" of the attacks. He said it was difficult for him to believe that newspaper men "are thus readily contaminated." He said it would be just as fair to raise the question of how obligated congressmen are to contributors to their campaigns.

Neuberger defended "the average United States journalist" as an honest and ethical person who "is not necessarily going to be influenced" by being paid by the USIA for special articles about "Life in the United States."

He said it would be another matter if the articles were slanted for Administration policies in a partisan way.

Johnson said a provision in the bill barring USIA competi-

DULLES URGES MAKING START ON ARMS CONTROL

He Says That Without It Armament Race May Get Completely Out of Control.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

(Copyright, 1957, Pulitzer Publishing Co.)

WASHINGTON, May 29—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today stressed the urgency of making a start on a first stage disarmament agreement lest the world-wide arms race get completely out of control.

In response to questions at his press conference he insisted that Chancellor Adenauer's statement of yesterday excluding West Germany territory from any first stage inspection system had not altered the American approach to disarmament. He reminded his questioners that he had spoken two weeks ago about the difficulties of reaching agreement on a control system for Europe because of the number of countries involved.

"We have not excluded Europe," Dulles told reporters. "If we can get an agreement covering Europe then we shall do so. But we are giving top priority to an agreement wherever we can get it quickly—if not in Europe then in some other areas.

"We are not set on any particular area. It is important to get something started quickly so that the whole process does not get bogged down. We must get a situation under control that is controllable. We must not let people lose faith that something can come out of these talks that go on year after year. There must be progress to keep the talks alive."

Humphrey Resignation.

At the start of his conference Dulles took note of the White House announcement of the resignation of Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey. He said he had always worked well and closely with Humphrey and any differences they might have had had been composed without appeal to the President.

The Secretary was then asked about reports that indicated he would also resign in the interest of getting a younger cabinet for the President's second term. He said firmly that it was his plan to continue to serve as Secretary of State. As to whether he would stay through the whole of the second term, Dulles remarked that this was a long time, adding quickly that no inferences were to be drawn from this.

On the anti-American riots on Formosa, Dulles said that a study would be accelerated dealing with possible reductions in the number of American troops stationed, not only on the island held by Chiang Kai-shek and the Nationalist Chinese but throughout the world. He gave it as his belief that the presence of up to 10,000 Americans on Formosa had been a prime cause of the riots.

He replied with some asperity to questions suggesting that the outbreak might force a change in America's China policy. He denied, too, that the United States secret diplomatic code had been compromised by the

TWO DRINKERS DO A STEVE BRODIE; ONE IS MISSING

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Two beer drinking buddies plunged 130 feet off a bridge into the East river at 2 a.m. today "to get a kick out of life" the way Steve Brodie did 71 years ago. One of them showed up soaking wet hours later, and said he swam to shore. Harbor police launch crews searched for the other.

James De Voe, 22 years old; Ronald Roulette, 20, and Paul Paulos, 18, were drinking and talking about Brodie's historic leap from the Brooklyn bridge. They were in Queens near the Queensboro bridge.

Paulos suggested: "Let's go out on the bridge and jump and get a kick out of life."

The three found a 20-foot length of rope. They tied one end to a guard rail and dropped the rope over the side. De Voe slid down the rope. His pals heard a splash.

Roulette then descended and let go with a scream.

Paulos, changing his mind, ran and told a bartender what had happened. Police were called.

About dawn, Roulette was spied walking along a street near the Queens shore. He was dazed, limping and wet.

SAVINGS BONDS TO BE ISSUED IN PUNCH CARD FORM

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—The Treasury will issue Series E (baby) savings bonds in punch card form starting Oct. 1.

Officials said yesterday this would mean an annual saving of $500,000 in printing costs.

The punch card bonds will look much like the present bonds but will be smaller.

They will make possible the use of electronic machines for certain Government tabulations. And, the Treasury added, some business firms with a payroll savings plan for bonds will also be able to make economies in handling them.

FAIR HOLIDAY WEATHER FOR U.S. PREDICTED

WASHINGTON, May 29 (UP)—The Weather Bureau forecasts generally fair and mild weather on Memorial day throughout the nation.

In a special holiday forecast, the bureau said showers thundershowers may interrupt the fair weather pattern Memorial day afternoon or evening over scattered areas from the Mississippi valley to the Sierra and Cascade mountains in the Far West.

It will be warmer in the East with showers or thundershowers threatening Florida, parts of New York and the Ohio and Tennessee valleys.

Temperatures in the 90s were forecast along the Gulf Coast and in the Southwest and in the 60s in the Great Lakes region and in northern Maine. The rest of the nation can expect temperatures in the 80s, the forecast said.

32-Coat Lacquer Job.

TOKYO, May 29 (AP)—The huge front gate of Emperor Hirohito's palace is getting its first paint in 33 years but it is no ordinary redecorating job. To do it right, the gate must get 32 coats of lacquer and workmen do not expect to be finished before the end of the year.

BATISTA FORCES AND THREE BANDS OF REBELS CLASH

35 Plotters Seized and 16 Casualties Reported—Another Explosion in Havana.

HAVANA, May 29 (AP)—President Fulgencio Batista's forces today faced rebel opposition on three fronts. The government nabbed 35 plotters in central Cuba and claimed 16 casualties in fighting in the northeast.

A large part of the capital remained without electric power as a result of yesterday's underground explosion, which blacked out much of Havan's electric system. A second blast occurred last night near the home of Cabinet Minister Andre Domingo Morales, but no damage was reported.

Batista issued a warning that all the dynamite his enemies could muster would not be enough "to interrupt our patriotic plans to assure the people their progress and their liberties."

Batista forces clashed with insurgents yesterday near Holguin, in northeast Cuba; near Manzanillo, in the southeast, and at Cienfuegos, in the central province of Las Villas.

Rebel Band Growing.

An army communique said the Holguin action involved a rebel group which landed at Cabonico bay last Thursday from the Florida-based yacht Corinthia. It said there were 16 rebel casualties and the rest of the band was being pursued.

Original reports said 25 men had landed from the Corinthia and five had been captured within a few hours. The rest were said to have been heading for the Sierra Cristal mountains of northeast Cuba. Farmers in the area indicated the band was growing, saying they had seen more than 100 well-armed men.

The Manzanillo skirmish reportedly involved forces of insurgent leader Fidel Castro, who has been operating in the nearby Sierra Maestra range since landing from Mexico last December. The army said both sides suffered casualties.

The 35 plotters were reported arrested at Cienfuegos. Interior Minister Santiago Rey said they were surprised at a secret meeting an taken after a gunfight but that there were no casualties. He speculated that they were preparing to move into the

TWO SCIENTISTS MINIMIZE PERIL OF STRONTIUM FROM FALLOUTS

1970 to Be Peak Year With Concentration Far Below Danger Level if Tests Stop Now, One Testifies.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 29—Two scientists today minimized the present and foreseeable hazard from radioactive strontium in the fallout from nuclear weapons tests.

The element, strontium 90, is regarded as the greatest worldwide hazard from atomic weapons. It lodges in growing bones in place of calcium and emits radiation for many years. It makes up about 5 per cent of the total radioactive fallout of an atomic bomb.

The scientists, Dr. Merrill Eisenbud, of the Atomic Energy Commission's New York operations office, and Dr. J. L. Kulp, of Columbia University's Lamont geological laboratory, testified at the third session of hearings by a special fallout subcommittee of the congressional Joint Committee on atomic energy.

Dr. Eisenbud's Conclusions.

Dr. Eisenbud concluded that the average bone concentration in New York children would reach a maximum by 1970 of five micro-microcuries of strontium 90 per gram of body calcium, assuming no further tests. One hundred of these units of strontium 90 concentration are considered the maximum permissible level for an entire population, and 1000 is the maximum permitted for atomic energy workers.

Studies in other parts of the country indicate that the level would never be more than 15 micro-micro curies in any part of the United States, he said.

"Nothing in the tests scheduled in the last year would drastically alter these conclusions," Dr. Eisenbud added.

Strontium 90 levels sometimes are measured in absolute amounts, in which case the tolerance level is 0.1 microcurie for an average individual. Eisenbud, however, used measurements in terms of ratio to body calcium, which is in micro-micro-curies.

Chairman Chet Holifield (Dem.), California, observed that the average mother might not be accustomed to thinking in terms of micro-micro-curies. He asked whether Dr. Eisenbud felt any hesitation in letting his own children drink as much milk as they wanted that was produced on the New York milkshed that he had studied.

"No, sir. None at all," Dr. Eisenbud replied.

Effect of Russian Test.

Dr. Kulp, presenting detailed figures on bone concentrations of strontium 90 in various countries, concluded that the world-wide level for children up to 4 years old was .43 micro-micro-curies in 1955 and .52 in 1956.

He estimated that at least half of the additional strontium-90 fallout in the last year resulted from Russian tests.

Future tests at the present rate, Dr. Kulp said, would result in an average concentration of 24 micro-micro-curies in the United States and 8 in the entire world, compared to the 100-unit maximum permissable concentration for an entire population.

He said he did not know what levels would result from an increase in the rate of testing. But he dismissed the whole problem of fallout from weapon tests as "completely trivial" compared to the radiation that would be inevitable in a nuclear war.

At the outset of today's session, Holifield accused the Atomic Energy Commission of "violating its own rules" in issuing a statement about the possibility of "clean" atomic bombs. Holifield reaffirmed his faith in testimony earlier this week that there is no such thing as a "clean" nuclear bomb—one that is free from radioactive fallout.

The AEC statement last night said AEC success toward developing "cleaner weapons" had "convinced us that widespread hazard fallout is not a necessary complement to the employment of large nuclear weapons."

Graves's View Accepted.

Dr. Alvin C. Graves, of the AEC's Los Alamos scientific laboratory, had testified earlier in the hearings that some nuclear bombs were dirtier than others but that "complete cleanliness is impossible to achieve."

Today, Holifield said: "The testimony of Dr. Graves will stand in the record of these hearings as the opinion of the man most qualified to give an opinion on the cleanness or dirtiness of atomic weapons." He added that additional testimony would be heard on this subject.

Holifield said he would not get into a controversy at this time over whether clean bombs can be produced.

He did say, however, the AEC had violated its rules by not submitting the press release, issued last night, to the joint

BOARD OF ESTIMATE BARS DEPARTMENT HEADS FROM FILLING JOB VACANCIES

ROBERT B. ANDERSON

Robert B. Anderson Nominated to Be Successor — Burgess to Get New Post.

WASHINGTON, May 29 (UP)—Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey resigned today. President Eisenhower nominated Robert B. Anderson, former Secretary of the Navy, as his successor.

Humphrey's resignation will become effective at a date no later than the close of the current congressional session.

The White House disclosed also that Randolph Burgess, now Under Secretary of Treasury, would leave his present post to accept another Government appointment. The White House declined to say what Burgess's new assignment would be.

Announcing Humphrey's resignation to the House, Representative Clarence Cannon (Dem.), Missouri, said the resignation "is significant as a commentary on the fiscal policies of this Administration." He added: "It is the beginning of a general exodus from the Cabinet."

Humphrey's departure from the Government has been expected for some time.

He informed the President that he had to give up Government service as a matter of "absolute necessity" because of the illness and recent retirement from business of one of his former partners.

Humphrey has been reported to be in line to succeed Ernest T. Weir as chairman of the board of National Steel Co. Weir, 81 years old, resigned several weeks ago.

The President had known for two years that Humphrey planned to step out of the Cabinet, but the actual decision had

ALSO RESTRICTS REQUISITIONS FOR MATERIALS UNTIL FUND CRISIS ENDS

Order Effective Now — Aldermen Meet but Fail to Discuss Fiscal Problems — Adjourn Until Friday.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment today ordered city department heads not to fill vacancies in their departments and limited requisitions to essential materials and supplies, in an effort to cope with the city's deepening financial crisis.

In a directive to all departments, both city-controlled and state-controlled, the city's fiscal body said that effective immediately, "No employe vacancies shall be filled and no new employes shall be added to the city payroll." The directive applies to all city-financed departments except police.

"No requisitions shall be placed for other than essential materials and supplies," the order continued, "and no requisitions shall be placed against anticipated appropriations in the 16 Account (furniture and fittings), 17 Account (apparatus and other departmental equipment) and the three special purpose accounts."

The directive, signed by the three members of the estimate board, closed with the statement that any exceptions to the above orders must be cleared with the board through the comptroller's office.

Poelker Statement.

The action of the estimate board had been forecast in a statement today by Comptroller John H. Poelker, who said that while he had no authority to order personnel reductions, he would attempt to keep the payroll from growing.

The Board of Aldermen met today but did not discuss the financial problems facing the city. After the introduction of several bills, the board adjourned until Friday at 11 a.m.

When the aldermen reconvene Friday, they will have before them bills to increase city taxes on gasoline and on cigarettes. The ways and means committee decided today to report these measures to the Board without recommendation.

Committee Chairman William C. Brady said the action did not constitute an indorsement of the bills, both sponsored by the estimate board. He said no suspension of rules will be sought, which means the board of aldermen would not act on the bills until Saturday.

Under the measure, the tax on cigarettes would be increased from two to three cents a package, and the tax on gasoline from one to three cents a gallon. The two would bring in an additional $3,380,000 in the last nine months of the fiscal year, it has been estimated.

Schubkegel's Warning.

The Estimate Board was told yesterday by Budget Director E. B. Schubkegel that sharp cuts in municipal services would be necessary unless the aldermen pass measures to supply about $5,000,000 in additional revenue.

Schubkegel said a slash of 17.5 per cent would be needed to trim the proposed $59,635,000 budget to anticipated revenue of $54,000,000.

In a personal appearance before the aldermen, Poelker warned that funds for salaries and supplies might have to be cut up to 25 per cent for the second half of the year, unless additional revenue is forthcoming.

At the estimate board meeting, Poelker raised the question whether the board, having suggested new taxes which the aldermen rejected, should continue to meet on the financial crisis.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker, another member of the estimate board, replied that body would have to meet and deal with the problem. He added there would be no across-the-board cut because any reductions in personnel would have to be made in accordance with civil service procedures.

Poelker, who is operating at present under an authorization from the Board of Aldermen, has only his own judgment to guide him in approving expenditures, since he has no budget.

Property Tax Rejected.

An estimate board recommendation for a 14-cent increase in the tax rate on real and personal property already has been turned down by the board of aldermen. It was estimated this tax, had it been approved, would have produced about $1,900,000.

With the expiration last Monday of a deadline for higher taxes on real and personal

HEAVY U.S. LOSS IN NICKEL PLANT TAX WRITE-OFF

Estimated at $10,000,000—Decision to Reject Loan, Grant Tax Break Questioned.

By GEORGE H. HALL
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 29—The question of whether the Government erred in awarding the Freeport Sulphur Co. a fast tax write-off certificate to encourage the production of nickel and in rejecting a preliminary proposal to grant a loan to a Bethlehem Steel Co. subsidiary for the same purpose was discussed before a congressional committee yesterday.

Senator A. Willis Robertson (Dem.), Virginia, chairman of the joint committee on defense production, estimated the Government took a price loss of slightly more than $34,000,000 in giving the contract to Freeport Sulphur, which also agreed to furnish cobalt to the government.

Committee counsel Harold Warren pointed out, however, that the figures Robertson read were based on previous market prices. On the basis of current market prices the loss would be about $10,000,000, he said.

The committee failed to explore the fundamental reasons for the government choice of Freeport over Bethlehem. Robertson indicated further hearings would be held after additional staff studies.

Some Hint of Reasons.

Some suggestion of the reasons, which were considered in the cabinet-level Defense Mobilization Board, were offered to the committee, however, by Charles Kendall, general counsel of the Office of Defense Mobilization.

Kendall said Bethlehem proposed to handle the matter through a Cuban subsidiary corporation which would not pay taxes to the United States. The Cuban corporation would need

MATTHEWS SAYS HE WILL SEEK 4C COUNTY TAX RISE

Would Be Used for Voting Machine Storage Building, 10 More Policemen.

St. Louis County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews said today he would recommend a 4-cent increase in the county real estate and personal property tax rate for the general revenue fund, raising the tax from 28 to 32 cents for each $100 assessed property valuation.

Matthews was prepared to submit the proposal at a meeting of the county council this afternoon, with the annual budget in its revised and final form.

The 4-cent rise would be alloted as follows: 3 cents, for one year only, to produce about $325,000 for construction of a building in which to store voting machines, and 1 cent for 10 additional policemen, to bring the total to 98.

The revised budget calls for $10,229,145—a record amount—divided as follows: General fund, $5,157,089; road and bridge fund, $1,776,821; hospital maintenance, $1,936,617; health center, $826,302; park maintenance, $532,315.

A 4-cent increase would make the total county tax rate 87 cents.

The county now has $767,681 available for further appropriation, Matthews reported to the council. Of that, he said, $228,684 is needed for the police department, which had been financed for only eight months, and $250,000 should be set aside for a property assessment reappraisal program now delayed by a court test.

The supervisor added that $115,168 is needed by the office of the assessor, $58,540 to reimburse offices from which money was transferred to pay for an election, and $50,000 for the probation and juvenile departments.

Matthews said the council should plan to ask the Legislature for authority to levy additional taxes other than those on property.

Paint Pot Silences Big Ben, Chimes Work Fast to Catch Up

LONDON, May 29 (AP)—Big Ben got stuck on a pot of paint last night, and for an hour and a half life in Britain just was not what it ought to be.

The chimes of the giant clock which stands atop the tower of the Houses of Parliament failed to sound at 9 o'clock. That is the hour when the booming bongs are supposed to be broadcast throughout the country to mark the start of the 9 o'clock news, which is as much part of the Englishman's life as his cup of tea.

An excited delegation scurried up the stairs to investigate and found a pot of paint, left over by a workman, jammed against the counter-weight of the clock's hour hand.

It was 90 minutes before things got back to normal. Then the chimes let go with a rush, sounding out all the missing hours, until it caught up with itself at 10:15 p.m.

ADENAUER SAYS W. GERMANY IS NOT INCLUDED IN OPEN SKY PLAN

Leaving Washington With Assurances That Unification of Reich Will Precede Any Big Arms Cut.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 29 — Chancellor Adenauer is leaving Washington today with firm assurances from President Eisenhower that reunification of West and East Germany will be achieved before any comprehensive disarmament agreement is reached with the Soviet Union.

The 81-year-old head of the Federal Republic of Germany told a press conference late yesterday that the "first step" disarmament negotiations being held in London would not include aerial inspection of West German territory, as had been intimated.

In amplification of a joint communique issued by Mr. Eisenhower and himself, he said such reciprocal inspection of Germany and the rest of Europe would have to wait for a "comprehensive agreement" with the Soviet Union.

4-Power Conference.

Before an over-all agreement is reached after "initial steps succeed," the communique said, the German Chancellor told the President that the time would be appropriate for a four-power conference of the United States, Britain, France and Soviet Russia on the reunification of Germany.

The general disarmament, the communique said, "must necessarily presuppose a prior solution of the problem of German unification."

Adenauer told the press conference the initial steps for disarmament should be between the United States and the Soviet Union "alone," adding that "one should not forget they may take years."

The Chancellor's press conference remarks were interpreted here as a limitation on the new instructions Harold E. Stassen, the President's disarmament negotiator, has for his talks in London and, more recently, in Paris.

The West German elections will be held Sept. 15 and Adenauer's control of the West German republic is at stake. The main issue between his Christian Democratic Union and the Social Democrat party is reunification of Germany. According to German press reports, Adenauer was fearful before he came to Washington that the London negotiations for "partial disarmament" might include recognition of a divided Germany.

The official communique and the Chancellor's unofficial remarks at the National Press Club were designed to emphasize that the United States would not do anything to endanger Adenauer's re-election.

No Signs of Fatigue.

At the press conference, the venerable chancellor revealed why he has been called "the Fox." He showed no marks of fatigue from his strenuous round of official conferences and related social activities during the last five days and his humor held up during the 40 minutes of sharp questioning by foreign and American correspondents.

Dressed in a double-breasted blue suit, which didn't quite fit, with a diplomat's gray tie that did not conceal the gold button holding his stiff white collar, he appeared completely at ease before the microphones.

The session was modeled after the President's conference, with reporters identifying themselves before putting their questions. The difference was that an interpreter sat at a nearby table to take down the questions and give them to the Chancellor, who spoke in German. The interpreter then translated Adenauer's remarks into English.

It was apparent the Chancellor understood most of the questions as spoken. The first was a reporter's observation that the joint communique was a "political as well as a diplomatic document" and a question, did the Chancellor think it enhanced his chances of re-election?

With a smile, Adenauer said in German he thought he understood the question but would have it translated to give him time to think up an answer. This brought laughs from the 200 reporters.

Adenauer first replied that his election chances did not need to be enhanced because they were already so good.

Then, saying he would leave jokes aside, he gave a long answer to the effect that while the communique was in a sense both diplomatic and political it had been issued as "an historic document" because it was an attempt to get the Soviet Union to agree to disarmament.

As the conference proceeded, Adenauer made frequent gestures, sometimes a chopping motion with both hands, like former President Truman's.

It was obvious he had the German elections always in mind. The Social Democratic opposition favors greater trade with Red China and Soviet satellites and when Adenauer was asked whether he favored world-wide relaxation of restraints on trade with Communist China, he said the free world's approach should be "careful and cautious."

"One day the Red Chinese say they are independent of Russia," he remarked, "and the next day they make visits to Moscow. At present it is not possible to form a firm opinion about their intentions."

Asked by the Post-Dispatch whether he wanted the new German army equipped with atomic weapons, he said that until a general disarmament agreement is reached all the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries "must be equipped with the best and most modern arms so they will be in a position to deter aggression." He added, however, that the United States has laws which say that atomic weapons must remain in the custody of the United States and that what Germany would do with such weapons would depend on what other states do.

The Social Democrats are critical of West Germany's part in NATO and have advocated withdrawal as a gesture to get Russian acceptance of reunification.

Adenauer told reporters his country would fulfill its obligations to NATO and that any reduction in manpower of the German forces would have to come under the comprehensive disarmament agreement.

This was amplification of the communique.

At the press session, Adenauer was asked what he thought about NATO defense in view of the British decision to withdraw a large part of their forces.

Here again, the professional politician and veteran diplomat replied:

"As you know, ladies and gentlemen, it was at my request that Gen. Norstad (supreme commander of NATO) was asked to make a study of the British decision. This study will take till mid-summer and then he will report to the NATO council of ministers later in the year."

He gave a long and serious answer when asked whether he would comment on aerial inspection of West Germany, believed to have been one of the items of Stassen's possible proposals. Adenauer himself had indicated in a speech of May 15 that there was such a possibility if it did not prejudice the cause of Germany unification.

His latest position was that such a partial first step "would not serve a useful purpose" in a test of Russian intentions and would have to come under the comprehensive agreement.

"It (the German inspection) would have to cover other European states," he pointed out, "and this would require consent of the various parliaments concerned. Even with the goodwill of all, it would take some time."

He said that such inspection had not been discussed with President Eisenhower and he though the American Government had no intention of bringing it up. He did not make clear whether he meant bringing the question up in his own conferences with the President or at the London negotiations.

Throughout the news conference, Adenauer stressed the necessity of creating a "political climate" so the sincerity of the Russians could be tested.

This explained in part the apparent differences between Stassen's view that it would take months to get Russian agreement to partial disarmament and Adenauer's statement that it would be years before there would be a comprehensive agreement after German reunification had been achieved.

Adenauer's view was that Russian sincerity for a "partial agreement" had to be tested, presumably for several years, and that the real test would come on Russian willingness to permit free elections in East Germany on the question of unification.

Seaton Reaffirms Misgivings Over Idaho Power Write-Off Testifies FPC Record Shows Tax Aid Is Not Needed to Build Snake River Dams.

WASHINGTON, May 29 (UP) —Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton said today he had "grave misgivings" over the granting by the Office of Defense Mobilization of fast tax write-off certificates to the Idaho Power Co. for construction of two Pacific Northwest dams.

Seaton said that "the record before the Federal Power Commission established clearly" that the certificates were not necessary to the construction by the power firm of the Brownlee and Oxbow dams on the Snake river.

The FPC recently licensed the company to build the projects in preference to a single federal multi-purpose in Hell's canyon. Democrats favored the federal dam.

Called by Senators.

Seaton was called to testify at a Senate judiciary subcommittee investigation into the controversial tax write-off benefits given to Idaho Power.

At an earlier hearing, Defense Mobilizer Gordon Gray acknowledged that he approved the write-offs despite a March 11 letter from Seaton urging that they be denied.

"I had grave misgivings concerning the granting of these certificates because Idaho Power had stressed that its proposed development was to be accomplished without any cost to the United States," Seaton testified.

He said also that he felt "the company did not expect tax certificates in making its plans for development of these units."

Seaton said he recognizes "full well" that Gray had authority to approve the write-off "without my concurrence." He said he had "no criticism" of Gray because "he exercised his best judgment as it appeared to him under authority vested in him."

"Nevertheless, I reiterate that I did recommend against issuance of the certificates and would do so again," Seaton said. "In my opinion such certificates should not be granted without a showing of financial need."

Invalidation Discussed.

By the Associated Press.

Congress may be asked to invalidate the tax write-off granted to Idaho Power.

Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.), New Hampshire, said the question of whether to offer legislation which would rescind the write-off had been discussed at two major Republican meetings yesterday.

He said the topic came up at a conference between President Eisenhower and Republican congressional leaders, and also at a session of the Senate Republican Policy Committee. No decision was reached. Bridges is chairman of the Policy Committee.

Adding to this new public-vs.-private power controversy, Senator Wayne Morse (Dem.), Oregon, charged in a Senate speech that the Administration had "suppressed" the Seaton letter.

In attacking the write-off, Morse said the case is "a shocking story of political immorality." He said "the White House staff and Gray decided to put the lid of secrecy" on Seaton's letter.

He specifically named Presidential Aids Sherman Adams and Howard Pyle.

"We are building up another Dixon-Yates," Morse asserted. "The President should start cleaning house because the case leads right to his door. If he is not responsible for Adams, Pyle and Gray, who is?"

The Dixon-Yates power controversy centered over a 1954 contract the Atomic Energy Commission made with the Dixon-Yates power combine to build a steam plant near West Memphis, Ark., and feed power into the Tennessee Valley Authority system.

The contract subsequently was canceled after it was disclosed that a New York financier had acted as an adviser to both the Government and the utility interests in the deal.

Rainy Year, Texas Style.

AUSTIN, Tex., May 29 (AP)— So far this year Texas already has had about one-third more rainfall than during the entire year 1956—a drouth year. From Jan. 1 to May 27, the 12 cities recorded 300 inches of rainfall compared with about 195 inches for last year.

$33,562,725,000 FOR U.S. DEFENSE VOTED BY HOUSE

394-to-1 Vote Sends Bill to Senate $2,565,275,000 Below Eisenhower's Request.

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) The House today brushed aside President Eisenhower's protests that the amount was too little, and voted $33,562,725,000 for the armed services and Defense Department.

The bill was passed on a roll call vote of 394 to 1. The only dissenting vote was cast by Representative Gordon Canfield (Rep.), New Jersey.

House passage of the bill—carrying $2,565,275,000 less than the President had asked for—gave to the Senate the measure and the contention by Mr. Eisenhower that at least $1,200,000,000 more is essential to the nation's security.

Before the vote on final passage, the House rejected 242 to 151 on a roll call a Republican motion that the bill be returned to committee with instructions for it to add $313,000,000.

This vote capped a series of losses by the Republicans on standing votes in which they tried to add various amounts to the bill.

Republican leaders had pinned their hopes on the possibility that some members who voted against the increases on the standing votes might go the other way when a roll call (recording the members by name) was taken.

Republicans made no effort to restore the entire $1,200,000 Mr. Eisenhower had asked for. In their fight to recapture a smaller sum they were joined by a few Democrats but failed to win the backing of some Republicans.

Voting for the motion to send the bill to committee with instructions to add additional money were 11 Democrats and 140 Republicans. Opposing the motion were 203 Democrats and 39 Republicans.

The new funds are for use during the fiscal year starting July 1.

In turning back the Republican drive to boost the funds, the House followed the recommendations of its appropriations committee, some of whose members admitted that about $1,300,000,000 of the reduction was of the bookkeeping variety and $1,200,000,000 an actual cash cut.

It was the eleventh appropriation bill passed this year by the House and boosted to slightly more than four billion dollars the amount trimmed from total presidential requests.

In a last-minute action, the House voted to add $21,500,000 to the bill as the Air Force share of initial conts of establishing a new civil air navigation and control system in the United States.

NATO ALLIES SAID TO BACK MUTUAL AIR INSPECTION

Stassen and France's Moch Report to Council on London Disarmament Parley's Progress.

PARIS, May 29 (UP)—The United States and France filled in their allies of the 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization today on the London disarmament talks with Russia.

It was understood the Allies would readily agree to mutual aerial inspection of NATO and Communist-bloc countries.

Formal agreement was not sought, informed sources said. Nor was it possible, since the permanent ambassadors of the NATO council have no power to commit their governments.

However, informed sources said talks at the United Nations disarmament subcommittee meetings in London had reached a stage where the Western powers on the subcommittee felt it was time to consult their NATO allies formally.

Represented at the London talks are four NATO powers—Britain, France, Canada and the United States — and one Communist power, Russia.

Others Included.

tual aerial inspection would include not only these powers, but such NATO nations as West Germany, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Denmark and Norway as well.

Harold E. Stassen and Jules Moch, respectively the American and French delegates to the London arms talks, came here today to outline progress of those sessions to the regular weekly NATO council meeting.

As usual, the council kept secret what went on, restricting itself to a brief communique afterward saying Moch and Stassen "brought the permanent council up to date on the present state of the problem of reduction and control of armaments."

British Prime Minister Macmillan called his cabinet into session today to study the new United States disarmament plan and West Germany's call for a four-power foreign ministers conference.

France was reported leading NATO opposition to the American plan on the grounds the proposal would give the United States, Britain and Russia a monopoly of atomic and hydrogen bomb production.

Moch has said both during the recent London conferences of the five member U.N. disarmament subcommittee and in public speeches that France does not want to build atomic or hydrogen bombs.

But he has said France has the scientists, means and materials to build nuclear weapons and will be unable to renounce the right to do so unless the nations that now build them can reach agreement on barring further construction.

Moch also has said France does not ask the three nuclear powers to do away with their nuclear bombs immediately because he feels such a bar could not be enforced.

Despite Moch's statement that "there are no objections" to the American plan now, it has stirred opposition in French political circles. Recently a group of Senators voiced their objections on grounds it would cut France out of the nuclear armaments field. They asked the Mollet government to explain why Moch had not raised similar objections.

Variation of Plan.

Stassen came back from Washington Monday with the latest United States variation on the Eisenhower open skies inspection plan which would subject at least eight NATO nations to surveillance by the Russians.

He flew here last night to consult with the NATO council while the disarmament subcommittee adjourned for the second time in two weeks to let Stassen make consultations abroad.

Stassen has not yet filled in the London meeting on the full details of the plan and it was understood he would do so only if the North Atlantic allies give their approval.

The United States has made it clear it will accept no disarmament or inspection proposals affecting other nations without the approval of those nations.

London newspapers hinted today the new United States initiative in the disarmament field may bring about another meeting this fall of the leaders of Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States.

Yesterday's Washington announcement that agreement on partial disarmament should be followed by a Big Four foreign ministers meeting was reported to be the first step toward a "summit" conference. The last such meeting was at Geneva, Switzerland, in 1955, when President Eisenhower first proposed his open skies plan. Russia since has hinted several times it would like another conference.

SEC WANTS NO PART IN POLICING PENSION FUNDS

Members Tell Senators Job Would Be More Appropriate for Labor Department.

WASHINGTON, May 29— Members of the Securities Exchange Commission said today they did not consider their agency the proper one to police the administration of the nation's multi-million dollar pension and welfare funds.

Apparently taking a hint from the Administration, which advocates that the job be placed in the hands of the Secretary of Labor, they made it clear that, while they thought full disclosure of the operation of the funds was desirable as a means of preventing abuses, they did not want the job.

Appearing before the special Senate subcommittee on welfare and pension legislation headed by Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem.), Massachusetts, Andrew Downey Orrick, acting SEC chairman, said, "My personal opinion is that it would be inappropriate for the SEC to undertake this function. We are not requesting it."

The Senators then asked two commissioners seated with the acting chairman whether the SEC should be the controlling agency in the proposed welfare and pension fund legislation.

Commissioner Earl F. Hastings said it would be "foreign to our normal functions." Commissioner James Sargent responded that the assignment "would not be appropriate."

Under a bill proposed by Senator Paul Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, managers of health and welfare pension funds, whether representing management, labor or both, would be required to report in full to the SEC on all financial aspects of their handling of the funds. The SEC would be authorized to investigate the reports and institute criminal proceedings if falsification or embezzlement were discovered.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, speaking for the Administration, Monday embraced virtually all of the provisions of the Douglas bill in one bearing the indorsement of the Administration, but he contended that the responsible authority should be the Secretary of Labor, rather than the SEC.

Kennedy commented that, while the SEC has extensive experience in dealing with investments, an important part of the proper management of welfare funds, the Labor Department has none.

U.S. PLANS TO PUT MISSOURI UNDER SOYBEAN QUARANTINE

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) —The Agriculture Department said yesterday it plans to impose a quarantine on Missouri, North Carolina and Tennessee because of the presence in those states of the soybean cyst nematode, a plant pest.

The quarantine, which would restrict movement of affected materials from the state will go into effect 30 days from now. Interested persons were given 30 days in which to file any objections.

The pest has been found in Pemiscot and New Madrid counties in Missouri.

BINGO MEASURE ONE OF 37 BILLS STRICKEN FROM HOUSE CALENDAR

Speaker Hamlin Acts as Session End Nears — Little Opposition Expressed to Dropping Proposals.

By EDWARD H. THORNTON
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 29—A bill to permit bingo games for the benefit of charities was one of 37 measures stricken from the calendar today by Speaker Roy Hamlin (Dem.) Hannibal, as the official end of the 1957 session drew near.

There was little or no argument as Hamlin struck off the bills, some of which would have stirred up considerable debate.

Among the other proposals stricken from the calendar bills to: permit the Governor to succeed himself; require an industry to hire a Negro if his qualifications were greater than those of a white applicant for the same job; give Negroes equality in restaurants, hotels, dance halls and other public places; regulate radio and television repairmen, and set up a so-called "labor czar" by making the Director of the State Department of Labor & Industrial head of all state labor agencies.

Pollution Bill Passed.

The House passed and sent to Gov. James T. Blair a Senate-approved bill creating a six-member, bipartisan state water pollution board to curb contamination of rivers, lakes and streams in the state. The Governor said he would sign the measure.

The measure, similar to bills considered but not passed in previous sessions of the Legislature, was approved 115 to 14 after repeated attempts by members of the St. Louis delegation to exempt St. Louis from its provisions.

The water pollution board, members of which would be appointed by the Governor, would have power to fix standards of water purity and to prevent municipalities and industry from polluting the streams through uncontrolled discharge of raw sewage and industrial wastes.

All industries and municipalities in Missouri would be required to obtain permits from the state board for discharge of wastes into lakes or streams. Alteration of sewage lines could be required by the board to prevent contamination of public waters.

Request by Tucker.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker of St. Louis had asked that the St. Louis area be excluded from the measure. He and representatives of the St. Louis Metropolitan Sewer District contended that the bill gave the state board power to force the sewer district to construct sewage treatment plants which would cost $150,000,000.

Representative Robert H. Frost (Dem.), Plattsburg, who handled the bill on the House floor, said that although the measure is not as strong as some that were introduced at previous legislative sessions, "it at least gives Missouri a start toward conserving our water resources for our children and grandchildren."

The first of the amendments proposed by members of the St. Louis delegation was submitted by Representative Daniel Curran (Dem.). It would have exempted all municipal sewage systems which empty into streams or lakes. It was defeated 102 to 14.

Another amendment offered, submitted by Representative Thomas A. Walsh (Dem.), St. Louis, would have exempted the Mississippi river from the measure, so far as dumping of wastes was concerned. Walsh pointed out that much of the contamination of the Mississippi results from cities and industrial plants in Illinois.

Walsh's amendment was beaten 83 to 17 and a subsequent change offered immediately by Representative Francis M. O'Brien (Rep.), St. Louis, to exempt the St. Louis Metropolitan Sewer District was quickly voted down 98 to 17.

Bill on Voting Passed.

The House also passed a Senate-approved proposal to amend the State Constitution to permit persons living in the state more than 60 days, but less than one year, to vote in the contests for President and Vice President of the United States. At present, a voter must be a resident of the state for at least one year to be eligible to vote.

The measure must go back to the Senate for concurrence in a corrective amendment adopted in the House. Another amendment proposed, which would have lowered the voting age from 21 to 18 years, was defeated 70 to 47.

If finally passed, the proposed constitutional amendment would be submitted to the voters at the general election in November 1958.

The Senate-approved bill, recommended by Gov. Blair, which would create a department of public safety and fire prevention was finally killed in the House yesterday when members defeated a motion by Representative Joseph W. Beckerle (Dem.), St. Louis, to have the measure placed on the calendar for consideration despite the report of a House committee recommending it be killed.

House members voted 58 to 53 against reinstating the bill, which was originally killed by Beckerle's Committee on Public Health last week by a vote of 7 to 5.

The proposed department would have had supervision over all nursing homes, hospitals and places of public assembly. It was recommended by the Governor following the fire at the Katie Jane Nursing Home in Warrenton last Feb. 17 in which 72 persons were killed.

EX-ST. LOUISAN IS CREWMAN ON MAYFLOWER II

Andrew J. Lindsay Jr. of St. Louis, who as a youth of 19 sailed around the world on a small sailing ship, is aboard the Mayflower II, en route from Plymouth, England, to Plymouth, Mass., the Post-Dispatch learned today.

Lindsay, son of Mrs. A. J. Lindsay, 362 Walton avenue, was taken aboard the modern-day Mayflower "at the last minute," his mother said. Although the crew of the sailing vessel is supposed to be entirely English, Lindsay, who knew the skipper of the ship, Alan Villiers, from the 1934-36 voyage, was taken aboard as a crewman.

Since his service with the Merchant Marine in World War II, Lindsay has been living at Bidderford Pool, Me., on the Atlantic Coast. His mother said he loves to sail and is an expert seaman.

To make the 57,000-mile voyage with Villiers in 1934, Lindsay left Country Day School a month before he was to graduate. Villiers reported by radio that his noon position yesterday was 450 miles from the West Indies. The Mayflower had sailed 142 miles in 24 hours.

PURPLE GALLINULE, TROPICAL BIRD, FOUND HURT HERE

A purple gallinule, a bird about the size of a coot or mud hen and a very rare sight in this part of the country, was turned over to the Humane Society of Missouri today by a St. Louis county resident who found it injured near Koch Hospital.

Miss Shirley Seiler, kennel superintendent, said the bird had an eye injury and a fractured skull. It may have struck a high tension wire, she said.

Miss Seiler turned the bird over to Martin Schweig Jr. of the St. Louis Audubon Society. He said it has a rich tropical appearance and its habitat is South and Central American swamps. Only on three previous occasions have purple gallinules been seen this far north. Schweig believes the bird may have wandered to this latitude in search of food.

The bird has long legs and extremely large feet, enabling it to walk on floating vegetation. It can swim like a duck, but its feet are not webbed. It is an awkward flyer. Schweig is caring for the injured bird on a screened-in porch at his home, 4648 Maryland avenue.

SAILOR SAYS HE KILLED OFFICER DUE TO GRUDGE

Ensign Had Reported Watch Theft Leading to Seaman's Court-Martial.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29 (AP)—Naval psychiatrists today will question a normally mild seaman about a six-hour armed mutiny yesterday in which one officer was killed and another seriously wounded.

Seaman Jimmie L. Henderson of Martin City, Calif., said he killed the officer aboard the transport Uvalde because he was convicted of stealing a $30 watch. The 21-year-old prisoner talked freely to newspapermen before he was taken under guard to Oak Knoll Naval Hospital in Oakland.

The sailor slugged a guard on the Uvalde at a Treasure Island dock in San Francisco bay, seized his automatic and killed Ens. Arthur L. Morris, of Stow, O.

Accuses Officer.

"He caused all the trouble," Henderson said. He asserted Morris had reported Henderson stole a watch. The sailor said he found it. Henderson was convicted at a court-martial Monday, sentenced to four months at hard labor, and demoted from disbursing clerk 3C to seaman.

Shot three times because "he was in the way" was Ens. Richard D. Harrison, Grand Rapids, Mich., Morris's cabin mate. He was Henderson's defense counsel.

The killer said "I feel like Mr. Morris needed it." Henderson said his grudge was over the watch incident.

For eight months he had worked directly under Morris, who was both the ship's paymaster and legal officer.

After the shooting Henderson fled to the bridge with a hostage. There for more than six hours he stood at bay while trying to make up his mind to surrender or shoot.

Sailor Covered.

Watching him from the bridge, the ship's mast and the dock were many sailors and marines armed with riot guns or pistols.

"We could have killed him a thousand times," said the ship's master, Capt. Robert O. Beer of San Mateo, Calif., "all I would have to do was to say 'shoot him' and he would be dead."

Henderson's mother, two chaplains, the marine commander on Treasure Island naval base, the captain, two M.P. sergeants and others argued with Henderson to give up peaceably.

He finally surrendered on the promise he would be taken from the ship as the personal prisoner of marine Col. E. M. Williams, and be given both civilian and naval counsel.

"He tried to kill himself," said his mother, Margaret Henderson, "but I said to him, 'Don t you do that.,"

After hours of pleading, argument and cross-fire of questions, Henderson handed the death weapon to Comdr. Herman J. Schnurr, senior chaplain at the base.

CONFEREES GET BUSY ON STATE FUND MEASURES

Legislature Off Dead Center, but Fights Over Appropriations Are Still Possible.

By HERBERT A. TRASK
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 29—Senate-House conferees, with conflicting instructions, worked today to perfect the state's $500,000,000 budget bills, which they expect to have ready in time for consideration by the two houses before the mandatory adjournment deadline at midnight Friday.

The conference committee on appropriations was appointed yesterday, thus moving the Legislature off dead center after almost a week of bickering over a technicality. The conferees worked three hours last night and will work through the holiday tomorrow if necessary.

Observers here pointed out, however, that the fact that a joint committee to consider the state's money bills has been appointed does not preclude the possibility of bitter fights in both houses when the perfected bills are presented for passage. In the past, there have been last-minute struggles on specific appropriations.

What Bills Provide.

The conference committee is ironing out differences between Senate and House versions of six major bills, several of them controversial. They are for the operation of various state agencies in the 1957-58 fiscal year, beginning July 1. One of the controversial measures is the so-called omnibus appropriations bill, which contains a request for a supplemental $9,000,000 allotment for old-age pensions.

An initial step toward ending the Senate-House dispute was the calling of a caucus of Democratic members of the House late yesterday. Gov. James T. Blair addressed the group, telling it that "the people want the work done now." He added that "unless the difference was settled, it would have a serious effect on the state's majority party."

Following this, the House met and passed by voice vote a motion asking the Senate for a conference. The request contained no limitations. Senate leaders agreed immediately and five conferees were appointed.

The Senate action was reported back to the House and Speaker Roy Hamlin (Dem.), Hannibal, named five House conferees.

Then, Representative Thomas D. Graham (Dem.), Jefferson City, leader in the House fight to limit the work of the conferees, moved that the House members of the committee be instructed to:

Vote as a unit; not add any new matter to the appropriation bills and not to increase any figures over those of the House or Senate versions of the bills, whichever is higher; cut any appropriations they see fit, and to resolve differences between the House and Senate versions.

No Senate Instructions.

When his motion was passed, Graham succeeded in binding the House conferees. The instructions, however, have no effect on Senate members of the conference committee. The Senate gave them no instructions.

Senator Floyd R. Gibson (Dem.), Independence, speaker pro tem, was asked if, in his opinion, the Senate had backed down from its earlier stand demanding an unrestricted conference.

He said it had not, for the reason that Graham's motion Monday asking for a Senate conference had contained instructions to the House members. Had the Senate accepted it, the upper house would have recognized the validity of the instructions to House conferees, he said. Yesterday the Senate approved only an unlimited and unrestricted conference "and does not recognize, therefore, the validity of the House instructions," he said.

Senate conferees on the committee are Senators John W. Noble, Kennett, chairman of the Appropriations Committee; George A. Spencer, Columbia, majority floor leader, and Gibson, all Democrats, and Hartwell G. Crain, St. Louis county, and Leo J. Rozier, Perryville, Republicans.

House members are Representatives Joseph W. Martino, St. Louis, chairman of the Appropriations Committee; Richard H. Ichord, Houston, speaker pro tem, and Paul Berra, St. Louis, all Democrats, and Representatives Samuel B. Murphy, Kirkwood, and Robert E. Young, Carthage.

After last night's session, Senator Noble reported the conferees "got along fine." He said he anticipates no great difficulty in "ferreting" out the differences between the two versions of the bills.

Parades, Religious Services Will Mark Memorial Day Observance

5000 to Be in Downtown Procession Starting at 2:30 P.M. — Stores and Offices Will Be Closed.

Parades and religious services will be held in the St. Louis area tomorrow, marking Memorial day and honoring those who were killed in the nation's wars.

The Weather Bureau forecast warm weather for tomorrow with a few scattered afternoon or evening thundershowers.

Schools, public offices and most businesses will be closed for the day, a legal holiday in Missouri. There will be no collection of mail, and only special delivery letters will be delivered. Lock box service will be provided, however, at the downtown post offices.

A spokesman for the Associated Retailers of St. Louis, representing downtown department stores and many specialty shops, said none of the stores would be open tomorrow. Thursday's hours will be observed Friday with stores opening at 9:30 a.m. and closing at 8:30 p.m.

A parade of about 5000 persons in 138 military, veterans and other groups will be the major downtown event tomorrow.

The parade will start at 2:30 p.m. at Twelfth boulevard and Washington avenue and procede east in Washington to Sixth street, south to Locust street, west to Twelfth, south to Chestnut and west past Soldiers' Memorial.

Services will be held at the memorial, with Brig. Gen. William B. Bunker, commander of the Army Transportation Supply and Maintenance Command here, as speaker. Music will be provided by a Scott Air Force Base band. The downtown observance is sponsored by the Disabled American Veterans.

A morning memorial service will be held tomorrow at Jefferson Barracks under sponsorship of the Jefferson Barracks Inter-Veterans Memorial Day Service Committee. There will be a procession starting at 10:10 a.m. from the barracks railroad station to the cemetery, with services there starting at 10:45.

Chief speaker will be Col. John F. Daniels of Scott Air Force Base, staff chaplain of the Air Training Command. He will be introduced by St. Louis County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews.

Other Memorial day observances will include the annual service of the St. Louis Councils of Jewish War Veterans and B'nai B'rith at 11 a.m. at Chevra Kadisha Cemetery, North and South road at Page boulevard, St. Louis county.

A memorial service for those who lost their lives at sea will be held at 4:30 p.m. tomorrow at the foot of Market street by the Memorial Association of Union Veterans of the Civil War. The Coast Guard will cast a raft bearing a wreath of flowers in the Mississippi river in memory of veterans of all services lost at sea.

TWO ALDERMEN FAIL TO DISPLAY AUTO STICKERS

Wayman Smith Forgot to Affix License — Got New Windshield, Says McDonald.

Two St. Louis aldermen acted to comply with an ordinance requiring display of city license stickers on windshields of automobiles after investigation yesterday disclosed their cars did not have the stickers on the windshields.

The aldermen, both of whom had bought stickers, are Wayman F. Smith Jr. (Dem.), Eighteenth ward, and Joseph B. McDonald (Rep.), Twenty-fifth ward. Smith said he had purchased stickers for two machines but had failed to affix them to the windshields until his attention was called to the ordinance. Through oversight, Smith had failed to renew one state automobile license which expired last month, he added.

McDonald said he had affixed the sticker to his car's windshield, but that the glass had been replaced by an insurance company last week after it had been marred by a pebble. He said he intends to obtain a duplicate sticker today.

Alderman Joseph F. Noel (Dem.), Twenty-seventh ward, who owns a farm and pays personal property taxes in St. Charles county, could not be reached to learn if he intends to display a St. Louis sticker on his machine. His tax payment in St. Charles county last year included an assessment on an automobile valued at $140.

Thomas W. Carmody, aldermanic parliamentarian, also did not have a sticker on his car yesterday. Mrs. Carmody said today the license, a replacement for one stolen earlier, is in the glove compartment.

INSURANCE FIRMS WILL PAY $800,000 IN DESLOGE AREA

More than $800,000 will be paid by fire insurance companies to restore insured homes and other buildings in the Desloge (Mo.) area damaged or destroyed by last week's tornadoes, Bennett G. Gregory, executive secretary of the Insurance Board of St. Louis, announced today.

Ten insurance adjusters were sent into the area immediately after the storms to expedite the claims resulting from the disaster. They opened offices in nearby Flat River and Bonne Terre. There were 500 separate insured losses in the area and 50 losses on which no insurance was carried. Desloge is 60 miles south of St. Louis.

HOSPITAL'S POWER FAILS; FLASHLIGHTS USED IN OPERATION

A tonsillectomy was finished with the aid of flashlights held by nurses following a power failure at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Granite City, yesterday afternoon. Several other scheduled operations were postponed.

Hospital authorities said the trouble was caused by a break in a circuit, and the failure of an emergency generator to function. Service was restored within two hours.

tion with private agencies "is of great importance."

He said "I am not going to pass judgment on the issue of the extent of such competition if it exists." But, Johnson said, "the point is that there is a definite apprehension of such competition from one of our largest and most respected agencies (United Press)."

Senator John Sherman Cooper (Rep.), Kentucky, asked if the restriction might not keep USIA from giving away American news to "hundreds" of smaller foreign papers which could not afford to buy it from United Press, International News Service or Associated Press.

Johnson said he did not share Cooper's fears.

The bill also includes funds for the State and Justice Departments, the federal courts and a cultural exchange program under the White House.

The $96,200,000 appropriation to run the propaganda agency in the 12 months starting July 1, was $47,800,000 less than President Eisenhower requested.

The House passed the compromise by voice vote.

The total bill, as it came from a House-Senate conference committee, was cut about 15 per cent below the President's budget requests. Its total, $562,891,293, was less than had been voted by either House or Senate, an unusual though not unprecedented situation.

The conferees kocked out a Senate amendment designed to curb USIA competition with private media and substituted language in the conference report which Representative John J. Rooney (Dem.), New York, said was even tougher.

Rooney, chairman of the House conferees, said the report would be binding on the agency in establishing "legislative intent."

The cut in USIA funds was one of the sharpest imposed on a major agency in recent years. It was applied after USIA came under criticism by members on both sides of the Capitol.

The compromise measure makes these allotments to the other departments:

State Department, $189,024,248, a cut of $38,690,309; Justice Department, $226,705,000, a cut of $7,950,000; Federal judiciary, $38,562,050, a cut of $2,218,200, and special funds for the President, $12,400,000, a cut of $6,100,000.

The Senate originally had voted $563,085,293 for all the agencies in the bill and the House voted $563,799,793.

MAN STABBED IN SCUFFLE NEAR TAVERN; SUSPECT HELD

Vero Bini, 4210 McPherson avenue, was stabbed seriously early today in a fight outside a tavern at 4119 Olive street, which he formerly owned.

Police were told that Bini, 43 years old, was stabbed with a pocket knife by James L. Wright, a construction worker, 2811 Pennsylvania, who had complained that someone had taken his pocket knife in the tavern. Bini and a friend were getting in an automobile when a scuffle with Wright took place.

Bini is in Homer G. Phillips Hospital with wounds of the abdomen, shoulder and arm. Wright, held at Newstead avenue station, told police he recovered the knife from Bini and used it in self-defense. He had been drinking.

THREE BELLEVILLE JAIL ESCAPEES HELD IN TEXAS

Three prisoners who escaped May 11 from the St. Clair county jail at Belleville have been arrested and are being held in Victoria, Tex., on charges of automobile theft and burglary, Sheriff Leonard O. Reinhardt of St. Clair county said today. He added that Texas authorities have informed him the three men will be returned to St. Clair county for prosecution.

They are: Carl R. Johnson, 19 years old, Rockford, Ill.; Martin Killgrove, 20, Centreville township, and Clifford Cox, 18, Fort Carson, Colo.

An automobile owned by a Belleville resident, reported stolen shortly after the escape, was found in Yorkville, Tex., with a burned-out engine, Sheriff Reinhardt was notified.

Today, Mr. Eisenhower told Humphrey that the actual receipt of his letter of resignation filled him with "profound regret."

"Yet because of your personal situation, which I fully understand, I, of course, accept your decision," the President said.

Leaving the effective date of the resignation up in the air, the President told Humphrey "there are a number of critical problems to be considered during this session" of Congress, and added:

"Until the bulk of these have been satisfactorily resolved, I deeply believe that your experience and the confidence that you enjoy everywhere in government will be great assets in reaching the best answers.

"Consequently, the date you turn over your duties to your successor, will, within the limits indicated, be dictated somewhat by circumstances."

Humphrey told the President that, in his remaining days of government service, he would be glad to assist in efforts to put the fiscal 1958 budget through Congress, particularly in the defense and mutual assistance areas.

When Mr. Eisenhower sent the $71,800,000,000 budget to Congress in January, Humphrey said there were a number of places where it could be cut. He also warned at the time that unless big Government spending was reduced in future years there would be a "depression that will curl your hair."

Humphrey had high praise for Anderson and said he knew that it was "his fixed determination to carry forward the plans and policies in our fiscal affairs which have guided us continually during the time that I have been here with you."

The President agreed. He wrote Humphrey in reference to Anderson: "So long as you must leave the post I can think of no other to whom I would rather trust the responsibilities of that office."

Close Friend of President.

Humphrey not only was a member of the President's official family, but a close friend as well. This was evidenced in Mr. Eisenhower's letter of acceptance.

"I cannot tell you what a sense of loss it is to Mamie and to me to know that you and Pam (Mrs. Humphrey) will shortly leave the intimate cabinet family," the President said.

On the official side of their relationship, Mr. Eisenhower expressed his gratitude for Humphrey's "extraordinary talents" in operation of the Treasury.

"It has been of real satisfaction to me that in working on these problems (of Government finance) we have invariably found our conclusions and convictions to be practically identical," the President said.

It was at Humphrey's Milestone plantation near Thomasville, Ga., that Mr. Eisenhower pondered his second term decision following his heart attack. The Eisenhowers have visited frequently at the plantation.

Humphrey has been Secretary of the Treasury since the Eisenhower Administration took office in January 1953. His resignation marked the fourth departure from the original Eisenhower Cabinet.

The late Martin P. Durkin quit as Secretary of Labor in a dispute over legislative recommendations. Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby resigned as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, and Douglas McKay resigned last year as Secretary of Interior to run, unsuccessfully, for the Senate from Oregon.

Anderson, a Texas Democrat for Eisenhower in 1952, served as Secretary of the Navy in 1953 and 1954. Later he was elevated to deputy secretary of defense, a post he held until late 1955.

Since leaving the government in 1955, Anderson has headed a Canadian mining and development firm known as Ventures, Ltd.

At the time Mr. Eisenhower sent his nomination to the Senate, Anderson was in Toronto at the Prince Edward Hotel, attending an annual stockholders meeting of his firm.

In 1956, he shifted his legal residence from Texas to New York and registered and voted Republican. He since has changed his legal residence to Deer Park, Greenwich, Conn.

Anderson has a long record in Texas politics. He served in the state legislature, as assistant state Attorney General, state tax commissioner and chairman of the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission.

While in Texas, he also was an attorney and general manager of the huge W. T. Waggoner estate.

Anderson Statement.

In a statement issued through the Treasury Anderson said he received the nomination "with humility."

"During my service as Secretary of the Navy and deputy secretary of defense," he said, "I came in close contact with the plans and policies which have guided President Eisenhower and Secretary Humphrey in the conduct of the Government's fiscal affairs.

"These principles I expect to carry forward in the firm belief that wise fiscal policies are basic to the continued security and strength of our nation both economically and militarily."

By the Associated Press.

Anderson, who will be 47 years old June 4, is some 20 years younger than Humphrey. The present Secretary was 67 last March 8.

The Ohio industrialist gave up a $300,000 annual income when he went to work for the Government at $22,500 a year. (Cabinet salaries were increased to $25,000 last year.)

"He has made his fortune," one of his aids said recently. "He doesn't need the money that private enterprise can give him. On the other hand, he has an intense loyalty to the people and the corporations with which he associated.

"They have convinced him he can do something for them. That's why he's going back."

Fallout Inquiry

committee 24 hours before its release.

A spokesman for the AEC told the Post-Dispatch that advance submission of agency statements to the commitee was "not a rule, but a practice we try to observe whenever practical."

Asked when the custom had not been observed previously, the spokesman said several months ago the AEC contradicted a report from Argentina that misrepresented the purpose of an AEC mission going to that country. "We had to throw down this report in a hurry, and there was no time to notify the committee," he explained.

Holifield said he was trying to hold "an objective and fair hearing" and that there would "of necessity be controversial opinions stated."

"This is as it should be in the scientific world," he observed.

Ship Accidents Considered.

An oceanographic expert warned yesterday than an accident involving an atomic-powered ship could contaminate a harbor dangerously. The witness, Dr. Roger Revelle of the Scripps Institute of Oceanography, warned also of possible dangers in using the ocean as a dumping ground for wastes from peacetime atomic plants.

"The number of collisions of merchant ships is surprisingly large," he told the subcommittee. "Some attention should certainly be paid to this problem."

Describing a hypothetical accident, he said it would be perfectly conceivable for a ship powered by a 50,000 kilowatt atomic reactor to collide with another ship in a harbor.

He asumed a harbor eight miles long by three miles wide and 50 feet deep. He assumed further that the atomic engine had been operating one year and thus had accumulated a substantial amount of fission products.

If an accident caused this radioactivity to be dumped into the harbor, he concluded, the water would be contaminated so that radiation at its surface would amount to the dangerous level of one-half a roentgen per day.

This would be more than 10 times the exposure rate permitted for workers in atomic industries in the United States.

Plans for Atomic Craft.

Holifield noted that Congress had authorized construction of an atomic merchant ship and three or four aircraft carriers and that atomic submarines were already operating.

Dr. Revelle made it clear that he was talking about peacetime ship accidents. He offered no solution.

As for disposal of radioactive wastes, Dr. Revelle expressed concern over the fact that most countries now operating nuclear plants are now dumping low-level wastes into the ocean.

"Probably the ocean can be used for disposal of wastes," he said. "But we first need to know a lot more than we do now about the movement of radioactivity, its transport by sea organisms, its uptake by plant and animal life in the ocean and the nature of the mixing process, particularly the relationship of the bottom muds to the upper levels of the ocean."

As an example of how a sea organism can accumulate radioactive material, Dr. Revelle said a clam picked up two years after the March 1, 1954, explosion of a thermonuclear device 80 miles from the test site showed a concentration of radioactive cobalt several hundred thousand times the concentration of surroundings ocean water.

Less of Hazard at Sea.

Other radioactive elements, he said, are avoided by some ocean organisms. This is one of several factors that make strontium 90 less of a hazard at sea than on land.

At least three-fourths of the strontium 90 produced by a bomb falls into the ocean. But ocean mixing dilutes it greatly. He said the concentration in sea water is only .5 per cent as great as in soil. The concentration in fish flesh is only .15 per cent of that in soil.

"The Japanese, who get much of their calcium intake from fish, are getting less strontium 90 than the people of Wisconsin," he concluded.

Holifield objected that the comparison "assumes that the same kind of tests were conducted in Wisconsin as those in the Pacific, so the whole thing is completely hypothetical."

Another witness, Dr. Lyle T. Alexander of the Department of Agriculture, cast some doubt on a statement by Atomic Energy Commissioner Willard F. Libby that calcium could be added to soils that were deficient in calcium and thus caused plants and animals to pick up greater amounts of the similar elements, strontium 90. Dr. Alexander said only moderate results could be achieved in this way.

High Radioactivity is Recorded in California Area.

SACRAMENTO, Calif., May 29 (UP)—A "tremendous reading" of radioactivity has been recorded in the Plumas county town of Quincy, the California Disaster Office said today.

But office director Stanley Pierson warned citizens of the community not to become panic-stricken, since the amount of radioactivity there "will not be fatal to human habitation."

Pierson said radiologist Paul Larios, a technician at the Plumas County Hospital, recorded the "tremendous reading on his Geiger counter" of 10,000 clicecks per minute. The number of clicks per minute by a counter when radioactivity is normal in an area is 40.

Aldermen

property, last year's rate on this type of property automatically went into effect for the current fiscal year.

Aldermanic President Donald Gunn, the third member of the estimate board, said that board would not prepare a revised budget. Any reduction in the proposed $59,635,000 budget will have to be made by the aldermen, he said. However, the estimate board will request Poelker to "put the brakes" on expenditures until the city's revenue position becomes clearer.

In predicting the need for a 17.5 per cent cut, Schubkegel warned this would entail curtailment of services, dismissal of personnel and deferred maintenance.

How Plan Would Work.

Here is the arithmetic of the situation as detailed to the estimate board:

Anticipated revenue will be $54,055,727. Of this amount, the city must disburse $18,573,580 to state departments, including the police, and $1,705,982 in fixed charges for an irreducible total of $20,279,563.

This leaves for city departments a balance of $33,776,164. However, Schubkegel pointed out, the estimate board had already approved $8,748,765 for supplies, materials and equipment considered the absolute minimum required to permit continuance of essential services.

When this sum is deducted from the $33,776,164 available for the city departments there is left $25,027,399 for salaries and special services. This figure is $5,309,262 less than the $30,336,661 which the estimate board had approved in the $59,635,000 budget submitted to the board of aldermen. Hence, the proposed budget must be reduced $5,309,262.

Mayor Tucker, speaking at a luncheon of the Scottish Rite Club today at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 3637 Lindell boulevard, laid responsibility for solving the city's financial crisis squarely in the hands of the Board of Aldermen.

The board can levy additional taxes or it can cut the budget, but the city cannot appropriate more money than it expects to collect, he added. Budget cuts, he said, would curtail services in health, hospitals, and rubbish and garbage collection and possibly the fire department, and bring dismissal of as many as 1500 employes.

Bills introduced at today's brief meeting of the aldermen would install electric traffic signals at the following intersections: Caroline street and South Grand boulevard; Chippewa street and Donovan avenue; South Broadway and Itaska street, and South Broadway and Mount Pleasant street.

Another bill would limit the number of liquor licenses in the city to the number now in effect. It has been introduced in previous sessions of the board.

THREE GRANITE CITY SENIORS GET SCHOLARSHIP GRANTS

Three Granite City Scholarship Foundation grants have been awarded to seniors at Granite City High School, it was announced yesterday.

Scholarship grants of $400 each were given to Linda Bjorkman, John Bero and John O'Brien. The presentations were made at a school assembly yesterday by Selma Nelson, president of the Scholarship Foundation. Seven awards have been made in the past two years by the foundation.

2 HURT IN 20-FOOT FALL WHEN SCAFFOLD BREAKS

Two men were injured, one seriously, when a scaffold on a building at 4200 North Second street broke, causing them to fall 20 feet into a pile of wooden sawhorses, bricks and concrete blocks today.

George Piazza 2348 Addie street, Overland, was taken to Deaconess Hospital, where doctors said he had suffered serious back injuries. He is 46 years old. Albert Jacob Jr., of Ballwin, Mo., was treated at the hospital for a sprained knee and released.

Jacob, 30, told police he and Piazza had been working on the roof of the building occupied by the Don V. Davis Co.

MAN WHO WRECKED AUTO IN CHASE GIVES SELF UP

A man who said he is Jack Davis, of St. Louis, surrendered to the Highway Patrol near Columbia, Mo., late yesterday, ending a two-day search for an armed man who fled from a wrecked automobile. The car had been chased by Boone County Sheriff Glen Powell. Davis is a Negro.

Two shots were fired at the sheriff during the chase, which ended when the machine overturned on a curve. A 19-year-old youth, who said he was Ronald Kirby, of St. Louis, was captured at the scene. Kirby also is a Negro.

ST. LOUIS FIRM IS ORDERED TO PAY $1 MINIMUM WAGE

Morris Goldberg, head of the M-G Drug Sales Co., 2675 Washington boulevard, today was ordered to pay his 17 employes the $1-an-hour minimum wage prescribed by law and to keep adequate records of wages and hours.

Morris, who admitted in a civil suit brought against him by the Department of Labor that he had not paid minimum wages or overtime, agreed in a stipulation to meet the wage standards. United States District Judge Roy W. Harper entered the order on the basis of the stipulation.

MAYOR SAYS NEW CHARTER MEANS MORE EFFICIENCY

Engineering services now performed by four separate city departments would be placed on a "more logical and workable basis" under the proposed new city charter, Mayor Raymond R. Tucker said last night.

Addressing a dinner meeting of the St. Louis chapter of the Missouri Society of Professional Engineers at the Missouri Athletic Club, he strongly indorsed provisions of the proposed charter, which, he said, "will make your government more efficient." About 125 persons attended.

Chief among these improvements he cited a section of the charter establishing a new department of traffic engineering and control with broad authority to set up traffic regulations.

"Putting it bluntly," Tucker asserted, "the new charter recognizes the important fact that traffic regulations must be based on scientific study and not the whims of amateurs and narrow pressure groups.

"At present, your city can have all the expert traffic advice in the world, but the recommendations of the experts can never be placed into effect permanently if the Board of Aldermen objects."

This situation would be remedied the Mayor said, by a provision of the new charter allowing the director of traffic to establish or remove traffic regulations without approval of the Board of Aldermen. Furthermore, the aldermen would be prohibited from enacting traffic measures without the recommendation of the traffic director.

Admitting that the director would be "quite powerful" under this plan, Tucker pointed out he would be subject to curbs written into the proposed charter. He would be required to submit his recommendations to a citizens traffic commission before placing them in effect and to hold public hearings on proposed regulations.

Mayor Tucker called establishment of a traffic department "a dramatic example of our need for a new charter" and added: "When the present charter was written in 1914, about the only traffic problem was a runaway horse."

Department of Public Works.

Aside from traffic matters, most services requiring professional engineering supervision and engineering staffs would be co-ordinated in the department of public works that would be established by the new charter, the Mayor stated.

Tucker praised the charter's centralization of all matters affecting issuance of building permits in the department of public safety. "Contractors will get improved one-stop service," he declared.

Similarly, he said, all powers affecting control of air pollution would be centralized in the public safety department. They are divided now between the smoke and health divisions.

As he did two weeks ago in his first formal speech in favor of the charter, Mayor Tucker again indorsed the plan for electing seven aldermen from ward areas and seven others and the board president on a city-wide basis.

"Present indications are that the 7-7-1 plan will be the focal point of discussion in the charter election," he asserted. The plan is more representative and more responsive to city needs than the present system of electing all aldermen by wards, Tucker added.

"Under the present system an individual alderman has life or death control over a measure which involves his ward, though his position may represent the minority rather than the general will of the citizens as a whole," the Mayor stated.

Other advantages Mayor Tucker said would result from adoption of the new charter include: More clearly defined executive authority, establishment of the position of director of administration, improved budgeting and accounting methods, better purchasing control and removal of the present $10,000 annual salary limitation.

JUDGE REFUSES TO REVERSE ISADORE LONDE CONVICTION

A motion to reverse the conviction of Isadore Londe, former convict who was found guilty of resisting arrest, was denied yesterday by Judge Louis Comerford of the Court of Criminal Correction following a hearing.

Police Judge Morris Rosenthal, called as a witness by Londe's attorney, Irl Baris, testified that both prosecution and defense attorneys had been allowed to remove only two prospective jurors from the panel from which a jury of six men was selected for Londe's trial last Feb. 14. Baris said that under state law each side should have received three challenges.

Judge Rosenthal presided at the trial at which Londe's punishment was assessed at a fine of $250. The motion, which sought to remand the case to police court, was filed after Londe appealed the conviction to the Court of Criminal Correction, where it is set for trial Sept. 3. Londe was found guilty of resisting arrest in an encounter with police last Nov. 13 in which he suffered a broken jaw and four broken ribs.

GETS TY COBB AUTOGRAPH HE REQUESTED IN 1932

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — In 1932, Representative Charles Brown (Dem.), Missouri, then a boy of 12, wrote to baseball star Ty Cobb asking for his autograph. He received the autograph on a small card Monday.

Brown was unable to explain the delay. Office aids said the autographed card came in an envelope postmarked Menlo Park, Calif., Cobb's home. The postmark was April 22, 195x, the last figure being blurred.

It was forwarded to Brown by the postmaster at Humansville, Mo., Brown's boyhood home.

Nickel Plant

a loan of perhaps as much as $100,000,000 to finance construction; the risk would be the Goverment's, Kendall said.

He added that under the law the loan could have been made to the Bethlehem subsidiary because private funds were not available, the implication being that the loan was regarded as questionable from a banking viewpoint. Bethlehem was unwilling to finance the operation itself, Kendall said. He pointed out that if anything happens to a loan the Government suffers, while under the accelerated tax amortization program the Government incurs no loss at all if the plant is not built, or, after it is constructed, it fails to make a profit.

Explains Bethlehem Plan.

Franklin G. Floete, head of General Services Administration, which implements ODM decisions, testified Bethlehem proposed to set up the Cuban corporation and transfer to it $7,500,000 in assets, in return for which Bethlehem would receive all the stock of the Cuban corporation. Repayment of the loan was to be out of the net profits of the Cuban concern.

Floete said GSA recommended consideration of the Bethlehem proposal, although GSA thought it could be improved. Floete added that negotiations did not reach a final stage because the DMB ruled loans would not be considered in the nickel program.

The committee conducting the hearing was established under the defense production act as a "watchdog" group. It has been inquiring into the Freeport-Bethlehem matter as representing an example of how the policy of disapproving loans and favoring accelerated tax amortization operates.

The two offers were made last year as a result of action by the ODM in raising the "goal" for nickel production.

The committee cleared up one point raised by Robertson several days ago. That was whether the Government has a contract to purchase nickel from the International Nickel Co. when this concern's $175,000,000 northern Manitoba facility starts producing in 1960. Last Dec. 5 H. S. Wingate, head of Inco, indicated he had assurance some of the company's production would be bought by the United States.

Floete and Gordon Gray, head of ODM, who was also a witness, agreed the government had no firm commitment to buy Inco nickel and that whether to purchase would be decided later and would depend on what appeared to be the best interest of the Government. Robertson said he was gratified to hear this.

Robertson said the Bethlehem proposal involved the construction of a Cuban plant with an annual capacity of 30,000,000 to 70,000,000 pounds of nickel.

The Freeport plant, also in Cuba, will have a capacity of 50,000,000 pounds. The government, Robertson said, will be obligated to purchase up to 271,000,000 pounds of nickel and and 23,000,000 pounds of cobalt from Freeport.

Robertson said the strategic stockpile requirements on cobalt had been exceeded and he questioned whether the government ought to obligate itself to buy more. Gray said he would check Robertson's statement but noted that the size of the stockpile is a classified government secret.

Floete said the government-owned $90,000,000 Nicaro nickel plant in Cuba is operating at a substantial profit and that a plan probably will be worked out this summer for disposing of it to private industry.

The Government is interested in nickel and other strategic metals because of the policy of stockpiling materials that might be necessary in another war. The materials in the stockpile are valued at $6,600,000,000, Robertson said. He questioned whether stockpiling policies should not be revised in view of the possibility a nuclear war would be short.

Gray said this was under study, and Floete presented figures to show there has been a sharp decline in the execution of contracts to buy minerals for stockpiling.

WE FOUND THE WAY TO DOUBLE YOUR DOLLAR

Save at HAMPTON BANK

HAMPTON BANK PAYS ALL THE PREMIUMS

Here's How the Plan Works

You are eligible with no physical exam, to receive up to $5,000 life insurance fully paid by this bank—at no cost whatever to you—if you are under 65 years of age. This amount of life insurance will exactly match the amount of money you have in your savings account from a minimum of $250 up to $5,000. The insurance remains in effect until age 65. After 65 you may convert to ordinary life insurance without a physical exam. If your actual cash balance in your account is $5,000 when you die, your beneficiary will receive double that amount ($10,000.00). In addition to this insurance feature we still pay our regular interest on savings accounts. It is an added benefit that can cause your deposit to earn a return equivalent to 3%. There is no penalty if you discontinue the plan. You may deposit or withdraw at any time subject to the regulations governing Savings Accounts. If your account goes below $250 the insurance terminates. However, upon reaching or exceeding $250 it is automatically reinstated.

Procedure to Follow in Order to Have Life Insurance on Savings Accounts

Open a NEW Savings Account—or switch your present Checking or Savings Account today, using our special NEW TRANSFER SYSTEM that permits these accounts to be transferred by our office—eliminating your handling of any details. This consists of you personally bringing your present Checkbook or Savings Account Pass Book to this bank, and we will handle all transactions. No further details necessary and insurance becomes effective 30 days after opening account. Special procedure for handling those living out of town. Write for further information.

$5,000 LIFE INSURANCE AT NO COST TO YOU — NO COST — Equal to the Balance in Your Savings Account

This LIFE INSURANCE plus our regular interest means your savings can yield a return equivalent to 3% Partially Tax Free sacking of the embassy on Formosa.

"We have had mobs get out of control in this country and yet that has not brought about a cessation of government expeditures," Dulles said sharply in response to a question as to whether large-scale American aid to the Nationalists might be cut back.

Dulles also responded somewhat sourly when he was asked if Adenauer's statement excluding West Germany from any first stage disarmament agreement had not been, in effect, a campaign statement aimed at the West German elections in mid-September. He said he would not attribute political motives to the Chancellor's statement.

The prospect of another Big Four meeting, as proposed by Adenauer yesterday, is many months away, Dulles said. He added that he and President Eisenhower had agreed with Adenauer to talk with Britain and France about a four-power meeting after a first stage disarmament agreement.

Dulles virtually conceded that negotiations with Britain and France on modifying the present embargo against trade with Red China had broken down. He said a formal statement would be issued tomorrow by the State Department. He also said departmental policy barring American newsmen from Red China was unchanged.

Harold E. Stassen, American disarmament representative who is in Paris for talks with French government officials today, has a wide degree of flexibility in the instructions he took back with him after 10 days of conferences here, Dulles said. The stand of the German Chancellor had in no way altered Stassen's position as worked out here, according to the Secretary.

Dulles discussed the possibility of a first stage inspection system that would take in the Arctic. This, too, he indicated, would take lengthy negotiation since the territory of Canada, Denmark and other sovereign powers was involved.

"We have no intention," Dulles said, "of imposing an inspection system on any nation. This is something that calls for patient negotiation in order to get agreement of all concerned."

The anti-American riots on Formosa were related by questioners to the wave of protest in Japan over extra-territorial privileges for G.I.s and, in particular, for Specialist 3C William Girard. Girard is accused by the Japanese of deliberately shooting a Japanese woman collecting empty shell cases. Dulles said the Girard case is being "studied at a high level."

"The question of foreign troops on the soil of another nation is very, very difficult," he told reporters, recalling an incident when he was in Paris for the peace conference after World War I and saw an old woman outside American headquarters threaten American soldiers on guard there.

"We must remember that the Chinese are exceptionally sensitive to extra-territoriality which meant for many years the stationing of foreign troops on Chinese soil. We must remember the Boxer Rebellion (the uprising of a Chinese secret society in 1900).

"It is not surprising that there should have been this manifestation. But it does not go to the fundamentals of our relations with China."

The Secretary declined to appraise the possibilities for working out a long-term peace in the Middle East, but he said he believed the time was approaching when some of the problems in that area could be dealt with.

BODY OF MAN DROWNED IN MERAMEC RECOVERED

The body of Samuel Kirchhoff, who drowned last Saturday when a canoe in which he was riding capsized in the flooded Meramec river in St. Louis county, was recovered today from the Mississippi river near Sulphur Springs, Jefferson County Coroner James Rehm reported.

A towboat crew saw the body wedged in the fork of a log and towed it to a dock. Coroner Rehm said personal papers on the body belonged to Kirchoff, a 32-year-old carpenter, who lived at 55 Deckwood avenue, opposite Times Beach. An inquest will be held at Imperial.

Kirchoff and Lawrence Jensen, a mechanic, of 49 Deckwood avenue, were reported to have started out to assist persons marooned in river clubhouses by the flood. Jensen, who made his way to shore, said the canoe overturned after striking driftwood. Kirchhoff was carried downstream, clinging to the overturned craft. The Meramec empties into the Mississippi near the St. Louis-Jefferson county line.

CHARGES BY FTC DENIED BY GROVE LABORATORIES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 29—Grove Laboratories Inc., of St. Louis, yesterday denied charges by the Federal Trade Commission that it discriminated among customers in wholesale prices and required some retailers to purchase minimum quantities of its preparations for the hair and scalp.

The company said it offers a 15 per cent discount from list price to all customers buying directly from it, and a further discount for large quantities.

PROSECUTOR DISMISSES MOLESTATION CHARGE

A charge against Dr. Joseph Backlar, a physician, involving alleged molestation of an 11-year-old girl, was dismissed in the court of Magistrate Leslie T. Lewis today on recommendation of the prosecuting attorney's office.

Psychiatrists and neurologists had reported that Dr. Backlar, 60 years old, is unable to stand trial. The warrant was issued last August, on complaint of the girl's mother.

TRIAL OF EX-ST. LOUISAN IN TOKYO NEAR COMPLETION

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TOKYO, May 29—Trial of Alonzo B. Shattuck, formerly of St. Louis, on a charge of receiving stolen goods neared completion today after 17 months in and out of court.

Shattuck once operated a Tokyo night club and also was a criminal investigation agent for the United States Army. He is accused of receiving four diamonds stolen by John M. MacFarland of Omaha, Neb., a former wrestler, who is serving an eight-year prison term for the theft.

MacFarland implicated Shattuck in a statement but repudiated it. The Japanese prosecutor asked that Shattuck be given a two-year prison sentence and fined 50,000 yen ($1300).

24-Hour Greek Strike.

ATHENS, May 29 (AP) — A 24-hour strike proclaimed by Greece's general confederation of labor yesterday met with only partial success. All public utility services, including electricity, water, gas, communications and railroads, operated satisfactorily. The confederation is demanding a 30 per cent wage increase.

BORDER PATROL, IMMIGRATION CHIEF CRITICIZED

WASHINGTON, May 29 (UP) —United States border patrol officers traveled on Government expense accounts to attend rifle and pistol matches while claiming to perform "official border patrol duties," it was charged today.

Gen. Joseph M. Swing, Immigration Commissioner and head of the border patrol, also had "irregularities" in his travel vouchers while on hunting trips to Mexico. They were later corrected, however.

Those were the findings of Comptroller General Joseph Campbell in an official investigation of the Government expense accounts of Swing and the border patrol.

Campbell, known as Congress's "watchdog of the Treasury," sent the results of his investigation to a House Government Operations subcommittee. A copy of the report was made available today.

The border patrol, in explaining to Campbell why it had secretly sent its men to the shooting matches, marked its own report "classified"—secret.

For that reason Campbell declined to make the explanation available to the House subcommittee. Deputy Attorney General William P. Rogers, in response to a protest from the subcommittee, said however, the subcommittee may see the border patrol's report.

Representative John E. Moss (Dem.), California, chairman of a House Information subcommittee, asked Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. by what right the border patrol claimed secrecy in its explanation.

Campbell said his investigators "questioned as not being in accordance with applicable laws" the border patrol's use of public funds to send its officers to the competitive shooting matches.

He pointed out that Congress has never authorized spending of money for such a purpose. He said it appeared the rifle matches "to some extent partake of the nature of athletic or sporting events."

Swing, onetime target of Democratic attacks on "generals-in-government," later corrected his overcharges on his travel vouchers for five hunting trips to Mexico in the period from Dec. 17, 1954, to Jan. 16, 1956.

Swing originally claimed the full "subsistence" expenses allowed in the United States—from $9 to $12 a day—for the 25 days involved in the trips. For 19 of the days he was in Mexico. Subsistence expenses allowed for Mexico are 20 per cent less.

Swing's travel vouchers all claimed he was on trips to Brownsville, Tex. He later acknowledged he went across the border into Mexico all five times to hunt.

Border patrol officers, including Assistant Chief Patrol Inspector Jefferson J. Fell, attended pistol and rifle matches at Austin, Tex., between June 8 and June 13, 1955, and at Perry, O., in August and September of 1955.

Fell reported on his vouchers he went to Austin "to perform official border patrol duties." Seven others said they went on "regular patrol duties." Two said they went to take part in the southwest regional pistol matches.

Campbell said the vouchers for the Perry matches were "similar," with only one officer acknowledging he went to take part in a rifle match.

Cuban Unrest

central Cuban mountains, emulating Castro's guerrillas.

Power Still Curtailed.

The Cuban Electricity Co. worked to restore service in Havana but said power service might not be restored until tomorrow. Authorities blamed saboteurs for the explosion, which occurred eight blocks from the national capitol.

Assistant Fire Chief Sinesio Cuesta said a tunnel had been dug from an uninhabited house to an electric and gas main and dynamite placed under the electric cables. Police sought an electric company employe who reportedly had rented the house.

The explosion left about 1000 blocks of houses without electricity. Telephone lines also were cut and electric pumps suppling much of the city's water could not be operated.

Batista, who was at his residence in the Columbia military city when the dynamite went off, complained that the violence was continuing even though his National Progressive coalition and the opposition parties had agreed general elections would be held June 1, 1958.

The government and opposition parties agreed to move the presidential elections up five months in an effort to bring political peace to Cuba. Batista is not eligible for re-election and has announced he would retire on completion of his term.

Idleness in Auto Plants.

DETROIT, May 29 (AP)—A parts shortage which Chrysler Corp. said was caused by a strike at the Budd Co.'s Detroit plant caused Chrysler to send 8000 employes home from two of its plants yesterday. Budd makes stampings for Chrysler automobiles. A walkout of 200 maintenance workers at Budd made 3500 idle there.

LESTER E. BARRETT HONORED

Lester E. Barrett, president of Barrett Electrical Supply Co., received the 1957 McGraw award yesterday for the "most outstanding individual contribution of merit" in the distributing branch of the electrical industry. Presentation was at the forty-ninth annual convention of the National Association of Electrical Distributors in Washington.

Barrett, president of the association from 1954 to 1956, is chairman of the adequate wiring bureau of the St. Louis Board of Trade, and through his initiative a similar committee was organized in the national organization. The award consists of a bronze medal and $100.

ALL BRAND NEW . . . FULLY WARRANTED . . . EVEN AT THESE LOW PRICES!
Enriches the air you breathe with health-giving negative ions
"Ions for health" . . . an important and far-reaching discovery! "Ions" are electrical charges in the air. Air contains both negative and positive ions. Scientists have found that air containing a high concentration of negative ions, such as after a refreshing thunderstorm, is definitely beneficial. That's the kind of cool ionized air you enjoy with the Philco Ionitron air conditioner.
Ionized air gives quick relief to most sufferers from hay fever and other air-borne allergies. The Philco Ionitron gives this quick relief even during high-polen periods.
ONLY PHILCO HAS IT!!!
How the "IONITRON" Air-Conditioner Works . . .

The 1st filter stops large particles of dirt, etc. . . . then "Ionitron" charger "magnetizes" small particles, thus producing negative ions. The magnetized particles are then pulled through aluminum filters . . . and last through Philco's activated-charcoal screen that absorbs odors, giving you pure, healthful, negatively ionized air into the room.
Health-Giving Ionitron Air Conditioners start at $349.95. (Easy monthly payments.)

Kansas City Builds Airport For Industry, Has 2200 Acres For Aircraft and Other Plants

New Field Is Third Largest Municipal One in Nation, Puts City in Excellent Position to Bid for Big, Fast-Growing Firms.

By HARRY WILENSKY
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(FOURTH OF A SERIES.)

KANSAS CITY, May 29.

THE SAME TROUBLE that plagues St. Louis and many other cities—shortage of industrial sites—has reached serious proportions here. In fighting to overcome this handicap Kansas City has taken a big step which places it ahead of many competitors.

The city has built a huge airport for industry, and is offering 2200 acres of sites ideal for aircraft plants, missile projects, aeronautical research, electronics and lines of manufacturing that can profit from high-speed movement of freight. This means that Kansas City is able to make a strong bid for some of the largest and fastest-growing industries.

Mid-Continent International Airport, carved out of the corn and wheat fields of Platte county 14 miles north of here, is the third largest municipal field in the United States, its 4650 acres being exceeded only by Idlewild in New York and Chicago's O'Hare Field.

First Tenant Moving In.

The city has invested $35,000,000 of bond funds in this facility, and will spend millions more—it hopes—to build plants for lease to future tenants.

The first tenant, Trans World Airlines, is now moving in. It has taken a 25-year lease on buildings which will consolidate all its world overhaul facilities at the new field. The rent it pays, about $1,400,000 a year, will go to retire revenue bonds which financed construction of the carrier-designed buildings. When the bonds are paid off the buildings will belong to the city.

TWA employs 6400 people here, has an annual payroll of $16,000,000 and pours an additional $16,000,000 a year into local trade channels through company purchases. Many cities have tried to take this industrial plum away from Kansas City. In 1949, when it appeared that TWA might have to move, agents from St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Wichita, Los Angeles and other cities came swarming in.

The carrier's overhaul base was located at Fairfax Airport, across the Missouri river in Kansas City, Kan., in buildings the Federal Government had erected during the war and later had leased to the airline. The Defense Department decided that these facilities should be taken back for use by military aviation.

Kansas City put up a terrific fight in Washington to keep TWA, and managed to get the Air Force operation diverted to Olathe Naval Air Station.

Flood . . . and Disaster.

Then came the 1951 flood, which inundated Fairfax Airport and cost TWA $10,000,000. Stockpiles of parts were ruined, 100 engines were lost and six big airliners had to be virtually rebuilt.

The disaster spurred the movement for development of a good upland airport to serve industry and prepare for the coming jet and turbo-prop age in aviation. Bond issues passed in 1951 and 1954 added $28,500,000 to the $13,500,000 previously authorized for airport projects, and the long-discussed Mid-Continent International Airport became a reality.

When they went to the polls in 1954, taxpayers voted also on the proposal to bring major league baseball to Kansas City through a $2,000,000 bond issue for stadium improvements. The airport bonds were approved by a larger margin than the bonds for baseball, striking evidence that the people of Kansas City recognize the importance of getting and holding industry.

An expressway will make it possible to drive downtown from the new airport in 25 minutes.

Some industries are learning that shipment of freight by air can lower operating costs and increase sales. With products high in value low in weight, such as drugs or electronic devices, direct distribution from factory to customer by air may prove more economical than truck or rail distribution requiring regional warehousing. Armour Laboratories, one of the leading producers of drug products, has eliminated one of its warehouses and has begun to convert to distribution by air.

It is firms such as this that Kansas City hopes to attract with its industrial airport. It believes the time will come when many industries will find it just as important to be near an airport as it has been in the past to be on a railroad line.

27 Acres Bought Up.

Meanwhile, Kansas City is working on the problem of room for industry in the heart of the city. Its Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority has bought up a blighted district of 27 acres near the City Hall and the Courthouse. A conglomeration of old commercial buildings and dwellings will be torn down by Jan. 1 to provide sites for warehouses, plants engaged in light manufacturing and other enterprises supporting uses of the central business district.

Gross cost of this undertaking, which is called the South Humboldt project, is estimated at $4,058,000. Sale of cleared tracts to private redevelopers is expected to bring in $1,402,000. The Federal Government defrays two-thirds of the loss. The city's share, $885,000, will come from a bond issue fund of $2,855,000 voted for such projects.

"We have had firms knocking on our door for months wanting land in the redevelopment area," B. J. Harmon, executive director of the Land Clearance Authority, told the Post-Dispatch. "Some came from other cities; quite a few were local companies needing room for expansion. I believe we could have sold all the land twice over in a short time. We will advertise this summer to call in interested parties, and will sell lots on the basis of reuse value."

Another project now in the planning stage is designed to rehabilitate an area of 58 acres immediately to the north of Humboldt. Half of the area will be cleared for commerce and light manufacturing.

These projects help, but a great deal more is needed to solve the problem, says Dwight Bedell, industrial trade commissioner of the Chamber of Commerce. He is convinced that large cities must take community action to compete for industry with smaller towns.

"Oklahoma City, Memphis, Evansville, Ind., Erie, Pa., Seattle—all of them are engaging in some form of community effort to provide industrial sites," he pointed out. "We must do the same. Generally speaking, there are not enough elements of difference between cities to make an industry locate in one place rather than another. Community effort can swing the balance.

"The Problem Is Space."

"But advertising and sending people out on the road won't suffice. The problem is space, and if you don't have sites you cannot attract industry. I am trying to convince people that we must look ahead, buy land and hold it so it will be available for industry when needed. This has to be done through community action because private capital rarely will be tied up in enterprises that promise no definite return."

A large percentage of the land suited for heavy industry in the Kansas City area is held by the railroads in industrial districts ranging from 80 to 2000 acres. The oldest and largest, Union Pacific's Fairfax, is virtually filled. Six other railroads control about 5000 acres.

The railroads sell their land to industries which generate rail traffic. Under Interstate Commerce Commission regulations they are not authorized to speculate in real estate, their ventures being geared to promotion of freight business. This makes it difficult for firms that do not produce rail traffic to find sites.

Kansas City has annexed land from time to time, but this has added little in the way of industrial sites.

The Mid-Continent Development Council has been organized to foster development of the region which takes in metropolitan Kansas City, St. Joseph and the Kansas centers of Topeka, Atchison, Lawrence and Leavenworth.

Still another approach is the movement to create a bi-state authority to co-ordinate the eight counties of Kansas City's metropolitan area. The Mo-Kan Development Agency is to be modeled after the Missouri-Illinois Bi-State Agency which built the Chain of Rocks harbor and wants to take over Columbia Bottoms for development of a new industrial district for St. Louis.

64 NORWEGIAN SCIENTISTS URGE END TO ATOM TESTS

OSLO, May 29 (AP) — A group of 64 Norwegian scientists yesterday demanded that the government do everything in its power to end nuclear bomb tests.

The physicists, Chemists, biologists and medical scientists expressed concern about the large number of nuclear explosions since 1954, and said it was possible radioactive fallout might cause biological damage in the future.

Congressional Investigative Powers Grow

Now Right to Inquire Into 'Immoral' Practices Is Implied.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1957, Pulitzer Publishing Co.)

WASHINGTON, May, 29.

THE POWER OF CONGRESS to investigate, for which there is little or no provision in the Constitution, has been carried to such a point as to become a separate and more or less autonomous function independent of, and in a sense irrelevant to the power to legislate.

This is the view of observers who see the resignation of Dave Beck as head of the largest union in the country as a direct consequence of the Senate investigation that showed widespread corruption among Teamster Union officials.

This was a situation widely known, and yet neither organized labor nor the communities in which the corruption occurred appeared able to do anything about it.

In effect the investigation was a trial and conviction of Beck. At the same time he is under indictment on an income tax charge and whether it will be possible for him to have an impartial trial in the present climate of opinion is a serious question.

Inquiry Just Beginning.

Far from being ended, the Senate inquiry into labor abuses has only just begun. There is prospect of even more shocking revelations when the committee digs into the situation in New York City. This has just been highlighted by the failure of the Federal Government to bring Johnny Dio to trial on a charge of the acid-blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel. The Government prosecutor has said that his case was wrecked by intimidation of witnesses essential to his case, reflecting "the power of the underworld."

But where eventually the investigation will lead in new legislation is still uncertain. The chairman of the investigating committee, Senator John L. McClellan, has introduced a "right to work" amendment to the civil rights bill. This is similar to the provision incorporated in the laws of 17 states, forbidding compulsory union membership under union shop contracts. The McClellan move was seen as a maneuver to block civil rights legislation.

'Right to Work' Advocate.

There is, however, growing sentiment for "right to work" legislation on the federal as well as the state level. Senator Barry Goldwater (Rep.), Arizona, one of the most persistent advocates of "right to work" laws, had been contemplating introducing the same kind of amendment, not so much to govern labor but as a civil right.

Union leaders and others have suspected that the "right to work" movement was a front to destroy all trade unions, with Goldwater as the principal spokesman. This Goldwater emphatically denies. In a letter to this reporter he takes sharp issue with that charge and at the same time seems, if only by implication, to extend further the investigating power of Congress.

"I have been speaking out against the misuse of union funds that we are now disclosing, for many, many years," Senator Goldwater wrote. "But my targets have not only been the dishonest use of money as exhibited by Mr. Beck, but the immoral use of money as used

Problem of Financing Satellite May Be Put in Congress's Lap

—United Press Telephoto.

Nose section of rocket designed to carry earth satellite aloft is looked over by technicians of the Martin Co. which put the launching vehicle on display at Baltimore yesterday. Satellite sphere will be contained in nose cone of the three-stage rocket. The 72-foot rocket on display was one of seven which will be test fired before an attempt is made to launch the satellite.

By CHARLES CORDDRY
WASHINGTON, May 29 (UP).

THE earth satellite program is in money trouble and the Defense Department is considering laying the problem before Congress.

The Department is responsible for launching the first man-made moon into an earth-circling orbit sometime in the International Geophysical Year, which runs from July 1, 1957, to Dec. 31, 1958.

When the White House announced the project in July 1955 Scientists roughly estimated the satellite would cost $10,000,000. Almost casually, they said the rocket launching apparatus would be extra. The United States National Committee for the I.G.Y. gave the Defense Department the task of rocketing the sphere into space, tracking it by radar and providing some of the minute instruments it must carry.

$71,600,000 So Far.

Now, 22 months later, the Pentagon says it has laid out $55,800,000 on the project and the National Science Foundation an additional $15,800,000. That totals $71,600,000 with the end not yet in sight.

Pentagon budget experts say it will wind up as more than a $100,000,000-dollar project, which is about what they expected in the first place. Unexpected problems could send the cost up.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson is said to be irked by the increasing outlay of department money for a project considered to be scientific and non-military. He wonders, it is said, whether the Pentagon will be reimbursed and where the rest of the needed money is coming from. That is the problem the Pentagon is considering handing Congress.

Wilson has made no secret of his own greater interest as defense chief in perfecting intercontinental and intermediate-range ballistic missiles. In an obvious effort to bring the satellite project under tighter control, he put it under supervision of his special guided missiles assistant, William M. Holaday. He had previously given the Navy main responsibility.

Wilson directed Holaday not to give the satellite "the priority associated with the intercontinental ballistic missile and the intermediate range ballistic missile programs."

Rocket Displayed.

By the Associated Press.

A completely assembled rocket designed to carry the first earth satellite into space, was displayed publicly for the first time by the Navy and the Martin Co. yesterday in Baltimore.

The giant, three-stage rocket, standing 72 feet from its nose cone to the base will be one of the seven test vehicles which will be fired before the actual launching attempt, probably next March.

Dr. John Hagen of the Naval Research Laboratory, director of the earth satellite launching program, said "it won't be too long" before a completed test vehicle is fired.

Rear Adm. Rawson Bennett, Navy director of the project, said the actual firing probably will come "sometime in the middle of the International Geophysical Year."

Dr. Hagen said 13 vehicles will be fired, seven of them test vehicles and six with satellites in their noses.

States Rights Group Biggest Lobby Spender

Lists Expenditures of $81,922 in Quarterly Report to House Clerk.

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) TWENTY-ONE registered lobbyists spent more than $10,000 each in the first three months of this year in connection with their "legislative interests."

A check of quarterly reports filed with the clerk of the House showed yesterday that seven of the 21 spent more than $20,000 each.

The highest spending figure was $81,922 listed by the "Campaign for the 48 states," with headquarters in Memphis, Tenn. The organization's announced legislative objective is restoration of the "sovereignty of individual states."

Lobbyists' spending is reported in accordance with the lobbying law. They are asked to report money spent on such things as overhead, wages, gifts or loans, if any, entertainment and travel expenses.

Not all of the hundreds of registrants list their total spending. Many of them simply note their income.

In addition to the "campaign for the 48 states," these other groups reported spending more than $20,000 in "connection with legislative interests" in January, February and March:

American Farm Bureau Federation, Chicago, $25,918; American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations, Washington, $30,531; Association of American Railroads, Washington, $42,147; Farmers' Educational and Co-Operative Union of America, Denver, $22,465; Southern States Industrial Council, Nashville, $25,691; United States Savings and Loan League, Chicago, $23,100.

These 14 reported spending in excess of $10,000 but less than $20,000:

AFL-CIO Maritime Committee, Washington, $11,235; American Federation of Musicians, New York, $11,403; American Hospital Association, Chicago, $11,314; American Medical Association, Chicago, $13,165; American Tramp Shipowners Association, New York, $17,366; Council of Mechanical Specialty Contracting Industries, Inc., Washington, $17,798; Division of Legislation and Federal Relations of the National Education Association of the United States, Washington, $12,509; Hardwood Plywood Manufacturers Committee, Washington, $10,984; Independent Bankers Association, Sauk Centre, Minn., $10,184; National Association of Letter Carriers, Washington, $13,717; National Federation of Federal Employes, Washington, $10,305; National Reclamation Association, Washington, $10,614; National Rivers and Harbors Congress, Washington, $11,380; Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Washington, $15,917.

Taipei Riots Viewed as Blind For Seizing U.S. Secret Codes

Mob Had Special Equipment to Get Through Steel Doors—Replacement of Communications System Costly.

By BRIG. GEN. THOMAS R. PHILLIPS, U.S.A. (Ret.)
Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 29.

THE RIOTS IN TAIPEI, Formosa, in which the United States embassy was broken into and sacked and the United States Information Agency building wrecked and nine Americans injured, is regarded more seriously in military circles than will be admitted publicly. The official line is that this was an emotional incident that will not disturb United States-Nationalist relations.

The reason that the riots are regarded so seriously is that some of the so-called mob were prepared with special equipment to get through the steel door into the code room of the embassy and to open safes.

The steel door resisted their efforts, so they cut through a six-inch brick wall into the code room, scattered top secret papers all over the compound and got away with secret material that will remain unidentified until the junk remaining has been sorted out.

United States Ambassador Karl Rankin made the understatement of the week when he said the destruction of the code room will mean "some readjustment" of American secret codes.

Involves Huge Task.

Actually the compromise of a code requires its replacement on worldwide basis before secret communication in the particular class of code can be renewed. Such changes can be made only by sending messengers with the new materials to all the places in the world where such codes were in use.

Furthermore, with the information and material that may have been obtained, an enemy power may be able to read top secret messages of the recent past from any of the embassies using the particular code.

This requires that the enemy power have tape recordings of United States radio transmissions. It is known that the Soviet Union and other powers make such tape recordings.

United States officials are certain that the riot was only a cover for the effort to get into the code room. They may be influenced in their thinking by the memory that the United States, during the last war, was successful in at least two raids on enemy code rooms.

Police Slow to Act.

If this were not enough evidence of the organized and purposeful nature of the riot, there is the failure of the Nationalist police and army to take prompt action to halt the crowds. Walter Briggs of the New York Herald Tribune reported, and this has been confirmed, that two armored cars with 37 mm. machine guns were drawn up within 75 yards of the embassy and three busses loaded with police were parked 40 yards farther away.

If these had been ordered into action, Briggs reported that some Americans believe, the mob of about 3000 could have been brought under control.

Actually it was more than four hours before adequate action was taken to bring the mobs under control.

Further evidence that the riots were planned was shown by the fact that a number of Americans received warnings from Chinese friends the day before and that the Seventh Fleet was alerted in advance for the possible evacuation of Americans.

About 10,000 Americans.

There are between 9000 and 10,000 Americans on Formosa at the present time, including dependents. The largest group is the Military Assistance Advisory Group of about 2200 officers and men, plus their dependents. Only 200 officers and men of this group, and their dependents are in Taipei, the rest being in the field with the units they instruct.

There are about 1400 Air Force officers and men stationed there to service the fighter squadrons that rotate from the Philippines and Okinawa to Formosan air bases for training.

Altogether there are more than 4000 Americans, plus their dependents, on Formosa who are employed by the Government for various purposes. There are also a number of missionaries and business men.

Plans were already under way to reduce the military assistance group by about one-third beginning July 1. The group had been beefed up after the shelling of Quemoy Sept. 3, 1954, but before the evacuation of the Tachen islands in January 1955, to extend training to lower units of the Nationalist army.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson was asked at a Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing yesterday whether we should continue large-scale aid to Formosa in view of the incidents.

Wilson was non committal, saying: "I do not think I should take a public position on it so quick." In response to further questions by Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas: "I don't want to pour oil on the fire by making ill-considered statements."

When asked by Senator Bourke B. Hickenloper (Rep.), Iowa, whether the military assistance program was in our own interest, he declared: "It

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

East St. Louis's Role

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Your article of Sunday, May 26, dealt with St. Louis at the "crossroads of continued industrial growth."

We find your conclusion unreasonable and somewhat incomprehensible within the terms of your article. This situation concerns the attitude of your paper, from time to time, and of the people of St. Louis toward that portion of the economic region lying in Illinois, which is, for some reason, arbitrarily excluded from a concept of the metropolitan area.

It is time to remove the blinders. With all due respect to the magnificent program of the Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority in St. Louis, admittedly this is not aimed at heavy industry nor groups interested in 1000-acre-or-so tracts. Such tracts exist close by in Illinois —with water, power, rail and highway transportation available—and, if you please, completely convenient to downtown St. Louis.

These sites are ready now with no need for flood control or Bi-State action, but perhaps do lie within areas requiring some assistance from the eventual beneficiaries of any metropolitan area activity.

East St. Louis has begun active city planning and St. Clair county is zoning its unincorporated areas. Meetings are being held to place the principal emphasis on zoning for future industrial expansion.

St. Louis is not alone in coming to grips with today and facing tomorrow — dry-goods distributors, as you mention, have found new solutions to old problems and have shifted operations to the detriment of the center city and this whole area.

But for St. Louis not to be aware of its riches, although across a state line, where St. Louis stands to gain so much from the sale of goods and services alone, is, to say the least, most peculiar.

We do not wish to minimize the intelligent approach of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce in issuing its pamphlet on the "hard core" of industry, which pointed out that industrial sites in St. Clair and Madison counties were now available.

It is evident, however, that some of the benefits which will accrue to St. Louis in terms of need of office space and servicing should also be related to any new activity in the Illinois sector of this area.

East St. Louis, for one, is aware of its problems and is hopeful that a resurgence of spirit, a new expressway to the bridges, and plans for urban redevelopment, among others, will help. It should not be forgotten that the St. Louis business community needs East St. Louis's skilled labor force and its customers just as much as it needs all the other components of the whole.

Recent studies have indicated that the tremendous population growth projected for the next 20 years will have its greatest impact in the Illinois portion of the metropolitan area —it will indeed be a sorry conclusion for St. Louis, if in the future new facilities to serve these people were to be duplicated in Illinois to the further detriment of St. Louis.

STEPHEN M. HARRIS,
Executive Director,
For the Commissioners of the Housing and Redevelopment
Authority of East St. Louis.

Tired But Fearless

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I sure am getting tired of seeing all these letters signed with pen names. I don't believe in hiding behind a fancy "alias." I figure that if you've got anything worth saying, it's worth signing your name to.

FEARLESS.

The 89th Day

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

This year we celebrate the eighty-ninth anniversary of Memorial day. So many tragedies have occurred internationally in the intervening years that the intent of Gen. John A. Logan's famed General Order No. 11 has become lost and in its place we have "just a holiday."

Gen. Logan, in designating May 30 as "Decoration Day," asked that the observance be continued annually so long as "a survivor remains to honor the memory of his departed comrades." He said we should "Let no ravages of time testify that we have forgotten the cost of a free Republic."

I hope your readers will not forget that those who've kept this nation free at the supreme cost will enjoy no picnics and outings; and that their loss is a personal and sobering part of our history.

T. REYNOLDS PILLMAN,
Commander, Allied Veteran
Americanism Commission.

Do We Deserve It?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In view of the fresh indorsements by civic leaders of the Saarinen Arch for our riverfront, Reader A. Carl Weber, in opposing this project exposes himself as a spoil-sport.

But a project's momentum is often a poor indication of its merit. I agree with Mr. Weber's suggestion that we consider other uses of the property and money.

Certainly the arch is a monument, and a monument can be an inspiring thing. The arch effectively symbolizes St. Louis's early role as Gateway to the West. But it is contemporary in form, and therefore it would also announce to all beholders the glories of St. Louis today.

And is St. Louis today at such a high point of attainment that this announcement can be made?

DAVID L. NORTON.

Keep the Pressure On

If Congress wants the London disarmament talks to succeed, the best thing it can do is to restore the Eisenhower military budget to full strength.

This may seem contradictory, but we believe it to be true. For in our opinion the best way to bring the Russians to accept a first-stage arms limitation agreement is to keep the pressure on in military spending.

The United States can well afford the present level of military spending. It represents a smaller proportion of the gross national product than the nation has devoted to defense at any time since Korea. The Russians, having a smaller pie to cut up, undoubtedly feel the strain of heavy defense outlays more sharply than we. As President Eisenhower has intimated, they are responding to that strain, and to the popular complaints arising from it, when they show today a more conciliatory attitude on disarmament.

But what would be the result if, without waiting for a disarmament pact, the United States started slashing military expenditures? Would not the Soviet leaders be tempted then to draw back from an agreement, or to impose extravagant terms? Would they not tend to believe that, with the economy bloc in the saddle in Washington, no concessions by them would be necessary to reduce the pace of military spending? If they could be relieved of the strain without entering into disarmament commitments, why should they sign anything?

It is, of course, impossible to fathom the recesses of the Soviet mind with complete assurance. Nobody can know for certain why the Russians act as they do. But it is reasonable to assume that they are afraid of Western military power, weary of the arms race, and yet distrustful of signing treaties. This can be safely assumed because the West is in pretty much the same situation with respect to the Soviets.

If that assumption is valid, then it is equally reasonable to conclude that the Soviets may sign a disarmament pact if this is what they have to do to secure an easing of the economic and political strains of the arms race—and that they will be reluctant to sign if they can secure the same result by leaving the matter to the economy bloc in Washington.

Congressmen who believe in disarmament, and who agree that the only practical road to disarmament is a first-stage agreement containing concessions by both sides, should therefore vote for restoring the Administration's defense budget to full strength. The President has most urgently asked that $1,274,000,000 of the House committee cut be restored. Republican leaders in the House would do battle only for one fourth of that amount, and may not succeed even that far. The House bill thus is sure to fall short of the President's requests.

The hope for restoration of further funds now lies with the Senate. May its members remember that cutting American military strength means reducing the incentives for a disarmament pact at London.

Ahoy There, Mayflower II!

There is nothing more likely to make a Cape Horn sailorman think about keelhauling somebody than to find his ship in a calm. That is why we are a mite worried about hearing but precious little from that stick-and-sail cockleshell, the Mayflower II, under command of Alan Villiers, the old Cape Horn shellback. Now 37 days out, his ship is lolling through the floating seaweed of the Sargasso Sea at one to four knots, still more than 1700 miles from Nantucket light. Is he going to make his landfall in less than the 66 days that the original Mayflower took?

By way of the radio, which is the only concession on board to modernity, comes this message from Villiers: "The Pilgrim fathers should have come this way instead of by the boisterous and ice littered northern route. Crew is studying marine life as it drifts by." This is indeed a strange message to come from the salty Villiers who has gone to sea for more than 30 years in wind ships and is known as a stern skipper with Stockholm tar in his veins. Shades of Capt. Bligh and the bucko mates—all hands at the railing studying marine life! Has Capt. Villiers been gentled by the fact that for once there is no wind singing in the rigging? Has he become entranced by the sight of flying fish skimming before the bow? Has he been enchanted by the spell of watching a red sun dip beneath the placid blue waters?

Or is it possible that conditions aboard Mayflower II may be quite different from what the radio reports as the ship makes a long haul through the unfaithful trade winds? It may well be that he is showing all hands what every old salt knows—that there is a difference between working the ship and working in the ship. With good winds, working the ship was not bad in the old windjammer days. It was working in the ship, when the wind failed, that was bad. An irate skipper would then find plenty for idle hands to do.

So perhaps a lot of luckless swabs and landlubbers are cleaning, chipping, painting, overhauling the gear, putting drabblers on the mainsail, slushing down the masts and tarring down aloft instead of watching Portuguese-men-of-war, squids and seaweed float by.

Chancellor Adenauer's Sequence

With his official talks in Washington ended, the West German chancellor, Dr. Konrad Adenauer, must feel that his American mission has been a success. And President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles must feel that our understanding with Bonn has been improved, if possible, and that a potential obstacle to an initial East-West disarmament agreement has been eliminated.

Unification of a divided country is the No. 1 issue in the campaigning for West Germany's third national elections in September, and some of the Chancellor's Social Democratic opponents have been suggesting that the United States might "sacrifice" Germany's prime interest for an agreement with Moscow. The German opposition, which once put reunification ahead of rearmament, is using strange logic in now raising doubts about disarmament. But politics is politics, and Washington has been somewhat concerned.

The Adenauer visit has produced a reassuring formula: West Germany agrees to support fully the effort of other Western nations to achieve a limited disarmament treaty. It shares the hope that this will be followed in a reasonable time by a more comprehensive agreement which is to be preceded by a solution of the German problem. President Eisenhower has indorsed this sequence. Further, he has assured the Chancellor that Bonn will be closely consulted on all matters affecting Germany which may come up in the course of disarmament negotiations. These may now be handicapped by French pride, but hardly by German fear.

Thus Dr. Adenauer goes home with new evidence that his pro-American and pro-Western policies have not damaged German interests. He also has renewed assurance that American troops will be stationed abroad as long as they are essential to Germany's defense. And Washington has his most solemn assertion that "nobody in Germany plays with the idea of using force or war (for) German reunification which we desire so ardently." In view of his religious and internationalist convictions, there also is the ring of truth in his assertion that the security of mankind demands "an over-all controlled disarmament."

The Missouri Senate Was Wrong

The Missouri Legislature has gone back to work and citizens will hope that its jurisdictional strike against the state is over. If Senate and House again stand deadlocked on their prerogatives, the taxpayers will have paid for an unproductive five-months' session. A costly special session will be necessary at once to pass appropriations for next year.

Nevertheless, the argument between Senate and House was one that will have to be settled some time, or it will arise to plague the state again. Who was right?

The Senate insisted that a joint conference committee hold a "free and open" conference, which means that the conferees could revise any item in an appropriation bill which was in dispute. The House insisted on a conference limited to consideration of those items which the Senate changed in the appropriations.

While the Senators contend that the open conference is now standing operating procedure, the House can reply that the procedure is relatively new, and grew up gradually. Certainly the usual legislative practice is to limit conferences to specific areas of dispute.

Normally the House has first responsibility for money bills, and initiates them. But the Senate is a smaller, more experienced and better disciplined club than the House, and has employed the open conference to dictate money matters.

Thus it has often happened that the Senate would sit on fund bills until late in the session, then alter them, then demand an open conference of five members from each chamber, and finally accept the conference committee's report and retire for the night—or the session. The House would have to swallow what the Senate wanted without salt, or be in the position of denying the state funds.

A conference committee of 10 members should not be given all the room in the Capitol to dictate money policies for 34 Senators and 157 Representatives. Having surrendered this hill, the House now finds it difficult to climb back again.

The House was right in its dispute with the Senate, but Missouri can ill afford to pay for a special session because of that dispute. With the session ending at midnight Friday, the Legislature's first duty is to get to work.

The Alaska Bill Approved

Approval of the Alaskan statehood bill by the House Insular Affairs Committee is a step in the right direction. The committee also improved the bill markedly by striking out three subcommittee amendments. These amendments would have required a referendum on statehood when Alaskans have repeatedly expressed themselves overwhelmingly for it; would have deferred state control over fish and wildlife for five years and denied the new state jurisdiction over common carriers, when exploitation of salmon and exorbitant freight rates are among the foremost evils which Alaskan statehood should correct. May the measure receive the understanding hearing by the House which our hardy fellow-Americans in Alaska Territory deserve.

Evasions on Idaho Power

The disclosure that Secretary Seaton recommended against it two months ago puts an entirely new light on the Government's tax subsidy to the Idaho Power Co.

So does the general atmosphere of secrecy, suppression and evasion with which the Seaton recommendation has since been surrounded.

Substantial reasons why fast tax write-off certificates should not be granted to the private utility were raised by the Interior Secretary. He said the company had shown no need for the special financial incentive. It had, he said, argued to the Federal Power Commission, as a reason for granting it the license to build these dams on the Snake river, that it would need no tax subsidy. Further, the Secretary went on, Idaho Power's projects would not produce excess power, and thus failed to meet a critical requirement for the tax preference.

Yet these important objections from a Cabinet officer were unknown to one of the key men who had to deal with Idaho Power's application, the chief of ODM's tax amortization branch, Jacob B. Wycoff. He did not learn of them until Tuesday, after the Seaton letter had been unearthed by Senator Kefauver's judiciary subcommittee.

The director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, Gordon Gray, furthermore, misled the subcommittee about the Interior Department's position. He referred to favorable reports there in 1955 but did not refer at all to the Secretary's unfavorable report of two months ago.

These developments smack of sharp dealing —with Congress, and with the electorate. They seem to spring from an abiding distrust of letting the public know how its business is being transacted. They are of a piece with the machinations through which Federal Power Commission Chairman Kuykendall evaded questions about the Idaho Power license decision two years ago, the day after it was made, and postponed the announcement a week longer until a few hours after Congress had adjourned.

It begins to look as if the tax preference granted for the projects in the Hell's Canyon stretch of the Snake were the result of some very special treatment indeed. The Kefauver subcommittee should be encouraged to renewed zeal in ferreting out the still-hidden aspects of this involved case.

Certainly it should throw some light on why Secretary Seaton's opinion seemed to carry so little force when that of his predecessor, Douglas McKay, was sufficient to chuck over the whole public interest in Hell's Canyon resources to a private company.

Where the Mentally Ill Are Aided

A striking contrast with Missouri's almost purely custodial care for mental patients is supplied by an experiment carried on for the past year at Norwich (Conn.) State Hospital. There, the Russell Rehabilitation Center undertook a $1,800,000 program in occupational therapy. Patients did not merely boondoggle gimcracks but refinished furniture, repaired shoes, restored mattresses, ran printing presses, operated a canteen and beauty parlor. And the outcome? More patients are being discharged than are being admitted for the first time in the hospital's 53 years' history! Active treatment as opposed to merely passive custodial care is not only humane; it saves money as well as lives.

TIME FOR ANOTHER "AGONIZING REAPPRAISAL"

Talking Safety Doesn't Work

The Mirror of Public Opinion

This is conclusion of Missouri newspaper as it surveys highway accident record in light of 35 years' 'public education' program; urges really tough law enforcement to reduce toll; need speed limits, more state patrolmen, strict drivers' licensing.

An Editorial in The De Soto Press

Thursday is Memorial day. When businesses close down for the holiday, the people will pay honor to the men who have died defending the country in past wars.

In so honoring the heroic dead, they will kill off many more Americans in highway accidents, defending nothing more than the childish freedom to display power through pressure on an accelerator pedal.

We have heard this sorry story before, and we will hear it again several times before the summer is over.

Highway safety has been a serious problem, it could be said, for about 35 years. During this time, we have relied primarily on a program of public education and indoctrination, hoping drivers could somehow be impressed with the suicide and homicide they were committing on the highways, and would voluntarily drive more carefully.

It is impossible, of course, to determine what sort of an accident record we would have had without this program, but accident trends do prove one undeniable fact—it has failed!

The slogans grow more frequent and more eloquent. "The Life You Save May Be Your Own," and "Slow Down and Live" are on billboards, in the newspapers, and repeated on radio and television. The public is warned about dangers of careless driving. Estimates are made of holiday death tolls, and they are usually overly conservative. The highway slaughter continues to grow worse.

This public education program is valuable and should be continued at full pace. This newspaper, like all newspapers, has been happy to make its facilities available for informing people of suggested ways and means to reduce the automobile age cost in lives. But we cannot escape the conclusion that something else—something more effective—will have to be added if we are ever to have relief from the appalling rate of highway death and injury.

We need really tough law enforcement. We are going to have to stop pussy-footing around with our present ineffective laws and weak penalties. We must not rely on the faint hope that the public will willingly desist from the wholesale suicide it is committing on our highways.

We feel the State of Missouri needs to take swift and decisive action to improve its poor highway safety record. In facing the problem, we believe the following conclusions are inescapable:

1. Missouri's traffic laws are not strict enough. We have as yet no fixed maximum speed law and no compulsory vehicle inspection law, as do many other states. And the states that have such laws have the best safety records. The General Assembly, however, currently is considering a bill that would establish a fixed speed limit, and chances of its approval appear good.

2. We do not have enough highway patrolmen. The General Assembly is now considering proposals to increase the force, but the hesitancy and vacillation of our legislators indicates whatever increases that may be decided upon will not be enough.

3. The penalties for violation of traffic laws are not severe enough. In Missouri, it is difficult to lose a driver's license. In Connecticut, one conviction for speeding brings automatic suspension of a driver's license.

A few weeks ago at Hillsboro, a man was fined $150 on his third conviction for careless and reckless driving while drinking. In many other states, that man would have lost his license on the first conviction.

The situation places Missouri squarely among the states not courageously facing up to the highway safety problem. We are depending almost exclusively on public indoctrination, a formula which is helpful but has failed to accomplish its purpose. We need now to follow the lead of other states which have notably lessened the highway death toll by tough laws and effective enforcement.

It is impossible to deny that the people of this state want to end the tragic highway killings. It remains for them to be given the courageous public leadership necessary to do the job.

The Season for Frogs

From the National Geographic News Bulletin

The frogs' concert series in Washington began dramatically this season.

"Twonk twonk," chorused the little amphibians.

"Scout 13, check disorderly frogs on Thirty-eighth Place," intoned the police radio dispatcher.

Patrolmen found the frogs making a racket, indeed. But there was not much they could do about it, though some families in the neighborhood were losing sleep.

Across the country the same playlet was taking place, usually without police in the cast. The frogs were heralding spring, bringing both pleasure and pain to their human audience.

Not that frogs care. Their music is intended for lady frogs. Each species has a distinctive call, which attracts only the females of the same species. Soon, in ponds and marshes, thousands of floating gelatin-wrapped eggs will hatch as a result.

Frogs make a racket without opening their mouths. Air from the lungs is forced back and forth over the vocal cords, producing the noise. Some calls resemble the sounds of quacking ducks, barking dogs, bleating goats, whooping Indians, or a regiment of men beating tin pans.

To gain volume, the frog has an air pouch under its chin. The pouch acts as a resonator. In some species it swells to half the size of the entire head and body of the frog.

Frog calls have been the object of considerable scientific study. Dr. Arthur A. Allen, writing in The National Geographic Magazine, has described night expeditions with microphone and amplifier to collect a comprehensive library of frog sounds.

Investigators find that frogs can make five kinds of sounds: mating, warning chirp, warning vibration, fright scream, and rain song. The last is a singing-in-the-shower type of thing, apparently just for fun.

In addition to keeping the countryside awake, frog calls have been blamed for other outrages, including the inability of some Missouri hogs to put on weight.

"Every time that blamed bullfrog gives out with a bellow," a farmer declared ruefully, "the pigs think it's someone calling them to eat. They're running all the fat off their bones answering his call."

But frog calls have certain uses for man. Scientists have found it easier to determine the exact species of certain frogs by call than by physical characteristics.

The director of a music festival in Virginia once ordered noisy frogs evicted from around his bandstand. He relented when he found they croaked a pure C sharp, and would be an asset to the score.

Between Book Ends

Eton Is Not in It

FISH FLYING THROUGH AIR, by Roswell G. Ham, Jr. (Putnam, 311 pgs., $3.95.)

This narrative begins at one of the better Eastern preparatory schools and continues through Yale and World War II. Following a rather traditional pattern, the author centers upon three young men, the hero being gifted and restless George McGough. The villain is unhappy Spook McDonald, a mean, troubled youth hounded by a family of second generation millionaires determined not to let him go back to shirtsleeves. The narrator, Charlie Baxter, is an ordinary guy looking on the scene, like us.

Charlie follows the careers of George and Spook from Hawley, the preparatory school, partly through Yale and into the armed services. The three meet in London where are displayed the questionable best of George and the unquestionable worst of Spook.

Roswell Ham

Getting back to the start, we might say that these Eastern prep schools have an edge on the playing fields of Eton. The ingenuity exercised in outwitting, harassing and discomfiting instructors is valuable training for the later business life of the students. The author is most entertaining on this subject and he reaches new heights at Yale.

The big moment is George McGough's attack with a sledge hammer (after three days' steady drinking) on the doors of the Skull and Bones sanctuary.

Symbolically this no doubt represents George as the antagonist of smugness, rectitude, hypocrisy, etc., all of which it is normal to attack in our youth, tolerate in our middle years and bitterly defend in our old age.

Whatever their significance, this and other escapades are related with infectious humor in a suave and balanced novel that is an accurate history of the milieu it portrays. Readers will derive more or less of a message from it, depending on their backgrounds, but any reader who isn't delighted with this masterpiece is the sort of person George McGough wouldn't put up with.

Figurehead Humanized

CROWN OF GLORY, by Alden Hatch and Seamus Walshe. (Hawthorn, 251 pgs., $4.95.)

Pope Pius XII is perhaps better known as a public figure than any previous Pope because of modern newspapers, radio and television. But the spiritual leader of one fifth of the world's population is still an austere and lonely figurehead to millions including Catholics who pray for him all of their lives.

Alden Hatch, a Protestant and author of several biographies of noted persons, and Seamus Walshe, a Catholic and a teacher in Rome, have tried to dispel some of the mystery surrounding the Holy Father in their book, "Crown of Glory."

They hit the high spots of his boyhood, his rise in the hierarchy and his 18 years as head of the Catholic Church in a readable, popular biography.

They show how Pius XII was thoroughly seasoned in international diplomacy before he became Pope. The part his intellectual gifts played in his elevation to the chair of St. Peter and his governing of the Church is noted.

The book does not pretend to delve into the Pope's thinking nor to estimate his place in history. He is likely to be remembered for his efforts in behalf of world peace and for his opposition to Communism which runs like a thread through his life.

The book makes clearer the sources of the Vatican's influence on world affairs. WILLIAM J. TUCKER JR.

WALTER LIPPMANN

No U.S. Alternative to Arms Talks

WASHINGTON.

WHILE MR. STASSEN WAS BACK in Washington, he was given fresh instructions. They marked a recognition on the part of the President that for the first time in the long history of talking about disarmament, we are in sight of a negotiation.

What Mr. Stassen has found in his recent meetings with the Russians is that they are acting as men would act who wished to strike a bargain and not merely to publish statements. This is something very new, and it has forced us to face questions that we have not had to face before. By long habit we had come to take it for granted that neither side really believed that an agreement was possible, and that, therefore, we were all free to make proposals without asking ourselves seriously what we would think if the Russians accepted them.

Stassen

Now, with Mr. Stassen reporting that he is on the verge of a negotiation, we find ourselves in a game where the chips mean real money, and the stakes are high.

Radford's Side Issue.

The great question, on which the President has had to decide the answer, is whether to start down the road of negotiation.

This is a question at the highest level of policy.

It is a much bigger question than the one which Admiral Radford raised when he said publicly that he did not want to make an agreement because he did not trust the Russians to carry it out.

The real question is whether it is wise to make an agreement that would be carried out before it was "self-enforcing."

There is not much doubt that we can insist on safeguards against the secret violation of an agreement.

The World As It Is.

The seriously debatable question is whether, in the kind of limited agreement which may be possible, the political risks of a relaxation of the tension are greater than the political and economic advantages.

What is there to be said against making an agreement which contains the necessary technical safeguards? In the last analysis, the argument is that if you agree to limit armaments before you have done anything to settle the great issues, you have in effect accepted the present division of the world.

"Any agreement about armaments, which fixes their size or stipulates how or when they may be used, is tantamount to a military guarantee of the existing military boundaries between the two coalitions.

This will, so runs the argument, reduce, perhaps remove, the pressure upon the Soviet Union to permit the reunification of the two Germanys. It will throttle down the pressure in Eastern Europe for the withdrawal of the Red Army.

Less Support for NATO.

It will, at the same time, reduce the pressure of anxiety in Western Europe, including Western Germany, and so make these countries less disposed to carry the burden of the NATO military establishment.

It will stimulate the American demand to cut the budget at the expense of the military services and of foreign aid.

As against all these risks, the President had decided that the risks and the costs of not negotiating may be still greater. I do not see how he could have decided differently.

For how, if he is faced with a serious offer to negotiate, can the President of the United States refuse to negotiate? Can he say that we do not want an agreement when he and the two Presidents before him have so often declared that we do want one?

Too much has been said by too many responsible men, and it is now impossible for the President to take a stand against an agreement on armaments.

A Morbid Assumption.

The President can argue about the substance of any particular agreement. But he must argue sincerely, that is to say, with the hope of reaching an agreement and not with a concealed intention of preventing an agreement.

If we look at the case against an agreement, is it not fair to ask whether it does not rest on a strange and dangerous assumption—that if tensions are relaxed, if the fear of war is reduced, the advantages will go to the Communist powers and the disadvantages to the non-Communist.

Is this our true measure of the world? Must we really believe that with less fear and anxiety and tension we shall languish while the totalitarian states will flourish?

Surely this assumption, which turns our moral conviction upside down, is itself a morbid symptom of the existing tensions, manifesting itself in a profound lack of confidence in our own institutions and in our own people.

KANSAS CITY TO GET BAPTIST SEMINARY

Wins Out Over Chicago and Denver at Southern Baptist Meeting.

By JOHN T. STEWART
Church Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, May 29 — Kansas City, Mo., was chosen by the Southern Baptist Convention today as the site for its sixth theological seminary, to be built at a cost of about $2,000,000.

Kansas City won over Chicago and Denver after a debate on the convention floor.

The meeting opened last night with about 30,000 local churches with a membership of 8,500,000 represented.

About 15,000 pastors, lay persons and denominational officers were expected to attend the sessions which will close Friday night, according to the Rev. Dr. Joe W. Burton of Nashville, Tenn., convention secretary.

Representatives of local churches are called "messengers," rather than delegates, because their actions in conventions are not binding on local churches; they can only recommend.

The 85 churches and missions of the St. Louis Baptist Association will have about 400 messengers and visitors at various sessions of this convention, it was estimated by the Rev. Homer E. DeLozier, secretary of St. Louis Baptist city missions. He has been here since Sunday attending pre-convention meetings.

Dr. Johnson Keynoter.

The Woman's Missionary Union of the denomination closed a three-day meeting yesterday. The keynote speaker Sunday night was the Rev. Dr. C. Oscar Johnson, pastor of Third Baptist Church, St. Louis.

The Southern Baptist Pastors' Conference was held Monday and yesterday. One of the conference speakers was the Rev. Dr. F. Townley Lord of London, England, past president of Baptist World Alliance.

The convention will hold two sessions tomorrow at 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. The morning session will include election of officers, including a new president.

The Rev. Dr. Casper Carl Warren of Charlotte, N.C., has served two one-year terms as president of the convention and is not eligible for re-election.

478 New Churches.

Southern Baptist Convention has been growing so fast—478 new churches were organized last year—that its present five seminaries are overcrowded.

This meeting will receive a suggested amendment to the S.B.C. constitution which would permit member churches freedom in the control of property and in directing their internal affairs.

The report of the committee on order of business was presented last night by the Rev. Dr. Ira H. Peak of Mobile, Ala., former pastor of Tower Grove Baptist Church, St. Louis.

All sessions of the convention are held at the International Amphitheater.

GEORGE CHANNING DIES, CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURER

NEW YORK, May 29 (UP)—George Channing, of Sausalito, Calif., Christian Science lecturer and editor and father of actress Carol Channing, died today aboard a Sabena Belgian airlines plane over Newfoundland. He was 68 years old.

Mr. Channing and his wife, Adelaide, were returning from a lecture trip in Europe and Great Britain on behalf of First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Cause of death was listed as "apparent heart attack" pending an examination by the New York City medical examiner, required by law. Mr. Channing worked on newspapers from 1918 to 1923. He was city editor of the Seattle Star in 1923 when he became San Francisco advertising representative for the Christian Science Monitor. His working life had been devoted to the church from that time.

He was first reader in the Fifth Christian Science Church, San Francisco, from 1926 to 1929, and in the mother church, Boston, 1941 and 1942. He was editor of Christian Science periodicals for a time and served as lecturer at various periods.

JOHN W. ROLLINGS FUNERAL SERVICES AT SPOKANE, MO.

Funeral services for John W. Rollings, father of John I. Rollings, president of the AFL-CIO Missouri State Labor Council, were held today at the Spokane (Mo.) school auditorium. Burial was in Spokane cemetery.

Mr. Rollings died of a kidney ailment Monday in a Springfield (Mo.) hospital. He was 82 years old. He was a retired farmer and a former member of the Spokane board of education. Another son, Robert A. (Al) Rollings, is president of the St. Louis Barbers Union.

Also surviving are his wife, three daughters, Mrs. Cora Saltzman, Little Rock, Ark.; Mrs. Rose Botofson, Detroit, and WAVE Lt. Bertha E. Rollings, now at Taipei, Formosa; seven sons, William P. Rollings, Reedly, Calif.; Edward C. Rollings, San Antonio, Tex.; Navy Chief Quartermaster Neil N. Rollings, Shreveport, La.; Navy Chief Machinist's Mate Lewis Rollings, Middleton, R.I., and Leamond Rollings, Spokane; Jake F. Rollings and Burl D. Rollings, St. Louis.

New Head of Salvation Army.

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Commissioner Donald McMillan yesterday announced his retirement as national commander of the Salvation Army. He will be succeeded by Commissioner Norman S. Marshall, eastern territorial commander.

ST. JOHN'S HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED

Adalbert von Gontard Outlines Plans for New $14,000,000 Institution.

The proposed new $14,000,000 St. John's hospital at Conway and Ballas roads in St. Louis county will be the most modern hospital in the Midwest, Adalbert von Gontard, chairman of the St. John's building fund, told a dinner meeting last night at Hotel Chase.

Von Gontard said the 670-bed hospital would include a psychiatric department and facilities for chronic and convalescent patients and for education of nurses, laboratory technicians and medical students.

The citizens committee dinner opened a drive to raise $3,000,000. Approximately $11,000,000 will be provided by the Sisters of Mercy, through past bequests, and by a long term loan supplemented by the Government under the Hill-Burton Act.

Other speakers were Joseph Holland, vice chairman of the building fund; Richard C. Muckerman, chairman of the St. John's Hospital advisory board, and Dr. Alphonse McMahon, hospital chief of staff.

Von Gontard pointed out that the present St. John's hospital at 307 South Euclid avenue was constructed in 1912 and was enlarged in 1925 to a capacity of 333 beds. The present hospital will continue in operation as a general hospital.

Dinner guests received a brochure which said that St. Louis county at present is short 1564 beds of standard requirements for hospitalization. Approximately 53 per cent of St. John's patients now come from the county, the brochure said.

9 PICASSOS, AFRICAN SCULPTURE SHOWN

Exhibits by Leslie Laskey, Artists' Guild Open This Week Also.

By GEORGE McCUE

Nine Picasso lithographs and 42 African Negro sculptures comprise an exhibition opening today at the Martin Schweig Gallery, that offers a rather exciting change of pace in the way of art shows. Other new openings this week are paintings, sculptures, drawings and ceramics by Artists' Guild members, and a show of drawings and prints by Leslie J. Laskey.

The Picassos and the African sculptures are from a private collection. Each of the lithographs is from an edition of 50, and two—abstract treatments of women's faces—are in color. The black and white prints display the Spanish master's versatility in several different styles. One contains an arrangement of continuous line drawings, in white on black, of medieval themes. In another, a handsome bull, somewhat related to the minotaur motif seen in a number of Picasso's works, is also beautifully delineated in outline.

One enigmatic work has an exquisitely modeled woman with a kind of Gioconda smile executed in smooth, delicate touches of ink, and, about the margins, a series of quick little sketches, like caricatures of classic Greek figures, done in a white scratch effect on the black surface.

African Sculptures.

The African sculptures, several in the style that influenced Picasso, Braque and other cubist innovators, include several funerary figures, masks, a series of bobbins ornamented with stylized heads, and some abstractions of antelopes. All are from the Central West African region.

The antelop carvings are exquisite specimens of the African's ability to synthesize and abstract a form. Each makes the most of the boldly curving antlers; the animal's body is reduced to a few planes, curves and angles. Each part of the wood is ornamented in a way independent of the animal theme, yet harmonious with the transformed version of it. A set of miniature figures, made of brass by the Ashanti people and used as gold weights, is arranged in a shadow box for viewing at eye level.

The Schweig gallery is at 4657 Maryland avenue; the show runs through July 13.

Artists' Guild Exhibit.

At the Artists' Guild galleries, 812 Union boulevard, 36 members are exhibiting one or more works each. In some respects, this is a retrospective show, for it includes numerous works shown in group and one-man exhibitions during the winter.

In the show are sculptures by Fred Dreher and Elizabeth Phelan; ceramics by Patricia Degener, and paintings and drawings by Alice Pearcy Ulbright, Alexandra Galston, Nancy Singer, Carmen Bahr Kress, Mabel M. Edsall, Miriam McKinnie, Vivian Chevillon, Philip and Mary Gronemeyer, David Hares, Siegfried Reinhardt, Matthew Ziegler, Belle Cramer and Warran Spaulding.

Others are Mildred Bailey Carpenter, Eugenia Hart, Ruth Menendez, Louise Horwitz, Mary Jane Becker, Eda L. Cushing, Arthur L. Kanak, Virginia Moberly Schlueter, Fred G. Carpenter, Thelma Notter Webb, Wallace Herndon Smith, Jane Pettus, Nancy Ingram Nooter, Tanasko and Estelle Milovich, Idelle Luntz, Eloise Warren, Rodney Winfield and Myrtle Kornblum.

These artists are in the Guild's Art Section, a group whose works have been accepted at least three times in the last three yars in major art exhibitions. The show runs through June 8.

Leslie J. Laskey's works are on view at the Three Arts Shop, 6501 Delmar boulevard. Laskey, an assistant professor in the Washington University School of Architecture, works in a number of styles. His "Hickory Branch," a black ink drawing of a slender limb bearing a few leaves and nuts, makes a diagonal sweep across the paper with the simplicity and directness of a Japanese brush stroke.

"A Walk on a Seawall," a three-color woodcut, stands out sharply and cleanly. In several of the lithographs, an exceedingly fine graduation of dark to light is to be found, imparting a velvety fineness. This exhibition runs through June 15.

KHRUSHCHEV INTERVIEW FILMED FOR U.S. TELEVISION

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

MOSCOW, May 29—Nikita S. Khrushchev's private office in the Kremlin was turned into a tangle of cameras and lighting equipment yesterday for his debut on American television.

The Soviet Communist party chief answered questions on foreign and domestic affairs by three American newspaper men in an interview arranged by the Columbia Broadcasting System. The film will be flown to New York and shown on the CBS "Face the Nation" program Sunday.

The program, normally of 30 minutes duration, will be extended to an hour for Khrushchev's interview. This was done at the suggestion of Soviet officials in Washington, with whom CBS negotiated about the interview.

The interviewers were Stuart Novins, of "Face the Nation"; Naniel Schorr, CBS correspondent in Moscow, and B. J. Cutler, of the New York Herald Tribune. Their questions were whispered to Khrushchev by a translator sitting at his side. His answers were translated by another translator and fed to the panel over earphones.

ATTORNEY SHEPARD R. EVANS DIES IN CIVIL COURTS LOBBY

Shepard R. Evans, a lawyer here for about 50 years, collapsed and died in the lobby of the Civil Courts building yesterday. Mr. Evans, who was 75 years old, lived at 5580 Waterman boulevard.

He was an unsuccessful candidate for magistrate of the Eighth District in 1950 and was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress from the Third District in 1952. He attended the old Benton College of Law here.

INFLATED RUBBER AIRPLANE SHOWN

Aviation Writers See Pilot Fly 44-Horsepower Navy Escape Craft.

An inflated rubber airplane, a device for broadcasting a pilot's heartbeat and respiration, and a new jet engine were shown yesterday to members of the Aviation Writers Association, who visited Kansas City and the Olathe, Kan., Naval Air Base as part of their national convention. The convention, attended by several hundred association members, will continue through Friday with headquarters at Hotel Chase.

The rubber airplane, with mattress-like wings, was inflated on the field at the air station. The pilot warmed up the craft's compact, 44-horsepower engine and took off in a thunderstorm. Representatives of the Goodyear Corp. said 10 of the unusual planes were being made for the Navy, which thinks they could be useful in assisting downed flyers to escape. The rubber craft, called the Inflatoplane, flies faster than 60 miles an hour and can stay aloft eight hours.

Lt. Cleo Kube, a Navy pilot, broadcast his heartbeat and respiration from a plane one mile above the air station. Listeners said the heartbeat sounded like a deep, throbbing drum and the pilot's respiration like surf on a beach. A spokesman said the sounds, recorded through a stethoscope on a flyer's chest, have been heard as far as 100 miles.

Through the device ground observers can keep a record of a pilot's physical condition, and warn him of any irregularity in breathing or heart action due to altitude or other causes. The equipment also can be used as a "walkie-talkie cardiogram" to check the breathing and heart action of men exercising on the ground, it was stated.

A new jet engine, the Westinghouse J-54, was also unveiled at the Naval Base. In the 6000-pound thrust range, the engine is relatively compact and is reported to have outstanding fuel economy.

The Aviation Writers, who returned to St. Louis last night, flew to Wichita, Kan., for today's session, traveling in the Tactical Air Command's new project transports.

Four C-130 Hercules troop and cargo carriers made the trip to Wichita, where the writers were guests at several aircraft manufacturing plants. Both military and private plane programs were discussed.

MYRON SCHWARTZ ELECTED

Myron Schwartz, executive director of the Jewish Community Relations Council of St. Louis, was elected president of the National Association of Jewish Community Relations Workers last night at its annual convention in Atlantic City, N.J.

Schwartz, an attorney, has been executive director of the St. Louis council for 10 years. He lives at 8228 Tulane avenue, University City.

CHARLES E. BENOIST DIES; OF OLD ST. LOUIS FAMILY

Charles E. Benoist, member of an old St. Louis family, died of infirmities Monday at the Pine Crest Nursing Home, Manchester, Mo. He was 80 years old.

Born on a farm near Irondale, Mo., he was the last president of an airplane factory here bearing the family name. His brother, the late Thomas Benoist, founded the firm, which has since dissolved. It was a pioneer airplane manufacturing firm.

Surviving are a brother, Elmer B. Benoist, Montrose, Calif.; and two sisters, Mrs. D. R. Davis, Kansas City, and Mrs. Phronia Poucher, Frankclay, Mo. Funeral services will be Friday morning at the graveside at Hopewell Cemetery, Washington county.

MSGR. GLENNON FLAVIN TO BE MADE A BISHOP TOMORROW

Msgr. Glennon P. Flavin will be consecrated Auxiliary Bishop by Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter in services at 4 p.m. tomorrow at St. Louis Cathedral, 4401 Lindell boulevard. Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, national director of the Society for Propagation of the Faith, will give the sermon.

Co-consecrators along with Archbishop Ritter will be Auxiliary Bishop Leo C. Byrne and Bishop Charles H. Helmsing, an auxiliary bishop here until he become spiritual head of the newly established Springfield-Cape Girardeau diocese.

Msgr. Flavin, formerly Archbishop Ritter's secretary, was a leader in establishing the World Missionaries, an organization of laymen who aid the church missions through prayer and with funds accumulated through sacrifice of luxuries. A reception for the new bishop will be held at 2 p.m., Sunday, in the Knights of Columbus building, 4331 Lindell boulevard.

$1400 SCHOLARSHIP WON BY HADLEY TECH SENIOR

Miss Ernestine Powell, a senior at Hadley Technical High School, has won a $1400 scholarship at Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va., and will enroll in the institute next September as a student in tailoring, it was announced today.

Miss Powell, 17 years old, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Powell Jr., 3608 North Newstead avenue. She won first place in tailoring in Hampton Institute's national awards and skill competition this year.

Third-ranking student in her class a Hadley Technical High School, Miss Powell also received a curator's scholarship from Lincoln University at Jefferson City. She elected to attend the Virginia institution.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. FRED W. KAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Fred W. Kay, 3954 Arsenal street, were held today. Burial was in Lakewood Park Cemetery.

Mrs. Kay died of infirmities Sunday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Herbert H. Wind, with whom she lived. She was 87 years old. Her husband, who died in 1938, was a retail baker here for more than 50 years, and one of a group of small business men who sponsored the World's Fair here in 1904.

Also surviving are three sons, Julian A. Kay, Inglewood, Calif.; Herbert O. Kay, Danville, Ill., and Harry F. Kay.

Thomas J. Sullivan Dies.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 29 (AP)—Thomas J. Sullivan, senior vice president of Gulf Oil Corp., died of a heart attack last night when visiting a friend in a downtown hotel. He was 64 years old.

We Can Prove it

PRICE DOESN'T MEAN QUALITY

"I can buy a larger diamond for less" is a common expression to us in the diamond industry. You can, too, but its beauty and degree of lasting desirability is also less. High standards eliminate the selling of inferior diamonds at Jaccard's. We uphold them for people who appreciate owning quality, which is the soundest way to satisfaction in diamonds. Jaccard's values are sound, too.

Dodgers and Giants Get League Permission for Transfer to Coast

Report Persists Reds Will Ask for New York Spot If It's Vacated

CHICAGO, May 29 (UP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants were set for the "California gold rush of '58" today in a package deal that may also transform the Cincinnati Redlegs into a New York franchise.

The way for the most drastic revision of the major league baseball map in history was officially paved yesterday when National League clubowners unanimously consented to permit the Dodgers to shift to Los Angeles and the Giants to San Francisco. The owners stipulated both clubs must make up their minds before Oct. 1.

General Manager Gabe Paul of the Redlegs did not ask similar permission to transfer the Cincinnati franchise but a top baseball official told the United Press the Redlegs will move to New York if the two other clubs move out. It was the same official who informed the United Press of the developments which occurred yesterday.

Civic Emergencies.

The biggest bombshell to hit baseball in years resulted in the following furious activity:

—Mayor Robert Wagner of New York said he will "do everything I can to keep the Dodgers and Giants in New York." Wagner is scheduled to take the matter up today in an emergency meeting with other city officials.

—Mayor Norris Poulson of Los Angeles arrived in New York to press the matter with President Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers and Los Angeles County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn predicted the Dodgers will announce in a few days that they are shifting to the West Coast city.

—The Ohio Legislature passed by a 110-2 vote a bill which would provide the Redlegs with a new stadium. The bill, sponsored by Representative Robert A. Taft Jr. must clear the Senate to become law.

—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick called the National League owners' action "improper" because of minor league territorial rights involved. He is without power to block the proposed shifts, however.

—The Associated Press, reporting Frick's comment on the vote to allow the teams to move, quoted Frick as saying: "That's the proper procedure.")

—In Washington, a United Press reporter said congressional reaction to the expansion of the league "is unquestionably favorable." Representative Emanuel Celler (Dem.), New York, and Representative Patrick J. Hillings (Rep.), California, endorsed the idea when it was revealed exclusively by the United Press on Monday.

Reluctant to Move.

Both O'Malley and Horace Stoneham, owner of the Giants, stressed that they asked permission for the transfers, "reluctantly" and left the door slightly ajar for New York City officials to change their minds.

"Whether we exercise the permission we've been granted remains to be seen," said O'Malley. "I am aware of the fact that the people of Los Angeles and the government officials there are very anxious to have major league baseball. I think Brooklyn fans have been 100 per cent all right but we want a new ball park. We need a park where we can park cars and please fans. Right now, we can park only 700 cars."

"The league acted so that our club could be in a position to go to San Francisco," said Stoneham. "We like New York. But the support hasn't been there. We'd like to stay, but last year our attendance was away down (about 630,000). If we did move, I wouldn't mind another club moving into New York at all."

National League President Warren Giles confirmed that the Redlegs were asked whether they desired to transfer to New York at yesterday's meeting and said Paul replied, "We aren't asking consent for anything."

Must Await Actual Move.

The United Press' informant pointed out that the Redlegs could not "ask to move into a city until the two teams currently there officially announce they are moving out of it."

Giles also revealed that neither the Dodgers nor Giants presented any guarantees that Los Angeles and San Francisco had promised them new, modern ball parks.

"We just all assumed that the Dodgers and Giants were satisfied with what those cities offered them," Giles explained. "The action was predicated on the assumption that both the Dodgers and Giants would move and not just one of them."

The Dodgers have asked city officials to help them replace antiquated Ebbets Field (seating capacity 32,000) with a new stadium but the project has yet to "get off the ground." The Giants also are dissatisfied with the Polo Grounds, despite its 50,000-seat capacity, but have not formally requested the city to help them build another park.

History of Club Franchise Changes

CHICAGO, May 29 (AP).

HERE'S how the major league baseball map, unchanged for half a century, has been altered in the last five years:

March 18, 1953—National League, in an unprecedented move, approves shift of Boston Braves' franchise to Milwaukee.

Sept. 29, 1953—American League approved sale and transfer of St. Louis Browns franchise to Baltimore.

Nov. 8, 1954 — American League approved sale and transfer of Phfladelphia Athletics' franchise to Kansas City.

May 28, 1957 — National League granted permission to move Brooklyn Dodgers' franchise to Los Angeles and New York Giants' franchise to San Francisco if and when the clubs request such a change.

Only the 1953 change which converted the St. Louis Browns into the Baltimore Orioles went against the westward trend.

Of the three actual moves, only the Boston-Milwaukee switch has proved an unqualified success. The Braves have been consistent pennant contenders since moving to Milwaukee and have established league attendance records as well.

Los Angeles, San Francisco and Kansas City, of the five cities named above, are new to major league baseball. Baltimore had been in the American League in 1901-02. Milwaukee also was a member of the A.L. when it gained major league status in 1901.

'MANY PROBLEMS REMAIN' — GILES

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Capsule comments on yesterday's go-ahead for the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants to move west:

Ford Frick, baseball commissioner: "That's the proper procedure (the vote to allow the teams to move). The next procedure, in the case of New York, at least, is to draft territory. They cannot do more until October. . . . The Dodgers own the Los Angeles club. Their procedure would be different."

Warren Giles, National League president: "All this does not necessarily mean that the West Coast will have major league baseball in 1958. . . . There are a lot of problems."

Walter O'Malley, Dodger president: "The league has given us a chance to explore all possibilities."

Horace Stoneham, Giant president: "The league has given us a chance to explore all possibilities."

Gabe Paul, Cincinnati general manager: "We're not asking permission for anything."

Mayor Norris Poulson, Los Angeles: "We've been flirting so long with the Dodgers we're not going to let them go now that we apparently have wooed them. . . . As far as Los Angeles is concerned the Pacific Coast League has folded up."

Mayor George Christopher, San Francisco: "Most gratifying."

Katalinas to Direct Detroit Scout Staff

DETROIT, May 29 (AP)—Edward G. Katalinas, who has been in the Detroit Tiger organizing since 1940, has been named director of the club's scouting system.

In the position, a new one in the Tiger organization, Katalinas, 46, will be in charge of Detroit's 22-man team of full-time scouts.

CHICAGO, May 29 (AP).

COMMENTING on possible franchise shifts, Frank Lane, St. Louis Cardinals general manager, said today:

"The expectancy at Los Angeles — and I'm not stretching my imagination — would be to draw from 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 fans a year with a good ball club . . . and San Francisco certainly is a civic-minded city also."

Fred Fleig, assistant secretary-treasurer of the National League, said that studies indicated that travel to the west coast would add about $35,000 yearly to expenses of each team. He said the figure would vary on whether there would be a three-trip or four-trip schedule.

Only One U.S. Golfer Remains In British Play

FORMBY, England, May 29 (UP) — Only one American, United States Army Sgt. Richard Ridgeley of Haverford, Pa., survived fourth and fifth-round play today in the British amateur golf championship.

Ridgeley beat Dr. F. W. G. Deighton of England in the morning round in sunny, pleasant weather, 2 up, and then, in the afternoon fifth round in cloudy, much cooler weather, he elminated Sandy Sinclair of Scotland, 3 and 2, to advance to the quarterfinals against Scottish internationalist Leslie McClue, who ousted favored Dale Morey of Indianapolis in the fifth round, 3 and 2.

Gene Andrews of Pacific Palisades, Calif., was the only other American to reach the fifth round and he was beaten there by former Scottish champion Reid Jack, 5 and 3.

Alan Bussell, icy-cool 20-year-old Scot who may emerge as Britain's best player, won his way to the quarterfinals with a 1-up victory over A. Thirlwell of England.

South African Wins.

Arthur Walker of South Africa, a leading favorite, beat Gerald Micklem, new British Walker Cup non-playing captain, 2 and 1.

Sinclair, who had beaten Richard Roos of San Francisco in the second round and defending champion John Beharrell in the third round, could not cope with Ridgeley's game this afternoon.

Ridgeley, who never has been behind an opponent in this tournament, continued that distinction as he won the first hole against Sinclair with a 15-foot putt. He was in control the rest of the way, and closed out the match with Putts of 20 and 15 feet on the fifteenth and sixteenth greens. On the sixteenth he allowed Sinclair to halve the hole, although the Scot did not putt, and the official score showed a 2 for each.

McClue suffered a bad cut behind his ear when he was struck by Morey's club. McClue had walked behind Morey's practice swing on the eleventh tee. He bled profusely but refused first aid, although a doctor said the cut would need stitches.

McHale Loses to Stowe.

Loser in the fourth round was Jimmy McHale of Philadelphia, who bowed to the English veteran, Charlie Stowe, one down.

Morey in the morning round defeated Frank Fawcett of England, 5 and 4, and Ridgeley had won from Dr. F. W. Deighton, Scotland, 2 up.

Andrews, a former St. Louisan, had won his morning fourth-round match over H. V. S. Thomson of Scotland by a 4 and 3 score.

"Jack played as if he invented putting," said Andrews after the match. "I couldn't match his brand of golf."

Mizell, Schmidt To Hurl Holiday Bill With Reds

Willard Schmidt and Vinegar Bend Mizell will pitch for the Cardinals and probably Brooks Lawrence and Joe Nuxhall or Warren Hacker for league-leading Cincinnati in tomorrow's 1 o'clock holiday doubleheader here.

Jim Bottomley, the former Cardinal first base great, looking more fit than in recent years, was a pressbox visitor. Sunny Jim is a scout for the Cubs now. . . . Stan Musial, hitless in three official trips, lost eight points to .363, but The Man knocked in his thirty-first RBI with an infield out. . . . That run was set up when Alvin Dark, after executing a clever bunt-and-run play that narrowly went foul, switched to the hit-and-run, with Don Blasingame breaking for second again, and singled through the vacated shortstop spot.

Wally Moon bruised his chest as he banged into the left field grandstand in an unsuccessful attempt to catch a foul fly. Preserving his hitting streak his last time up, Moon moved up on an infield out. Then as Joe Cunningham beat out a slow roller, Moon sprinted from second and scored when Shortstop Casey Wise threw wild for an error.

Eddie Kasko contributed two standout plays, one just before Ernie Banks tripled in the fourth for the first Chicago hit. . . . East-Sider Cal Neeman set up the Cubs' run with a double in the eighth.—B.B.

Cardinals' Poor Pitching Rating Boosted by Jackson's Five-Hitter

By Bob Broeg

Fred Hutchinson's slide-rule friend from Florida, Alfred Parker Berry of Mount Dora, would agree today that Lawrence Curtis Jackson is the kind of pitcher who . . . well, who'd enable a manager to grab up his golf sticks with a light heart and enjoy a day off.

Hutchinson, though one of baseball's better golfers, hadn't been on the links since February until this open date when he happily gave their first test to new clubs sent to him by George Bayer, the giant pro who is obviously as generous as he is large and, in addition, golf's Babe Ruth when it comes to getting distance off the tee.

The stern-visaged Hutchinson—Joe Garagiola insists he's really happy, only his face doesn't know it—even smiled over the Cardinals' second successive complete game. And he spoke with enthusiasm about Jackson's 5-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs last night at Busch Stadium—and the way friend Berry would rate the performance.

Rating on Bases Allowed.

Berry, it must be explained, has copyrighted a method for rating pitchers, based not on victories or earned-run averages, but on bases allowed opposing batters. He charges pitchers one base each for walks, hit batsmen, wild pitches and balks as well as singles, two bases for doubles, three for triples and, of course, four for homers. The average bases allowed per nine innings is determined by adding the total bases, dividing the number of innings pitched into the total bases and multiplying by nine.

"Although Berry sells his rating service, it's mainly an interesting hobby with him," said Hutchinson, a pioneer among major league pitchers who gave the Florida man encouragement when he sought endorsements for his ratings several years ago.

"The rating gets at the basic idea of pitching," Hutch went on. "That is, to keep the batter off base and, furthermore, to penalize a pitcher as much for walks as for hits, to judge him even more by his ability to avoid the home run ball. Jackson, as Berry would find him, is a miser on the mound."

The Redbird staff, largely through having issued more passes and more doubles than any other National League club, was last in the senior circuit on Berry's pitching ratings through Sunday's game, Hutchinson said, displaying the weekly figures air-mailed to him from Florida. The Cardinals' average output of 19.07 bases per game, in fact, was worse than any major league team allowed except Washington's 20.44.

"And what did Larry allow this time?" asked Hutchinson, seeking contrasts. He added the result and came up with the answer:

"Just eight bases on three singles, a double and a triple. Not a single walk. He struck out eight and when you get half your strikeouts on change-ups, as he did, you've got a terrific letup."

The 25-year-old curly-haired Jackson, first National League pitcher to win six straight games this season, tacked on to five successive relief victories a starting triumph in which he retired 11 straight batters, yielded a two-out triple to Ernie Banks in the fourth, then knocked off another 11 consecutive Cubs.

The Cardinals, by then, had bunched enough of their nine hits to force the removal of Moe Drabowsky, young bonus righthander. Alvin Dark, collecting three hits, drove in two runs. Joe Cunningham homered and singled, Don Blasingame singled twice and walked, and Wally Moon, in addition to challenging an outfield wall and running the bases hard, extended his consecutive-game hitting streak to 21 with a final-chance single that set up the last Redbird run in the eighth.

That same inning Chicago finally scored on two hits and an infield out. In the ninth the Cubs threatened again with two more blows. Two were down when the count ran to "3 and 2" on Walt (Moose) Moryn, muscular left-handed-hitting right fielder.

With an 8956 crowd edging forward on its seats, Jackson cleverly caught Moryn leaning, too, feeding the off-balance slugger a full-count change-up that became a game-ending called third strike.

"I just know he'd be looking for the fast ball," said the wiry third-season righthander with the deceptive easy-does-it delivery and the impressive 6-1 record that includes only eight walks (three intentional) and just two homers in 47 innings.

As Hutchinson said, lining up an imaginary putt in his clubhouse office, Larry Jackson is a pitcher who makes statisticians and managers appreciate talent when they see it. He is, friend Berry would agree, the berries.

In the Ozarks With Stokely

By Z. Lee Stokely
Ozark Sportsman and Outdoors Writer.

Man, with his ingenuity, constantly labors in scientific fields to find more lethal weapons and devices to simplify the harvest of fish and game. Guns and fishing tackle are vastly improved when compared with those of only a few years ago. Fishing lures and hunting ammunition showed marked advancement. In the last few years game calls have developed into a multi-million-dollar market because of their effectiveness in enticing more game to the hunters' guns. If a halt is not called on some of the more recent devices, it is possible that a few species of fish and game may be depleted to an alarming degree.

The use of electronic waterfowl-calling devices, reported to be devastatingly effective, is being studied by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service with a view toward recommending possible bar or control measures. The type of call which prompted the study was a recording of the sounds of flocks of geese feeding. The new call differs from the other taped or recorded calls in its realistic reproduction of the many sounds made by geese on the feeding grounds.

Reports of Deadly Results.

The deadliness of modern electronic devices involving tape recorders, record players, amplifiers and loud speakers to attract the geese, is emphasized by reports from a number of East Coast hunting areas where they were used last fall. One report to the Service said that on one farm where there were four shooting pits, 1285 geese were killed during the season. In another case five hunters killed their limit in an hour and a half, and on two occasions during that period as many as 2000 geese hovered over the blind, it was reported. In still another reported incident on a "blue bird" day—windless, beautiful weather which usually means poor hunting — an electronic recording pulled Canada geese out of a federal migratory bird refuge to a blind 500 yards away where five hunters killed their limit.

A survey in one East Coast goose hunting state indicates a kill and crippling loss of 100,000 geese last fall. This was a substantial increase over the takes of previous years. State and federal officials attribute much of this increased kill to the use of electronic calling devices. What could happen if the practice becomes widespread is causing a great deal of concern to Service technicians.

Experienced waterfowlers know that ducks decoy to calling much more readily than geese. If tape recordings were made of feeding ducks, with their various chatter and mixed calls which can not be duplicated in their entirety with an ordinary mouth-blown caller, and these recordings put on loud amplifiers, the ducks could be lured from almost any distance. Migration flights, regardless of height, could be lured within gun range and heavy slaughter would result.

Electronic Fish Caller, Too.

Another late electronic arrival is the fish caller. This battery-operated device is sunk in the water near the favored fishing spot. A buzzing noise, said by the manufacturers to imitate the hum of an insect, attracts the fish in that vicinity. It is a long-standing joke in the Ozarks, when the fish are not biting, to remark, "Wish I had remembered to bring my fish caller with me." Now it is a reality, but only time will prove its effectiveness.

The Indians were the originators of the art of calling game. They taught the white man how to lure the moose, wild turkeys and other game. Anyone with a rural youth background remembers with a nostalgic feeling how, in his boyhood days, he called cock quail by imitating the plaintive notes of the hen quail, and the eager "Bob-bob-white" response as the cock approached closer and closer. Soon he would appear in an opening close by, and then, with a startled whir of wings, fly away to a wooded sanctuary as he learned to his dismay that he had been the victim of a country boy's adept whistling ability.

Today we have duck and goose calls, crow calls, squirrel calls, deer calls, elk calls, turkey calls and even those that imitate the screeches of a dying rabbit to fool the predators, such as foxes, coyotes, and wolves, into believing that they are going to feast on an unfortunate bunny. Recordings can be bought that are either the actual vocal tones of the various birds and animals or those of master imitators. These are for the purpose of teaching the purchasers how to efficiently operate the various animal and bird calls.

Man's labor and ingenuity are on the verge of defeating their own purpose if the mechanical and electronic hunting and fishing devices continue to improve over the years. In fact, the sportsman is about to price himself out of the market. The harvest will soon exceed the everdiminishing supply.

Don Loses No-Hit Bid In Eighth

NEW YORK, May 29 (UP)—If there are any members of the Dodgers and the Giants harboring misgivings about their proposed transfers to California, they ought to consult Warren Spahn.

Since moving west with the old Boston Braves to Milwaukee four years ago, Spahn has proved he is just as good pitching on the shores of Lake Michigan as he was during his younger days on the banks of the Charles river.

The wily, 36-year-old southpaw hooked up with Cincinnati's young Don Gross in an old-fashioned pitching duel last night at Milwaukee. Gross had a no-hit, no-run game going until the eighth inning when Bobby Thomson led off the frame with a triple and later scored on Frank Torre's single to give Spahn and the Braves a 1-0 victory. They were the only Milwaukee safeties.

The Braves' triumph lifted them within 2½ games of pace-setting Cincinnati within half a game of the Dodgers, who dropped a 3-2, 11-inning decision to the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Phillies whipped the Giants, 16-6.

Three in 10th by Yanks.

In American League action, the White Sox retained their two-game hold on first place by downing the Athletics, 3-1; the Indians shaded the Tigers, 4-3, and the Yankees scored three runs in the tenth to defeat the Red Sox, 8-5. Baltimore and Washington were not scheduled.

Spahn allowed eight hits in scoring his fifth victory of the season and his third over the Redlegs this year. He always has been tough on Cincinnati and now holds a 42-14 lifetime record against the Redlegs.

After Gross blew his no-hit bid, the Redlegs tried to save the game for their young left-hander in the ninth when they got men on first and second with none out. But Spahn pitched out of the jam by retiring pinch-runner Hal Jeffcoat on a bunt and then got Don Hoak to hit into a game-ending double play. It was Gross's first defeat against four victories.

Pittsburgh relief pitcher Elroy Face won his own game against the Dodgers when he scored on Peewee Reese's wild throw to the plate in the eleventh inning. The bases were loaded with one out when Roberto Clemente grounded to Reese, whose toss to Catcher Al Walker hit the dirt and skidded past the plate. Don Newcombe absorbed the loss, his fourth against four wins.

Antonelli Kayoed Early.

The Phillies ran up their highest run total in nearly three years against the Giants. Winning pitcher Bob Miller, Rip Repulski, Willie Jones and Stan Lopata each drove in three runs. Johnny Antonelli failed to retire a single batter as the Phils hopped on him for four runs in the first inning and handed him his sixth loss.

Rookie Bill Fischer allowed only six hits in pitching the White Sox to their win over the Athletics. He lost his bid for a shutout in the fourth inning on a homer by Hal Smith. It was the White Sox's twelfth victory in their last 15 games.

The Red Sox came from behind to tie the Yankees, 5-5, on Ted Williams's eleventh homer of the season. But Hank Bauer doubled home two runs for the world champions in the tenth and then Gil McDougald singled home the "icer."

A two-run pinch homer in the ninth by Ed Robinson, who was released by Detroit only two weeks ago, enabled the Indians to defeat the Tigers. Don Mossi held the Tigers to only three hits in the first eight innings but was trailing, 3-2, when he gave way in the ninth to Ray Narleski, who gained the victory.

2 Games, 2 No-Hitters.

Dickie Linklitter gave the Envelopes Juniors their second no-hit no-run performance in as many starts when he beat Crown, 15-0. He struck out 17 in the seven-inning Normandy Township Association game. Lennie Duff had hurled the previous no-hitter, 11-0.

Record for '880'

Five Marks Fall in Marine Track Meet Preliminaries

By Harold Tuthill

Man, what a bright sun and a few clear days can do for track athletes is remarkable. For the first time this season the cinder pounders yesterday looked as if they finally were rounding into top running condition.

Hampered by a wet, cold spring, the athletes were slow to improve and even by the time of the state Class A outdoor meet at Columbia 10 days ago (also run in the rain), the St. Louis contingent just was not razor sharp.

That seems changed now, for with a couple of warm days to loosen them up, the boys are running so well that five records were broken and another tied yesterday in the preliminaries of the third annual Olympic Fund meet. The finals will be held Friday night at the Public Schools Stadium.

Principia Academy really distinguished itself by cracking three relay marks, two of them by the same quartet of Benton Greenleaf, Dave Gibbs, Dave Dailey and Rich Overby. They ran the 440 in 43.7 to lower the old mark of 44.1 by Washington Tech in 1955, and took the 880 in 1:29.9 to break the time of 1:32.4 established by Sumner a year ago.

Kirkwood Mark Falls.

And, to close out the trials with a bang Jim Crafton's Panthers burned up the mile relay with a sizzling 3:23.8, as compared to last year's record of 3:28.6 by Kirkwood's good team. The state record for the mile relay, held by Washington Tech and set a year ago, is 3:24.4. That's the Class A record. The best Class B mark is 3:32.5 by Principia Academy, established earlier this month.

Rich Byas, the Crystal City flash, broke the 220-yard dash mark with a time of 22.4 seconds as compared to 22.7 by Don Herd of Washington Tech last year. Byas also got credit for a record in the 180-yard low hurdles, run for the first time. He was clocked at 19.8 seconds.

Centralia Star Beaten.

Hadley Tech, formerly Washington Tech, broke into the record column on a lunge by Lionel Spearman near the finish of a half-mile heat. He beat out Gerald White of Centralia, Ill., in the fast time of 2:00.3. Mehlville's Al Miller set the old record last year, 2:00.7.

Bill Nicholson of Girard, Ill., High, tied the high hurdles record of 15 seconds flat set by Dick Hammerstein of University City two years ago.

The first half of the decathlon will be run tomorrow and the finish Friday afternoon, prior to the track meet finals. One of the big highlights will be the appearance of Jim Brewer of North Phoenix High, Arizona's great pole vault champion.

Eastern Zone And Open Skeet Shoot June 8

Jerry Lamb Jr., Collinsville youth who won the junior title a year ago, and John Broughton, high overall champion of 1956, are expected to feature a sizable field competing in the Missouri eastern zone and open skeet championships June 8-9.

The event is to be held at the Jennings Gun Club, situated between the Lewis and Clark bridges on Highway 67.

Individual competition is scheduled in men's, women's and junior divisions. Lamb has outgrown the junior division and is expected to compete in the men's competition in which Broughton, of Florissant, is defending champion.

Entries from Missouri and Illinois towns made this event the largest skeet competition in the state last year, said Dr. Ralph E. VanDover, president of the Jennings Gun Club.

The meet schedule calls for small gauge competition June 8 and all-gauge shooting June 9.

These Predictions Are Based on Normal Water and Weather Conditions.

The Big Piney, Gasconade, James and White rivers are muddy. Some stretches of the Gasconade may be ready for live bait Memorial day. The Current is doubtful but may clear north of Van Buren. From Big Spring to Doniphan it is reported as murky to muddy. The lower Black below Clearwater is high and muddy. The Eleven Points is dingy below Riverton but in fair shape at Greer Spring. Jacks Fork is clear above Alley Spring. The lower portion is extremely doubtful. The Meramec is OK from Dent county line to Onondaga cave. The lower portion is high, wide and muddy. Courtois and Huzzah are clear and ready. The Niangua from Charity Bridge on Highway M to Bennett Springs is fairly clear. The rest of the Niangua is muddy. The Osage is 20 feet high but in fair fishing shape.

Bull Shoals is clear but highest in its history. It now measures 28 feet above power pool level. Clearwater is a record 70 feet and parking is the big problem. Our informant said, "It is clear and the nicest fishing water you ever saw." Both Crab Orchard and Little Grassy are out of the picture this week. Ten inches of rainfall last week spoiled the excellent bass fishing at Little Grassy. High winds and rain have slowed fishing on Kentucky lake and it is now murky. Norfork is OK but high. The Lake of the Ozarks and its arms are off color. It is less than one foot below full reservoir level. White bass anglers, however, are making fine catches in the small feeder tributaries. Taneycomo is dingy but clearing. Wappapello is high and off color but outstanding catches of flathead catfish are being made by trotliners. Several 30 and 40-pounders were caught this week. Reelfoot is high and muddy. Duck creek is clear but aquatic weeds are a handicap. Bullheads are the best catch on this impoundment.

Weekend prediction: Streams and lakes are much too high for "bragging" catches. Live baits will be best. Don't spare the pork rind on the artificials.

Victories in Last 2 Races By Colclasure

Jockey Jake Colclasure won the last two races at Cahokia Downs last night to become the only double winner of the evening. He piloted Lewis A.D. home first in the seventh and followed with Skin Junior in the final event, giving him 12 firsts for the meeting. Colclasure also was in the money in three other races.

Judge Dan, a 15-1 shot, was a surprise winner in the sixth.

Jockeys Ray McEwan and James R. Vinson were thrown in a two-horse spill in the third event. McEwen's horse, Proud Fella, hit the rail on the far turn and fell, throwing McEwen to the infield. The trailing Miss Patrol also stumbled in an effort to get around the fallen horse and threw Vinson. McEwen had to cancel remaining mounts.

First post time for the Memorial Day program will be 2:15 p.m. and the management has announced that the track gates will open at 11:30 a.m.

C.Y.C. Not Expected to Extend Crafty Celtic Club

Game at Stadium Tonight

By Dent McSkimming

St. Louis fans have seen just two Scottish soccer teams in exhibition matches here and have reason to recall both with mixed feelings of admiration and chagrin. Tonight, the Scots are here again.

Back in 1939 the visitors (Scotland's national team) humiliated a picked team of veteran players, score 10-2; ten years later another great Scottish national team ran through the St. Louis picked players, 6-0. Both games were at Public Schools Stadium, scene of tonight's match in which colorful Celtic of Glasgow opposes a collection of C.Y.C. League players.

In both those previous visits, the Scots lived up to their reputation as the world's master football craftsmen. Those who watched are not likely to forget the SEVEN goals scored by Scotland's 1939 center forward, Garrett. Scottish-born Bill Watson was the St. Louis center halfback that day, but he was not playing the "stooper" position in those days.

Few will forget the 1949 game in which Billy Waddell hit such terrific shots, and George Young almost broke the goal crossbar with a free kick from the 50-yard line. Larry King was in goal for St. Louis then, and his hands perhaps still sting from some of the shots he stopped.

It could happen again, of course. Celtic came within two victories of the Scottish Cup this season and finished near the top in the league standings. But the C.Y.C. doesn't pretend to be in the same class, so there is no reason why the fans should feel too badly if the score goes high.

St. Louisans who welcomed the visiting Scotsmen yesterday were surprised to see so many youngsters in the squad. Manager Jimmy McGrory explained in this way: "We're in a transition stage; like most league clubs in Britain we have to keep introducing young men into our lineup so that not too many reach the veteran stage at the same time."

It was not definitely determined whether the two Scotland national team players, Bobby Evans and Bobby Collins, will be in the starting lineup tonight. Capt. Bertie Peacock said he expects them to play in spite of the fact they have just completed 36 hours of flying time in getting here from Madrid, via London and Prestwick, Scotland. They played against Spain last Sunday when Scotland lost, 4-1.

When one of Scotland's greatest professional teams opposes a collection of St. Louis amateurs, the focus naturally must be on the visitors. The C.Y.C. players, trained to give their best effort, can only hope to make a good showing. Some of them are regarded as among the finest local prospects but the squad has not had a single formal match as a unit, so there can hardly be much teamwork.

Celtic, without two of its stars (Evans and Collins) lost the opening game of its American tour to Tottenham of the English League, 4-3, and then won two games, beating Uhriks at Philadelphia, 4-0, and Hapoel of Israel, 2-1. Inside Left Neal Maghan scored all six of the goals in the last two games. From here the Scots take a long hop to Vancouver for a game on Saturday.

There will be two preliminary games involving C.Y.C. bantams and juniors, and the big game goes on at 8:30.

CELTIC	Positions	C.Y.C. STARS
John Bonnar	G.	Herman Valli
John Fallon	R. F.	Tom Donovan
Frank Meechan	L. F.	Bob Fitzgerald
Bobby Evans	R. H.	Ed Quigley
John Jack	C. H.	Jack Ducker
Bert Peacock	L. H.	Jack Fitzgerald
Bobby Collins	O. R.	Bob Kauffman
Willie Fernie	I. R.	Hal Rerrson
Billy McPhail	C. F.	Tom Groark
Neal Maghan	I. L.	Jack Lally
Charley Tully	O. L.	Vasco Gasperoni

Soccer Rivals

Ruttman and O'Connor Are Tabbed Speedway Choices

INDIANAPOLIS, May 29 (UP)—Big Troy Ruttman and handsome Pat O'Connor were tabbed today as the pilots to beat in the 500-mile Memorial day auto race, but the checkered flag of victory could go to almost anyone of the 33 starters.

That was the consensus of opinion of the drivers 24 hours before the forty-first annual holiday classic, with more than $300,000 in prize money at stake.

Most of them also predicted the record for the distance of 130.840 miles an hour by the late Bill Vukovich in 1954 will be shattered, barring major accidents or adverse weather.

A rash of mishaps last year ruined any chances for an overall record. Winner Pat Flaherty, sidelined with injuries suffered last summer, averaged 128.490.

"The race will be faster than last year," predicted O'Connor, the pole sitter from North Vernon, Ind., "and I think we have a good chance to break the record. However, that will be governed by the yellow light."

Every time the caution light flashes on, signalling an accident or other obstruction on the track, the field automatically slows down and passing is not permitted. The light came on 11 times last year, and, although the leader frequently averaged better than 142 miles an hour around the "brickyard," he failed to break the record.

O'Connor was a contender in each of his three previous stars, but rain or mechanical troubles threw him back each time. His best finish was eighth two years ago.

Ruttman, of Lynnwood, Calif., won the grind in 1952 at a clip of 128.922.

Most drivers expected the two powerful Novis, with veterans Tony Bettenhausen, Tinley Park, Ill., and Paul Russo, Canoga Park, Calif., in the cockpit, will make early bids for the lead.

Russo starts from the inside position in the fourth row, and Bettenhausen from the same spot four rows back.

Crowd Too Small, Boxer Won't Box

NORWALK, Conn., May 29 (AP).

BERTRUM BAILEY of New York refused to fight Larry Boardman of Marlborough in a scheduled 10-round bout at the outdoor Crystal Arena last night.

State Athletic Commissioner Benny McMahon said Bailey refused because of the sparse crowd—about 200. He and Boardman were to fight on a basis of percentage of the gate.

Bailey was suspended from fighting in this state, pending a formal hearing.

The other bouts, one professional and four semi-pro, went on as scheduled.

Ortiz, Unbeaten In 23 Fights, Faces Chiocca

CHICAGO, May 29 (UP)—Carlos Ortiz, unbeaten in 23 fights, and Parisian Felix Chiocca who has lost five of 33 bouts, meet tonight at the Stadium in a 10-round lightweight televised match. (On KTVI, Channel 2, at 9 o'clock.)

Jesse Bowdry, St Louis light-heavyweight, will oppose Eugene Duncan, Detroit, in the six-round semifinal.

Printers Play Kutis; Walsh to Face Loddeke

The Union Printers, only unbeaten team in the Muny Baseball Association's three oldest leagues, try for their fourth victory tonight when they meet Kutis North at Fairground Park No. 1 diamond. Starting time will be 8:15.

Kutis, 5-0 upset victim of the Polish Falcons, could tie for first by beating the Printers. Kutis will send Lefty John Walsh against the Printers' ace righthander, Bob Loddeke.

In the Heine Meine League tonight at 8:30 at Meine Field, the Red Villas will oppose the Hoffmeisters.

Two Sumner Players Gain Tennis Titles

Two Sumner players won singles titles in the Sumner High tennis tournament at Tandy Park. Arthur Sidner defeated Tom Kieley of C.B.C., 6-2, 6-0, and Ron Spearman downed Pete Oldhausen of Lutheran, 6-2, 6-4.

The other singles crown went to Southwest's Bob Yourtee, 6-1, 6-2 victor over Russ Bull of C.B.C.

In the doubles final Harry Ochs and Dave Stahlschmidt of St. Charles won from Ken Streussel and John Bohnert of Lutheran, 9-7, 6-2.

Crystal Lake Golf.

Mrs. E. L. Barker won championship flight honors in the flag event of the Crystal Lake Women's Golf Association with a 96. Mrs. Walter Noll was the winner in the A flight and Mrs. Edward Williamson in B flight.

Fight Results

NEW ORLEANS—Charlie Norkus, 194, Port Washington, N. Y., outpointed Crowa Peele, 186, Baton Rouge, La., 10.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Jose Luis Cotero, 126, Los Angeles, stopped Richardo (Pajarito) Moreno, 127, Mexico City, 7.

DONCASTER, England — Joe Erskine, England, outpointed Peter Bates, England, 12, Heavyweights.

NORWALK, Conn.—Larry Boardman-Bertrum Bailey fight canceled, Bailey refused to fight because of sparse crowd.

Minor Briefs

Wiesler Slugs Way to Victory; Ol' Satch Wins Another.

Bob Wiesler of St. Louis had three hits, including a double that set up the winning run, as he pitched Richmond to a 4-3 victory over Columbus in the International League.

On his way to his third victory against two losses, Wiesler had a shutout for seven innings, but had to be bailed out in the ninth following Gail Henley's two-run homer.

St. Louisan Wally Fassler of Omaha tripled and came home on Gary Geiger's single in the ninth to give Frank Barnes a 1-0 victory over Denver. Barnes struck out 17, second highest total in American Association history, and his rival, Ben Flowers whiffed 12.

Ancient Satchel Paige needed only five pitches to put down an uprising by Havana in the ninth with two on and one out. For this brief relief stint, he was rewarded with the victory, 5-4, when Miami scored a run in its half of the ninth.

Pinter Named Elks' Bowling President

Tony Pinter was elected president of the Elks Lodge No. 9 bowling league. Jackie Gold was re-elected treasurer and Al Bell was chosen secretary. Ray Busaman was elected president of the combined leagues of Grand-Park and Palace Bowl.

Trophies were awarded to Horan's League, champions the past two years. The team includes: John Duggan, Bob Horan, Ken Spitzfaden, Ed Kelly and Dr. Bouhasion.

Belleville Advances to Sectional Final

Beaumont Closes in On Crown

Belleville High, making another strong bid for a berth in the Illinois baseball finals at Peoria, yesterday reached the Staunton sectional final by beating Litchfield, 5-2. Today the Maroons will oppose host Staunton with a winner advancing to Peoria.

Meanwhile Beaumont moved a step nearer the Public High crown with a 15-0 triumph over Southwest. That gave Beaumont an 8-0 record with Sumner to be met Friday at Tandy Center and McKinley some time next week, probably Tuesday.

Cleveland assured itself of finishing no worse than second when it whipped O'Fallon, 9-3, to give the Dutchmen a final standing of 8-2. Should Beaumont lose its last two it would wind up tied with Cleveland for the title.

Sumner nipped McKinley, 4-3, and Central thumped Roosevelt, 9-3, in other games yesterday.

Games today are Central vs. Sumner at Tandy and McKinley vs. O'Fallon at Cherokee Park.

Weber Defeats Lillard in Final Match on TV

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, May 29—Slender Dick Weber of St. Louis closed out the Tuesday night television series at Faetz-Niesen Recreation by winning the final match of the 1956-57 season over Bill Lillard, former All-Star champion from Chicago, by 12 pins.

The 12-pin margin gave Weber a 76-pin triumph over Lillard in their nine-game match for $1000.

Ten bowlers had rolled six games with the high two—Lillard and Weber—qualifying for a nine-game roll-off for the $1000 first prize in addition to match and game awards.

In the first match three weeks ago, Lillard took a 15-pin lead with a 675-660 win, but Weber moved out in front last week when he won, 734-655. This gave Weber, a member of the National Champion Budweisers, a 64-pin lead going into the final three games on the Nos. 5 and 6 lanes.

Lillard won the first game last night, 268-233, and trailed by only 29 pins with two games to go. However, Weber rallied to win the second game, 231-213, and then blasted out a 244-215 victory in the final game to win the match, 708-696, and the series, 2102-2026.

Both bowlers had only one open frame in the three games as Weber missed a 4-7 in the first game and Lillard drew a 7-10 split in the second game.

For the three weeks of bowling, Dick won $1550 while Lillard collected $475.

Fans All 15 Batters, Then Game Is Called

It isn't often that a pitcher will beg his teammates not to score so many runs. But that was the case of Cliff Politte whose strikeouts accounted for all the put outs in a five-inning C.Y.C. juvenile baseball game at Dooley Field.

Politte's team, Epiphany, got 11 runs, thus stopping the game with Little Flower under the rule that ends a contest after one team goes ahead by 10 or more runs.

"I was hoping we could make it last the full seven innings," said Cliff, "so I might strike out all 21 batters." Cliff, who walked three, is 16 years old, 6 feet tall and weighs 156. He works days, attends Hadley Tech at night.

WORKS LIKE A FREE ENGINE TUNE-UP

Exclusive New "Octane Booster" in Sinclair Power-X Gasoline tunes up your engine automatically every time you drive. That's because this amazing X-Chemical "Octane Booster", developed by Sinclair Research, eliminates harmful engine deposits that ruin power and performance.

In an older car, after 3 tankfuls of Power-X, you'll feel a new surge of power – as if you just had an engine tune-up. In a new car, Power-X brings out all the full power of the highest compression engine – helps keep it running like new, year after year.

Motorists tell us Power-X gives them more mileage, too – up to 40 miles more per tankful. You can depend on Sinclair Power-X – a product of Sinclair's 40 years of refining experience.

Junior Bills, Led by Wolken, Keep Golf Title

St. Louis U. High mopped up on golf honors in the annual district tournament yesterday at Lakeside. The Junior Billikens, the defending champions, not only shot a record team score of 612 but they also had the medalist, Joe Wolken, whose 146 paced the two-day tourney.

Others on the title-winning Blue and White team were Bob Cochran Jr., 151, Brother Bill Cochran 154 and Bob Hutchins 161.

Wolken had a one-over-par 72 the first day and 74 yesterday to be the low shooter. Jim Rohan of Mercy was runner-up with 147, followed by John Pew of Webster Groves 148. Bob Knickmeyer of DeAndreis and Larry Zeigler of Clayton tied for fourth at 149.

Team runner-up honors went to Ladue, 635, followed by Webster Groves, 639; University City, 648; Mercy, 649; Normandy, 655; Clayton, 644; Kirkwood, 688 and Southwest, 740.

Wolken and Bob Cochran are seniors, but Bill Cochran and Hutchins will be back next fall as will Mike Craven and Neil Mulcahy, squad members of the undefeated Junior Billiken team.

146—Joe Wolken, St. Louis U. "NEW LOOK" OF BANKING CAREER

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP).

YOUR SON AND DAUGHTER trying to make up their minds what to be when they get out of school? They can get all kinds of advice—even from your banker.

To meet a growing need for more personnel, banks today are trying all the recruiting angles—even to paying the going rate for clerical workers rather than holding to the old idea that "prestige" should make up for about half of it.

Sam Dawson

Time was when parents assured their children that if they went to work for a bank they would be "looked up to" in the community, even if for a long time afterward their take-home pay might be less than if they had taken jobs with less social standing. Waiting for the really good banking jobs to become vacant could be mighty frustrating at best.

NOW THE BANKS ARE trying to bury that old reputation. They are preaching to the new crop of college and high school graduates that they can really go places in the banking business. It may have been competition for clerical workers that first led banks to raise starting pay scales. But it is the growth of the banking system's operations that has led to more top-level jobs. The American Bankers Association says that each year the nation's 15,000 banks have about 1000 bank presidencies and 4000 other officer positions to fill. Since 1940 the banks employe rolls have swelled by more than 250,000.

THE ASSOCIATION SAYS this is because in the last 17 years the number of commercial banking accounts has doubled, the volume of bank loans and investments has tripled, and banking services have been greatly expanded. To help the ambitious young man or woman to move up the ladder, the American Institute of Banking offers courses to prepare employes for jobs ahead. These are open to all bank employes, men or women, high school or college graduates.

BANK OFFICERS HAVE another program to help them keep climbing. The American Bankers Association has a graduate school of banking, offering advanced studies. State bankers associations also sponsor special courses at some universities and individual banks provide on-the-job training for new employes and executive development courses for the ambitious. Part of the need for these programs is that banking jobs are becoming both specialized and diversified. The path no longer leads exclusively from teller to cashier to vice president in charge of wealthy widow clients.

THERE ARE MANY BY-paths nowadays. They range from market research to instalment financing, from management of securities to business development, from advertising and public relations to corporation finance. Banks actively seek women employes these days. The association says there are five times as many women in banking today as in 1940, that now six out of every 10 employes are women, and so are one out of every 10 bank officers.

STRESSING THE BETTER pay lure, the A.B.A. says that in the larger towns and cities now, a young person entering the business can look forward to earning from $8000 to $15,000 a year—when he works up to an officer's post. Fringe benefits have bloomed in recent years. A United States Chamber of Commerce report says that bank employes average $30.50 in nonwage payments for each $100 in salary. The fringes include life and accident insurance, pensions, hospitalization insurance and participation in profit sharing plans.

Not since TCP* such an important gasoline advance!

NEW CONOCO ROYAL

with exclusive oil-plating action!

The first gasoline in history with TCP plus to boost power as it cuts wear as it increases mileage!

New super gasoline with TCP plus Conoco '405'—the discovery that sprays upper engine parts with a protective lubricant more than 1000 times a minute . . . adds exclusive oil-plating action to the proved power benefits of TCP!

Now—whether you specialize in short hops or hit the highway—New Conoco Royal with TCP plus insures you all the high-compression power you paid for. And—at the same time—introduces an astonishing new measure of protection.

Exclusive oil-plating action

That's because New Conoco Royal combines the power benefits of TCP with the unique new protection benefits of Conoco '405.' Now, more than 1000 times a minute, your upper engine is sprayed with a durable, friction-fighting lubricant with protective oil-plating action. So effective is this action that piston ring wear is cut in half. It's so durable, that even in extended, high-temperature driving, there was no trace of engine 'knock' or high-compression power leak.

Helps all cars—new and old

In new cars, New Conoco Royal helps retain every bit of your engine's high-compression power. In older models, it helps restore your car's original performance. Best of all, New Conoco Royal with TCP plus is ready right now . . . at your nearby Conoco Dealer's!

$1,350,000,000 RISE IN MARKET VALUE OF STOCKS

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, May 29 (UP)—Stocks rose a billion dollars in value of all listed issues in moderately active trading today.

(Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks 4.46 points higher at 502.18 at the close. The 20 rails gained .54 of a point at 145.64 and the 15 utilities rose .09 to 74.13.)

(Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks was .42 of a point higher at 47.11 at the close. The 425 industrials were up .55 at 50.57, the 25 rails up .07 at 30.15 and the 50 utilities up .05 at 34.08.)

Many issues closed around their best levels. Goodrich was up nearly 3 in the tires. Oils had closing gains running to more than 2 points. Drugs, aircrafts, selected steels and chemicals were outstanding strong spots. Northern Pacific rose nearly 2 in the rails.

The industrial department erased about 60 per cent of the losses of the two previous sessions this week.

Rising prices fooled the experts who had anticipated a dull, narrow-moving pre-holiday market today.

A surprise boost in the posted price of crude oil in the Middle East touched off a sharp rise in oil shares. The buying spread to other sections of the list including the recently heavy aircrafts. Even the rails managed to post a small advance.

Rising tendencies appeared late yesterday when the market came back from its early lows but not enough to eliminate all losses. Today's advance carried that rally further.

It met a bit of realizing before closing but most sections retained gains.

Oil issues led in strength and in volume. Getty Oil again featured the whole market turnover. It made a new high and led a sharp rise in the international oils. This improvement spilled over into the other oil issues and finally into the whole market.

Two ordinarily quiet issues were boosted in volume by large blocks—Procter & Gamble with a sale of 12,000 shares and aluminum Limited with one of 11,400 shares.

Olin Mathieson was heavily traded in the chemicals with its price rising to a new high.

The Associated Press reported that of 1150 issues traded, advances outnumbered declines by 591 to 320. There were 35 new 1957 highs and 40 new lows.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1.10 to $183.70 with the industrials up $2.10, the rails up 90 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Based on the rise in the average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange rose an estimated $1,350,000,000.

WHEAT TURNS HIGHER ON CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, May 29 (AP) — Grain futures prices held within a narrow range on the Board of Trade today although the trend was on the downside during most of the day.

Early selling in wheat was due to favorable weather in most areas and reports of more Government sales to exporters. However, there were rallies due to reports of extremely heavy rain in parts of Kansas overnight, and prices moved upward a bit.

Favorable planting weather was a bearish factor in corn, oats and soybeans. There also was hedge selling in beans, but prices rallied in late trade.

Secretary Benson's request for Congressional permission to reduce or eliminate price supports on basic crops caused some early selling in all pits, trade authorities said.

Guide for Investors
by MERRILL LYNCH

We publish it once every quarter—a comprehensive survey filled with enough fact and information to make worthwhile reading for almost any investor.

It begins with a thorough-going run-down on the current investment situation—ranks two dozen different industries in terms of how attractive they appear as compared with the general market outlook.

Then it takes a 1500-word look at the business situation as a whole—focuses in turn on each of the major economic barometers like consumer spending, government outlays, or capital expenditures, that seem to call for special consideration in planning your investments.

Finally, there's a full page of recommendations—fifty or more selected stocks, classified by investment type, together with the latest figures available on earnings and dividends, prices and yields.

For a clear-cut picture of just where American business stands and where it seems to be going . . .

For an objective analysis of how leading industries, companies, and stocks might fare—ask for the current issue of our "Guide for Investors." There's no charge for your copy, of course. Just call, or write—

SENATE PRESSES FOR FINAL VOTE ON HOUSING BILL

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) —The Senate meets an hour and a half earlier than usual today to try to finish action on a stripped-down $1,600,000,000 housing bill.

The Senate stayed in session until after 10 o'clock last night, finally adopting a compromise proposed by Senator John W. Bricker (Rep.), Ohio, which settled most of the major arguments involving provisions of the bill. Enough other amendments were pending to cause Senate leaders to decide to put over the final vote until today.

The Bricker compromise, which was approved by Democratic leaders, cut $1,250,000,000 from the $2,850,000,000 which the Senate Banking Committee had voted to authorize for various housing programs.

It was adopted 67 to 11 on a strong bipartisan vote, but it did not satisfy either the all-out budget cutters or the advocates of more costly Government housing programs.

Senator Harry F. Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, declared that the total in the bill still was $450,000,000 above President Eisenhower's budget requests for housing. He said this more than wiped out all the Senate has been able to cut so far from appropriations bill it has considered.

This was disputed by Bricker and Senator John J. Sparkman (Dem.), Alabama, floor manager for the bill. They said most of the authorizations involved loan programs and that, based on past experience, the money would be repaid. But Byrd said even the loans would have a big nitial impact on the Treasury.

As modified, the bill provided:

Five hundred million dollars for the urban renewal-slum clearance program in fiscal 1958 and 1959. The amendment cut in half the original billion-dollar, four-year program.

Four hundred million dollars in additional lending authority for the Federal National Mortgage Association to provide a secondary market for home mortgages. The amendment cut in half the $800,000,000 in the Senate Banking Committee bill.

Two hundred million dollars for military housing mortgages.

One hundred seventy-five million dollars for college housing mortgages, a cut of $25,000,000.

One hundred fifty million dollars for a special FNMA presidential fund expected to be used largely for mortgages on housing for the elderly and families displaced by slum clearance projects.

One hundred million dollars for mortgages on co-operative housing. The amendment cut $150,000,000 off the original figure.

Seventy-five million dollars for a special program for mortgages carrying favorable terms for moderate income families, minorities, and elderly persons. The amendment cut $175,000,000 off the original figure.

The compromise was worked out at a series of floor conferences yesterday involving Bricker, Sparkman, Democratic Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Senators Homer Capehart (Rep.), Indiana and J. William Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas and others.

St. Louisans Do Not Appreciate Home Town, Newcomer Asserts

A newcomer took the people of St. Louis to task last night for not appreciating their home town

Far from being a decaying city, St. Louis is a dynamic community with the assets for a great future, Wallace R. Persons asserted in a talk at the annual meeting of the West End Community Conference at Hamilton Avenue Christian Church.

He came from Cleveland in 1954 to take the presidency of Emerson Electric Manufacturing Co.

"Before I came here," he said, "I was told that St. Louis was a middle-aged city that had seen its best days . . . a city of blight and decay . . . had the worst climate in the world . . . was devoid of any natural recreational facilities . . . people here spent most of their time wishing they were somewhere else.

"The people who told me these things were not members of the Chambers of Commerce of Kansas City, Cleveland, Chicago, Minneapolis, Memphis, Dallas or Detroit. For the most part they were people of and from St Louis."

After settling here and taking a good look, he was amazed at all the signs of progress, Persons continued, citing clearance of the Plaza area, construction of the Third Street Interregional Highway, development of new public housing projects, passage of a $110,000,000 bond issue for public improvements, revitalization of the Chamber of Commerce and other advances.

He urged residents to take an objective look at their city, convince themselves and then "spread the good word." Even St. Louis weather is something to brag about, he contended, declaring: "It is a wonderful climate for those who like the stimulation and change of four equal and distinct seasons."

John Poland, assistant director of planning for the City Plan Commission, explained a proposed land use plan for the community.

made that these committees have long since encroached on the right of free thought and free expression. If they now take in moral conduct, borderline cases of dishonesty perhaps, the Congress will have set itself up as a censor to an extent that would have astonished the founding fathers.

is up to a point. It is not good if it produces great animosity. This incident highlights the need for taking a better look at the program."

Presumably the "better look," which might materially reduce the program, will depend upon what is learned about the origin of the obviously planned riot.

Informed circles in Washington believe that top level political rivalries on Formosa are principally to blame, but that elements that are plotting a coup to turn Formosa over to the Reds are also involved.

The internal political rivalries involve an attempt to depose Premier Yui and Foreign Minister George Yeh. The Cabinet did resign, but was reappointed by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The other aspect, the effort to drive a wedge between the Nationalist Chinese and the United States, which is the present effort of the Reds in their program of "peaceful liberation" of Formosa, involved the Nationalist Youth Organization.

This has about 35,000 members and is under the control of Chiang Kai-shek's son, Chiang Ching-kuo, who is also head of the secret police. The student rioters carried small flags with anti-American slogans and stickers of similar nature were slapped on American automobiles.

It was to restrain the student group from riots in other cities on the island that widespread martial law was clamped down when the Nationalist government finally took action.

Chiang Ching-kuo has been an object of distrust by Americans on Formosa for many years. He spent a great many years in Moscow, including some time in jail, and is married to a Russian woman The fact that his youth organization was the leader in riots further emphasizes American distrust of his motives.

Americans fear he will make a deal with the Red Chinese, accepting a high position in the People's Republic, and deliver Formosa to the Reds. A first step to make such a deal possible might be to encourage the latent anti-American sentiment on the island.

The Soviet and Red Chinese propaganda organs are making major efforts to take advantage of the riots. "Taipei riots mark hate of the United States in the East," the Soviet radio proclaims.

It quotes the mayor of Manila as saying: "At present Americans are hated throughout Asia." Another commentary is: "United States soldiers' brutality." Another: "Liberation urge behind Taiwan (Formosa) outbreak."

And still another beamed to Japan, where the United States is having difficulty over the accidental killing of a Chinese woman by a soldier, declares that "Americans (are) contemptuous of other races."

Koreans are told in Korea that "American army bandits are continuously committing crimes in South Korea."

Both the Soviet and Red Chinese radios emphasize their usual line that the Americans "occupy" Formosa.

The incident shows the difficulty of the American position in the Orient. In the opinion of many experts, it calls for a re-valuation of the entire United States policy in the Far East, where the major part of our economic and military assistance is being spent.

by Mr. (Walter P.) Reuther (of the United Auto Workers).

Raises Moral Issue.

"I don't think you can agree that it is morally right for Mr. Reuther to take compulsory dues money of a Republican and spend it on a Democrat, or vice versa. I don't think you can agree that the activities of a vice president of UAW, which have identically paralleled the activities of Mr. Beck, are good just because they are done by Mr. Reuther's union. I don't think that you, as a citizen of this country, can condone the brutality and violence of the strike at the Kohler plant (in Wisconsin) or the Perfect Circle plant (in Indiana). I don't think that you can condone either the fact that Mr. (David) McDonald, president of the Steel Workers, used something like a million dollars of the dues-paying members' funds to get himself elected president of that organization.

"These are the things that I speak out against. I don't speak out against unions. In fact, I will stanchly defend the right of men to organize for collective bargaining purposes as long as those organizations do not infringe upon the rights guaranteed our citizens by the Constitution."

What is particularly interesting in this is the implied power of Congress to investigate an "immoral" as well as a "dishonest" practice. If this is to be a further extension of the right of investigation then a vast new territory will be opened up to congressional committees.

STEINBERG RINK CONCRETE SOUND, MC DEVITT REPORTS

Particles of lignite in the Steinberg skating rink at Forest Park "will not in any way affect the efficiency of the concrete slab," Frank J. McDevitt, president of the Board of Public Service, said yesterday in a letter to Alderman Alfred I. Harris.

McDevitt invited Harris, who reported he had been informed the lignite made the rink structurally unsound, to a meeting to discuss the matter. Harris was asked to bring to the meeting a ready-mix concrete contractor who made the original complaint.

McDevitt said he had investigated the city-built rink with city engineers, a consulting engineer and a ready-mix concrete contractor. They found the job to be "entirely satisfactory," he said, although particles of lignite, a low grade of coal, had been present in the Mississippi river sand in the concrete mixture.

SCHAEFER GETS FOUR YEARS IN RAZOR FRAUD

Arthur E. (Gene) Schaefer was sentenced to serve four years in a Federal penitentiary and fined $1000 today by United States District Judge Roy W. Harper for using the mails to defraud in connection with distribution of razor blade vending machines, Schaefer's lawyers announced an appeal will be filed.

Schaefer, free on $5000 bond, was given until June 10 to get his affairs in order. Judge Harper instructed him either to surrender himself to custody or to file the appeal by that date.

Schaefer was found guilty of mail fraud by a jury May 10. The verdict was based on one count in a 22-count indictment. Five co-defendants, including Schaefer's father, each with 22 counts against him, were found not guilty.

Those acquitted were Arthur C. Schaefer, father of the convicted man; Eugene J. Drewes, William Dardick, Murray Moss and Earl W. Doolin. The Schaefers and other defendants were officers or salesmen for Modern Merchandising Corp. of Clayton.

Arthur E. Schaefer, said to be manager of the firm, was found guilty of using the mails to defraud Elgin W. Sanderson, an appliance salesman of Concord, N.H., who testified he paid $2250 for 10 blade-dispensing machines but never received any of them.

Defense attorney Wayne Smith unsuccessfully sought a new trial, arguing the jury verdict reflected an inconsistency. Smith said six defendants faced a total of 84 counts against them when the case went to the jury. All of the counts, he said, stemmed from one alleged single scheme.

The lawyer declared it was necessary for the Government to show existence of a scheme if Schaefer were to be found guilty, adding:

"And it would seem that if the defendant was not guilty on 21 counts, it would also seem that he was not guilty on the other count."

Judge Harper replied that use of the mails by the defendant had been proved and elements of the alleged scheme had been shown by the testimony.

The court observed that there had been a difference in the testimony relating to the various counts. Judge Harper said the verdicts "might give the appearance of a compromise," but that they would stand.

7 KILLED, 5 HURT IN AUTO COLLISION NEAR CUBA, MO.

CUBA, Mo., May 29 (AP)—Two automobiles collided at a highway intersection today, killing seven persons and injuring five in central Missouri's worst highway accident in more than 10 years.

All of the dead and one of the injured were occupants of one car, struck broadside by the second machine when it pulled onto United States Highway 66 from State Highway 19, the Missouri Highway Patrol said.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Marjory Parson, 30 years old, Chicago, who died in a Rolla hospital about four hours after the accident, and Henry Allison, 46, Ethelyn Allison, Clarence Byars and May Elizabeth Byars, 62, all of Auxvasse, Mo., and Sam Watts, from Mexico, Mo. Mrs. Byars and Mrs. Watts were sisters and Mrs. Allison was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byars.

Billy Joe Allison, 6, was injured.

The patrol said Gerald Parson, 36, of Melrose Park, a Chicago suburb, said he was driving west on 66 when he saw the other car pull onto the highway from the state road and applied his brakes.

"The car just jumped out in front of me," Parson was quoted as saying. "I didn't see it in time."

All of the injured were taken to the Phelps County Memorial Hospital in nearby Rolla.

Eight-year-old Sandra Parson was reported in serious condition at the hospital. Parson was in the hospital with undetermined injuries.

Two other Parson children, Jeany, 6, and Jerry, 4, escaped with minor injuries, the patrol said.

The junction is on the northern outskirts of Cuba. There is a blinker light at the intersection.

The Rolla patrol district headquarters said the accident was the worst in central Missouri since 13 persons were killed near Lebanon, Mo., early in World War II in a crash involving a truck load of soldiers.

GENERAL 13A

Emily Post Says:

Upon the death of a friend you should go at once to the house, write "With sympathy" on your card and leave it at the door. Or, you write a letter to the family. In either case you send flowers, addressed to the funeral of (name of the deceased) or to the nearest relative. The latter method is preferable, if the relative is a friend. But the former method is followed if the deceased alone was known to you.

Business Opportunity

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES 94

Outstanding Opportunity
Exclusive Distributorship
Exclusive Managerial Rights for St. Louis Area
For a man with a successful sales or business background, we have an opportunity we believe you will agree to be second to none in ease and pleasure of handling and in the unusually large, steady profits to be made in proportion to the small amount of capital required.
Dozens of successful operations in various areas of the United States will substantiate our statements.
Our National organization, highly rated and with an exceptional record of accomplishment, trains, guides and assists each man or organization selected for the purpose of assuring that each new area of operation secures the same maximum volume and profit as areas already established. The areas to now be opened are among the best in the nation.
$2,500 to $10,000 operation capital required, depending upon size of territory allocated.
Even our smallest territorial allocation should bring in a profit of from $15,000 to $25,000 the first year with a steady repeat business increasing potential profits year after year and with initial investment tied up for only a few months. For full information call for appointment, Mr. Heston at CE 1-1400 or write Box W-108, P. D.

STOCKHOLDER'S MEETINGS 285

ANNUAL meeting of shareholders of Mississippi River Sand and Material Co., June 3, 1957, 9 o'clock a.m. at foot of Victor St., St. Louis, Missouri; for the purpose of electing board of directors and transactions of such other business as may come before meeting. J. B. GANDER, President.

BIDS & PROPOSALS WANTED 286

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS Sealed proposals addressed to The Curators of the University of Missouri for construction of Women's Dormitories and Cafeteria Building at Kentucky and Maryland Avenues, Columbia, Missouri, for The Curators of the University of Missouri, hereinafter called "Owner" in accordance with plans, specifications and contract documents, which were prepared by Hellmuth, Obata & Kassabaum, Inc., 315 North Tenth Street, St. Louis 1, Missouri, will be received at the office of the Business Manager of University of Missouri, Room 116 Jesse Hall, Columbia, Missouri until 11:00 a.m., Central Standard Time, June 18, 1957 and will be publicly opened and read aloud at 11:15 a.m., Central Standard Time at the Jesse Hall Auditorium. Any bid received after closing time will be returned unopened.

Cashier's check, certified check, or acceptable bidder's bond payable to Owner in an amount not less than 5% of largest possible total for bid submitted, including consideration of additive alternates, must accompany each bid as a guarantee that, if awarded contract, bidder will promptly enter into a contract and execute such bonds as may be required.

Attention is called to fact that rates of pay for labor and mechanics engaged in construction of project will be not less than prevailing local wage rates for similar work as determined by Board of Curators, University of Missouri, and approved by Housing and Home Finance Administrator, and further in full compliance with any State wage law that may be applicable.

Separate contracts may be awarded for each of following general subdivisions of work and as set forth in Proposal Form: (1) General Construction; (2) Plumbing; (3) Heating, Ventilating and Air Conditioning; (4) Electrical Work; provided however, that in event a bid combining subdivisions of work is accepted, a single contract will be awarded for work involved in subdivisions of work combined in bid.

By virtue of policy of the Board of Curators, and by virtue of statutory authority a preference will be given to materials, products, supplies, provisions, and all other articles, produced, manufactured, made or grown within State of Missouri, only when same can be secured without additional cost over products and services from other states. By virtue of policy of The Board of Curators, preference will also be given to firms, corporations or individuals doing business as Missouri firms, corporations or individuals, all things being equal.

Owner reserves right to reject any or all bids and to waive any or all informalities.

Plans and specifications may be examined without charge at the office of the Director of Construction, University of Missouri, 401 East Stewart Road, Columbia, Missouri and at office of Hellmuth, Obata & Kassabaum, Inc., 315 North Tenth St., St. Louis 1, Missouri, and may be procured from either of above addresses upon a deposit of $25.00 as guarantee for safe return of plans and specifications.

All bids may be held 45 days unless sooner returned by Owner.

The Curators of the University of Missouri.

By Dale O. Bowling Business Manager

Date: May 20, 1957.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS Sealed bids for alterations to the Science Building on the campus of Southwest Missouri State College at Springfield, Missouri, and for furnishing and installing laboratory equipment therein, will be received until 1:30 p.m., June 4, 1957, in the office of Walter I. By Order of the Board of Regents, Walter I. Baker, Secretary.

SEALED proposals will be received at the Office of the Board of Public Service, Room 208, City Hall, until 12 o'clock, noon, June 25, 1957, for the construction of a Fire Alarm Headquarters Building at 4971 Oakland Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri, including installation of Plumbing and Drainage System; Installation of a Heating, Ventilating and Air Conditioning System; and for the Installation of Electrical System therein. Plans and specifications may be obtained at the Office of the President, Room 301, City Hall, upon three (3) days' notice and the deposit of Forty Dollars ($40.00).

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS Sealed bids requested on Grade School Building complete, also separate bids on building including sewage disposal, heating, plumbing and electrical work or any combination of bids, acceptable. Formal notice to contractors may be secured from Louis R. Miller, Architecht, Arcadia, Mo. (Location Iron County.) Bids must be in by 2:00 p.m. June 22, 1957.

Frank H. Sumpter, Secy. West End District B-4 Goodland, Mo.

Sealed proposals will be received at the Office of the Board of Public Service, Room 208, City Hall, until 12 o'clock, noon, June 18, 1957, for resurfacing center portion of Chouteau avenue from Broadway to Grand boulevard, with an asphaltic concrete wearing surface. Detailed plans, etc. may be obtained at the Office of the President of the Board of Public Service, Room 325, City Hall, upon three (3) days' notice and the deposit of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) for each set.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS Ripley County R-3 School District will receive bids for a new Elementary School Building, until 2:00 p.m., Monday, June 10, 1957. Contract Documents may be obtained from the Architect, Glen M. Drew, 302 Cedar St., Poplar Bluff, Missouri.

Scattered Showers for Holiday

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Low temperatures and areas of precipitation expected tonight.

Rain developing in part of the state today is expected to move to the St. Louis area tomorrow, but the Weather Bureau said thundershowers should be scattered and should not interfere with Memorial day picnics or other holiday outdoor activities.

The Weather Bureau said thundershower activity here probably will continue into the weekend. Light rain fell today in northeastern Iowa, with drizzle in the lower Rio Grande valley and scattered showers in the Lakes region.

Mild and dry weather prevailed today in most of the eastern third of the nation, with low temperatures in the middle 30s and low 40s in New York. Jackson, Miss., reported a minimum this morning of 56, lowest there so late in the season.

Lows in Missouri early today ranged from 51 at Farmington to 61 at Joplin, and over the nation from 26 at Mount Washington, N.H., to 75 at Corpus Christi, Tex., and Miami and Key West, Fla.

While maximums in Missouri varied yesterday from 74 at Malden to 83 at Butler, the mercury climbed to a high of 104 at Gila Bend, Ariz. Heaviest rainfall in the nation in the 24 hours ending this morning was 1.28 inches at Fort Smith, Ark.

BLAST MARKERS

Towering plumes of Detroit river water mark start of Great Lakes channel deepening project off Amherstberg, Ont., yesterday. Dynamite charges which shot spray 100 feet in the air were called ceremonial affairs; a "business" charge will be set off later to crack the rocky bed of Amherstberg channel. Work being carried on under United States Army Corps of Engineers will cost about $136,000,000 and will provide 27-foot channels between Lakes Erie and Huron and Lakes Huron and Superior.

OLD WORLD VISITOR

Jagged skyline of lower Manhattan provides background for the Norwegian three-master, Christian Radich, on its arrival at New York yesterday. The windjammer, a Norwegian naval training ship, is being featured in a motion picture, part of which has been filmed in the ship's 17,500-mile travels since it left Oslo last Dec. 8. It will be on display in New York for about a week.

TRIUMPHAL ARCH

Arch soaring over grassy stretch near Lausanne, Switzerland, combines the best features of a puzzle for tourists and a small triumph over nature. Apparently without significance, the arch actually is a water main looped over a stretch of ground so prone to shifts and slides that entrenchment was impossible.

Water Problems Are Many and Varied

By Leonard Hall

WHEN you get up in the morning and turn the tap for a warm shower, go out to the kitchen and turn another tap to fill the percolator, pile the breakfast dishes into the automatic washer and turn another tap, stop on the way home from the office to have the car washed—it is hard to realize that water can ever be a problem. Or if it is a problem, certainly it is one which can be handled by normally intelligent municipal planning, for which purpose we elect our city administration and employ the proper personnel. Only under unusual circumstances, as when the brown flood comes rolling down the Meramec—or when in times of drouth we are asked to refrain from watering the lawn—does water become a problem. The thing strikes much closer to home when you live on the land and deal each day with growing things. I thought of this last week as we walked out through the fields, trying to lay tentative plans for the summer's work at Possum Trot. On a grassland farm the most important crop is hay and this, like every other crop, must be harvested when it is ready if it is to produce the best yield. But in order to harvest it, one must have hot, sunny days so that the hay will cure. Moreover, it is important that the ground be fairly dry so moisture from underneath will not prevent this curing process. Farmers differ somewhat as to the stage when various kinds of hay should be cut, yet a good rule of thumb is "the earlier the better." The reason for this is that the protein content of the crop is at its high point while the grass or legumes are young and tender, and drops steadily as they mature.

I WAS EXPOUNDING to Ginnie on these points and showing her that the red and alsike clover in the big field which flanks the creek was just coming into bloom. As I made the point that another week at most would see the field ready to mow, six blue-winged teal rose almost at our feet and we waded out into 10 inches of water standing in a low spot. That night we had another two inches of rain which put off haying indefinitely, although during the afternoon's walk I calculated that nearly 3000 bales of hay would soon be ready for the harvest. Thus water is a problem, although it differs from place to place and even with individuals. I recall one old fellow down in the deep Ozarks who has a water problem even though a spring rises beside his cabin and flows a few yards down into a crystal-clear creek. His problem is that his wife expects him to drink the darned stuff. Other people's water problems, however, are more serious—even though the earth's supply of moisture is ample and has changed very little during millions of years. Thus I think of Los Angeles and the other cities of the south California coast, built in a region of mild climate which is ideal for living but where normal rainfall is so low that—even with underground storage and available surface water—the population is rapidly outgrowing the supply. This is a matter of the distribution of water—of nature not having put enough of it where human beings want it.

THEN I THINK of some of our great eastern population centers like New York located on the banks of the mighty Hudson which flows enough water every day to more than supply the needs of this vast concentration of people. But the Hudson has become so polluted by sewage and industrial wastes that it cannot be used for human consumption or even for many manufacturing processes and so New York must build reservoirs far from the city and transport its water long distances at vast expense. Dozens of similar examples could be given of pollution of both surface and underground supplies as constituting a primary water problem. In the great semi-arid region of America which covers eight states east of the Rockies and includes parts of nine others that are sub-humid, over-use constitutes a major water problem. Many industries have concentrated down along the Gulf Coast in Texas; again, an ideal climate where there seemed to be inexhaustible quantities of underground water for the pumping and where the Gulf itself made a handy dumping ground for wastes. But in a few years the wells have been pumped and water-levels dropped until, in some areas, salt is flowing from the Gulf into the underground reservoirs. Farther to the west, irrigation has drained the Rio Grande all but dry and once more the underground reserves have been called on. But here, as the water table drops, alkali salts are flowing from wells in quantities which will soon put fields out of production. In eastern New Mexico along the Pecos, wells which were once "artesian" are now being pumped and the level drops each year. A similar situation exists in the agriculturally rich Texas Panhandle. In this whole semi-arid or sub-humid region, water collects very slowly in the underground reservoirs and so we have over-use as a major problem.

OTHER WATER TROUBLES are connected with bad land use which takes a variety of forms: poor farming, over-grazing, poor management of forest lands on mountainous watersheds. These not only waste water through rapid run-off; they are a primary cause of floods, accentuate drouth, cause erosion and the eventual loss of vast land areas which are going to be far more badly needed in the future than they are today. Certainly it is time for the American people as a whole to learn something about water problems; to insist that their state and federal governments study them and formulate policies for the conservation and wise use of all our water resources. It is only necessary to glance at the trouble spots in today's world to know that, in practically every case, water problems are an important factor.

Black and White Trend for Evening

By Sylvia Stiles

SILHOUETTED against the colorful summer fashions are striking black and white modes that appear for many occasions but are especially arresting for late day and evening. Some of the evening dresses are entirely white, some are black, and others show an interesting contrast of black with white. Illustrated are examples of this trend, all of them sketched from styles available in the St. Louis stores.

1—One of the most striking and most popular themes for summer evenings consists of black bodice and white full skirt. Sketched is a version combining a black matt jersey bodice with a circular skirt of white organza. The bodice has a low, round neckline finished with a shaped band, to which the lower part of the bodice is gathered. The back is cut lower than the front. The skirt has two petticoats, one of starched net and the other of taffeta. The contour belt is of black patent leather.

2—The Chanel silhouette appears in a white crepe dress with the elongated bodice reaching to the hipline where a pleated skirt is attached. This dress also is available in black crepe. A belt is provided, but the fashionable trend is unbelted and semi-fitted.

3—A black linen jumper to be worn with or without the white organdy blouse is a practical and pretty type for summer. The slim dress has an Empire emphasis, the bodice suggesting a bolero and having a velvet ribbon beaded through to mark the high waistline. Very full, puffed sleeves are a feature of the blouse. Rows of cotton lace insertion circle the blouse above the jumper and also trim the cuffs.

4—The bodice is of black linen and the attached skirt of an embroidered and tucked white batiste in the design of this attractive evening dress. The skirt fabric is further enhanced by lace insertion. Box pleated fullness is effective. The bodice has low neckline and is sleeveless.

5—Rayon chiffon shirred in an all-over pattern was used for this simple dress which has a handsome appearance. The low neckline and very short sleeves are edged with velvet. The belt also is of velvet. Glitter buttons contribute additional decoration.

6—Black and white flower printed cotton is a dramatic fabric for an informal evening dress that has back emphasis. Skirt fullness swings to the back with flaring panels. A white organdy capelet covers the shoulders, forming little sleeves. An edging of black polished cotton outlines the low V at the back and ties in a bow with streamer ends.

The fashions illustrated here are available in St. Louis Shops. Patterns are not obtainable. For information call MAin 1-1111, Station 386, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, or mail self-addressed stamped envelope to Fashions Illustrated, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

How to Get More for Your Money

By Lawrence Galton

UNUSUAL new heating system may offer almost ideal service for garages, churches winter hunting cabins, motels, other buildings needing only now-and-then heating. Six to seven times faster than conventional hot water heating, it can raise temperature in a building such as a church 34 degrees in 90 minutes. It also eliminates danger of freezing pipes during shut-down periods. Secret: although it operates much like usual hot water or steam radiator plant, it uses no water in heating coils. Instead, heat transfer medium is Freon, commonly used as a refrigerant and aerosol propellant. The gas, much more quickly and economically convertible into vapor than water, even eliminates need for circulating pumps to get heat quickly to all parts of system.

FOREIGN CARS: Sales of small European cars continue to increase phenomenally—from 34,500 in 1954 to 107,700 last year, with 150,000 likely in '57. With demand exceeding supply, used Volkswagens are now being imported. (Used prices stand up since annual changes are minor). British cars do well; so, too French Renault and Simca, and Swedish Volvo.

ON FIRE INSURANCE: Losses last year hit $989,000,000 record peak with many homeowners badly under-insured. Two precautions are worthwhile: (1) Check on coverage in terms of present value of your home based on increased prices, improvements made. (2) Take inventory of household furnishings and personal property. Such a listing serves to determine if insurance is adequate, also becomes evidence in event of loss. To make it, go through each room, listing everything in it. Note replacement cost of each item, then estimate its useful life in years and deduct percentage of use already obtained to get a fair indication of its current value.

CONVERTING YOUR BOAT: If you own a small boat you'd like to change into a sporty convertible, there's a do-it-yourself kit that includes a leather-looking synthetic rubber top, an aluminum frame you can screw to the gunwales, plus all necessary hardware. Available in green, blue and white, the top comes in sizes to fit beam widths from 53 to 72 inches. The new top material—now going into convertible cars as well—has excellent weather resistance. It does not get soft and tacky in hot weather or become hard and brittle when folded away.

If you'd like further information on any of the above items, write Lawrence Galton in care of the Post-Dispatch, identifying item, giving date of appearance and enclosing stamped and self-addressed envelope. Inquiries must be sent no later than two weeks after the appearance of the item.

Words, Wit And Wisdom

By William Morris

Bulls, Bears and Some Watered Stock.

AMONG the words most commonly associated with the stock market are "bulls"—those investors who buy stocks in anticipation of a rise in the market—and bears—those who speculate on a falling market. The terms have been in common use for at least three centuries both in England and America. The origin of "bull" in this sense is not known, but "bear" is thought to come from a medieval version of the "skin game"—the practice of selling the skin before the bear was caught.

Our own American speculators of the nineteenth century were certainly not without a certain native ingenuity in matters of language as well as finance. One term which seems to have originated among Midwestern traders of the period is the occasion for this inquiry from Edward Kowalkowski, a Milwaukee high school student. "My 11-A history teacher," he writes, "asked us what is 'watered stock.' I answered that it originated during the nineteenth century when livestock men were faced with low prices for their cattle and hogs, so just before they would leave to sell the stock, they would give them salt and plenty of it. This made the livestock thirsty and they would drink water until their thirst was satisfied. This gave them added weight, which was what the owners wanted.

"My teacher said that was a logical explanation but that 'watered stock' was over-valued shares of stock sold by the railroads and some other corporations during the late 1800s. I would appreciate it if you would let me know who is right."

The answer, I'm happy to report, is that you are both right. "Watering stock," in the speculative sense, is increasing the nominal capital of an enterprise by issuing additional shares of stock without any further investment of money in the business. However, there is substantial evidence that the phrase—in the words of the Dictionary of Americanisms — "may have been suggested by the dishonest practice sometimes indulged in of heavily salting and watering cattle just before weighing them for sale."

Well, as moralists have often noted, there's something about gambling and speculation that brings out the animal in man!

Denial of a God and Anxiety

By Fulton J. Sheen

ATHEISM is of two kinds: it is either of the intellect or of the will. It is of the intellect when a smattering of knowledge impels a mind to deny independence of a Creator; it is of the will when a person decides to live as if there were no God.

Fulton J. Sheen

Because the first is made by superficial knowledge it can be corrected by a more profound knowledge provided the person has good will. The second kind of atheism, however, is made by a deliberate decision. Through this will to be atheistic may never be expressed openly, and in so many words, it nevertheless is at the basis of godless existence.

What is important is to note that atheism is made not by the way we think but by the way we live. As one of the characters of Dostoevski said: "If there is no God then all is permissible." It is perhaps of this attitude that the Scriptures speak: "The fool has said in his heart there is no God."

It is to be noted that it is not the head or reason that testifies to God but rather the emotions and the affections which are enjoyed apart from reason and the moral law which impels one to such unbelief. Once a person begins seriously breaking the moral law there is a poignant remorse of conscience, and unbearable repartee goes on within the mind. One likes the glow of this sin but not the afterglow of uneasiness.

THE NEXT STEP is to tell oneself that the sense of guilt one has is abnormal and is a heritage from a tribal belief; therefore, one should rid the mind of a belief in God and one will no longer feel remorse. It would be a great relief if one could persuade oneself that there was no moral governor and that one was irresponsible creature. Responsibility is a very heavy burden on the back of the man whose conduct is wrong and whose behavior is anti-moral. The mad rush of the world toward socialism and totalitarianism is not because of any political and economic advantages these systems may have, but rather because modern man oppressed with a sense of guilt, wishes to despoil himself of his freedom and responsibility by living under a dictator.

When man finds himself trammeled not only by outward laws but also by an inward feeling that he ought to be subject to those laws, he finds himself in a contradiction from which he would like to shake himself by denying the inner voice of conscience. One feels that there is a license to do whatever one pleases.

BUT the mental decision to live without God is very much like a mental decision to live without air. One may deny it as one may not breathe in the air, but the effects of the denial immediately become evident, particularly in anxiety. Anxiety stems from irregulated desires from the creature wanting something that is unnecessary for him or contrary to his nature or positively harmful. No animal ever suffers from anxiety, because an animal is not suspended between time and eternity as is man. An animal never becomes less than it is; but a man can do just that, because he is a composite of both spirit and matter.

Anxiety is followed by dread in which a man becomes aware of his finiteness, of his passing life of the decrease in enjoyment. He is not the absolute, although he wants to be. This swinging between a desire to live without God and at the same time to be one's own god, creates a tension which drives one to despair. On the one hand, one wants to be unconditional and independent of all moral law and on the other hand, one cannot get rid of his limitation, his contingency, his finiteness and his dependency. By such a revoke, man exposes himself to the awareness of his nothingness and his solitude.

AN INTERESTING personal history of the effects of the inner revolt is found in what happened to the woman the French revolutionists enthroned as the goddess of reason when the nation decided to live without God. This woman perhaps received as much adulation and worship as any woman in history but in the obituary notices of the papers of Paris on Aug. 1, 1817, we read the following: "Died, within these few days, in the hospital of Pauper Lunatics of Sal Petriere, where she had lived unpitied and unknown for many years, the famous Theroigne de Mericourt (the goddess of reason), the most remarkable of the heroines of the Revolution."

This was the woman who was seated on the throne by Fouche and Carnot in the Champ de Mars and hailed alternately as the goddess of reason and liberty.

In the prime of her life she was taught publicly to blaspheme her Creator, dishonor her sex and for the last 20 years of her life she was subject to the greatest of human calamities — the deprivation of reason. The few lucid intervals she had were filled up with the most heart rending lamentations. She died at the age of 57.

Tasty Tricks

Save juices drained from cooked vegetables and store juices to thin mayonnaise for vegetable salads. Add juices to soup stock and gravies too.

Fried Bananas

Bananas, dipped in batter and fried, make an excellent accompaniment to a ham steak.

My Neighbor Says:

Should recipe call for sour milk and none is available, spoon 1½ tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar into measuring cup and fill with sweet milk.

Try this with left-over cooked cereal: pack while warm into a clean loaf pan, cool thoroughly; remove from pan, slice and pan fry.

Dice boiled celery root and serve hot with a cream sauce or cold with mayonnaise spiked with mustard.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A READER writes: "I live in an apartment and often have friends stop by of an evening. The walls between each apartment are very thin and the sound of talking and laughing carries, especially when the hour is late and everything is quiet. Will you please tell me if it would be proper to ask my guests to please be more quiet, or might this be considered rude on my part?"

EMILY POST

If they are really making noise, you could say, "Oh please, we must be quiet. My next-door neighbor goes to bed very early and I'm afraid our loud talking will disturb her."

DEAR MRS. POST: I am a young married woman, and neither my husband nor I smoke. Most of our friends do. Am I supposed to provide cigarettes for them when they come to our house, or is it all right to take for granted that they will smoke their own cigarettes since they all carry them?

Answer: If you are giving a party you should certainly include cigarettes in your provisions. But if people merely stop in to see you, it is not necessary to proffer cigarettes since, as you say, all smokers carry their own.

It's an Idea

The spinet, or small upright, is an excellent space-saver, but it does not have to be in your living room. An alcove in a hallway, under a staircase, might be just the place—put life in a barren spot.

Wife's Experience

Seeing the Pope

By John Steinbeck

Here is another letter on Europe Today by the author, John Steinbeck. Other letters will follow from time to time.

ROME.

A COUPLE of Sundays ago, my Elegante Moglie and my sister Mary went their early-morning way to St. Peter's in Rome to hear the Sistine Choir. I couldn't go. I was occupied in covering the local scene, in this case a double bedroom in the Ambaciadori Hotel. I worked hard at it so that the first thing I knew the morning was gone. (An Italian paper once called Mrs. Steinbeck "The Elegante Moglie," and this so delighted her husband that he has echoed it ever since. For those whose Italian is slight, "moglie" simply means "wife.") At 1 o'clock, my two elegant relatives returned — their eyes full of stars and themselves covered with an aura of piety. It took some time for them to communicate their experience and their emotion to me. For a time I thought they had stopped at a sidewalk bar, but they hadn't. They had had an experience. The best I can do is to try to tell it in my moglie's words. If a few baseball words creep in, I had better tell you that my wife was born in Fort Worth and teethed on the Dodgers' farm team.

JOHN STEINBECK

When she came up to the majors and settled in New York, she kept her affiliation and her quaint patois. She is likely to describe any great emotion in terms of a double play. World Series time in our house is kept with almost the same reverence as Lent.

ANYWAY, MY BAT GIRL gets to St. Peter's to knock out a little Gregorian music and she finds the great basilica as packed with people as Yankee Stadium for a play-off. She goes up to a Swiss Guard in helmet, plume, and a blue-and-yellow striped uniform and carrying a halberd as large as a pig-splitting meat ax.

Moglie: What's going on here?

Guard: Are you kidding?

Moglie: Why is the stadium, I mean the basilica, sold out, I mean crowded?

Guard: You must be from the cornball country. The Pope's coming, that's why.

Moglie: No malarky?

Guard: I swear it on a stack of—I mean I give you my solemn word.

And at that moment, through two great doors, the Holy Father was borne in on his high throne carried on the shoulders of 10 men dressed all in red. The Pope was in shining white, and he wore a little white skullcap. Leave it to a woman to remember all the details. And remember I'm still quoting my bat girl. She said:

"I was nailed to the floor. I couldn't move. Maybe I had thought there would be something cold or formal about him. But it wasn't so.

"He was warm and open and outgoing, and his face—maybe the most beautiful face I ever saw, and his eyes—smiling and clear. He seemed to be looking just at me. He seemed to be looking just at every single person there. I was as near to him as I am to you." (In emotion this distance may be anywhere from 18 inches to a furlong and a half.)

SHE WENT ON: "He was blessing people right and left, not in clots but each one separately, and he was smiling. He would see someone in the crowd and make a little gesture with his fingers, and the men in red would move his throne over near to a child and he would lean down and bless the child. Or maybe it would be a cripple or an old, old man, and the throne would move close and the Pope would bless that one. Sometimes he would reach down and take a hat from someone and hold it over his head for a moment and then give it back, and he was smiling as though he was joyful."

Anyway, there was my moglie right under the guns and blessings falling all around her like rain. And suddenly she wanted to have something blessed for one of our relatives. She dived into her purse and dug around in it.

Bunch of keys didn't seem right. Lipstick, not appropriate. Package of Life Savers? No. Social Security Card? Not a bad idea but no. Finally she got out a little handkerchief with small flowers embroidered on it. She held it up in the air, and as the Holy Father passed by, he leaned over and blessed it.

MY MOGLIE asked me, "Do you think it was all right? Do you think this handkerchief is blessed?"

I asked, "When you held it up, did you want it blessed?"

"Of course I did."

"Then it was blessed," I said.

"Holy Mackerel!" she said after a while. "Can you imagine it! I was as near to him as I am to you." (At the moment, this was 4 feet, 8 inches.) "And to think," she said, "we just went over to hear some music. Know what I kept thinking: It went through my head. He's so nice—he's so very nice."

My sister Mary said, "We heard the music, too. We didn't miss a thing."

So you see, you just can't tell what will happen—and it usually does.

(Copyright, John Steinbeck.)

A Good Reputation

By Christopher Billopp

REPUTATIONS are of two kinds, good and bad. Of bad reputations the less said the better.

A good reputation in a neighborhood is the ambition of most people. It is considered worth striving for over a long period of years. It involves efficiency, originality, cooperation, consideration of others, generosity, enthusiasm and similar superior qualities.

To achieve a good reputation a person will keep the television and radio turned down low so as not to disturb neighbors. He will gladly undertake jobs that nobody else is anxious to do.

When solicited for aid to a worthy cause he will make a generous contribution. At community benefits he will always turn up, patronize all the booths and buy his share of the leftover food.

When he has his automobile he will look around for those who need transportation, never leaving an assemblage without asking, "Anybody going my way?"

In his business he will willingly accomodate colleagues who plead domestic problems or ill health and ask him to shift days off with them. His reputation will embrace such virtues as arriving on time, never watching the clock, checking to avoid error, and offering constructive suggestions.

In short, during a long course of years and at great personal labor and sacrifice he will build up a reputation that anyone might envy.

How sad that when a friend from away inquires for him at his place of business or in the neighborhood in which he lives, all the friend gets is a shake of the head and the answer, "Sorry, but I never heard of him."

A Chat With Son in Little America

Ladue Radio Ham Provides Contact Between East St. Louis Couple and Sailor in Antarctic

By John Keasler

PRESTON A. RICHARDSON OF LADUE, SHOWN AT HIS SHORT WAVE RADIO SET, PICKED UP RADIO TRANSMISSION FROM LITTLE AMERICA AND ENABLED NAVY HOSPITALMAN FRIST CLASS HAROLD E. BUTLER (INSET) TO TALK WITH HIS PARENTS, MR. AND MRS. ROBERT F. BUTLER, IN EAST ST. LOUIS. THEY DON'T KNOW WHEN HE WILL CALL AGAIN BUT THEY'LL BE WAITING BY THE PHONE JUST IN CASE.

The phone rang over at the Robert F. Butler home in East St. Louis and it was Harold. He was calling up from the Antarctic where he was trying to help hatch some baby chicks. This came as a surprise to the Butlers.

"That really you, son?" they asked Harold, and it was.

Now the Butlers already knew their son was frozen in down at the bottom of the world, so that wasn't news, but what was a surprise was his calling up from Little America like that. They didn't know you could do that.

Well, as a matter of cold fact, it isn't real easy. But with the help of a friendly man who lives in Ladue, these East Side parents have talked with their sailor son down there a couple of times and wait hopefully by the phone for another call. It's done via short wave radio.

"You got enough spending money, son?" asked Butler and Harold laughed and laughed. Little opportunity for high living is afforded in Operation Deep Freeze, he indicated, where at last report the temperature had hit 100 degrees below zero and entertainment consisted mainly of working toward hatching chicken eggs. Plenty of night—nothing but—but very little night life.

Navy Hospitalman First Class Harold E. Butler, 28 years old, has for several months been stationed at Little America, at the Armed Forces Polar Station. His tour of duty there may last another year. (He has nine years' active duty and this month re-enlisted for six more.)

His contact with his parents was through a ham radio operator, Preston A. Richardson, who lives at No. 14 Overbrook drive, Ladue, and who is president of the Mutual Federal Savings & Loan Association, 6601 Delmar blvd.

Richardson is a congenial man with acquaintances from Tripoli to Iceland, Goose Bay to Scotland. He says he has a lady friend in Casa Blanca and a chum in Finland who, after despairing of proper pronunciation of his real name, Holgo, goes simply by Sam. Richardson is a member of that avid tribe (and their number is increasing) of radio hobbyists, who sit in front of little mikes and chat with other radio hams all over the globe.

There are probably as many as 350 ham operators in the St. Louis area alone, Richardson estimated. Possibly the most harried ham in the United States is Arthur Godfrey — when he gets on the air celebrity-struck operators verbally trample each other in the rush to talk to him. (Godfrey has been a ham for a long time.)

Richardson finds the hobby relaxing. When he puts out his call letters, W-zero-OBJ, no telling who might answer. The wall in front of his $3000 worth of radio equipment is plastered with cards from his friends the world over.

So one night not long ago he got Little America. He learned an East St. Louis sailor was there. Getting him in touch with his parents was simple. Butler got on the radio, Richardson telephoned his parents, and when they answered he flipped a "phone patch" switch.

The conversation went directly over telephone wires, a joyful mother and happy father talked to their son—he spoke from a part of the world where other communication is cut off for the winter, now starting there. (There won't even be a mail boat until September when spring returns.)

LATER, contact was established through Richardson again and a third talk came about with the help of a ham in New Jersey. Richardson grinned as he recalled what may have been the strangest request for information ever to come out of Little America.

Q: When a hen is hatching eggs, does it turn them over?

A: Yes.

This matter was highly important to the Little America Mid-Wives Association, of which Butler was a member. Some fertile eggs had been obtained from New Zealand (before the big freeze set in.) The Navy men were determined to have baby chicks on hand for Easter. A Memphis dentist was appointed president and attending physician of the LAMWA.

Butler took charge of two eggs, made a nest of cotton, used a steam iron for heat and to control humidity. The elder Butler, a onetime farmboy, passed on all he knew about incubator hatching. Unhappily, none of the dozen eggs hatched. But it was a valiant and sterling effort, all agreed.

It wasn't the first time Richardson has used his set to bring families together. In one instance he was the go-between for a brand-new grandmother in Cicero, Ill., and a newborn baby on Guam.

"Will you call my folks in Cicero collect?" asked the Guam-stationed serviceman. "I'm a proud new papa."

"This phone bill is on me," said Richardson. At the Guam hospital, military nurses got into the spirit of the thing; a telephone was brought into the new mother's room, the Illinois grandmother heard the new arrival protesting against interrupted feeding.

Because of the international date line, today in Guam doesn't get to Cicero until tomorrow—so things were solved by giving the baby two birthdays.

Richardson has followed his radio hobby since he was 14, first with crystal sets, then "advanced" jobs in the old low frequency spark days — feels vaguely restless now because there doesn't seem to be much way to experiment with or add to his present set.

Along the line, also, he found time to be a track star at the Principia, a private pilot, a midwestern champion in outboard hydroplane racing, and to get his golf game down into the low 70s. With the exception of golf, one of the few incurable addictions, he has largely given up the more strenuous hobbies — gets as much kick as ever out of his conversational globetrotting.

A real globetrotter ended up at his home for quite a while as a result of his radio hobby.

THIS worthy, a Britisher of the soldier of fortune persuasion, met Richardson via short wave. He was given to attempts to go around the world in a 35-foot sailboat, thus narrowly escaping drowning himself at irregular intervals. (Once he saved himself by calling by short wave for help after smashing up on a reef near Australia.)

Their airway acquaintance grew and, sure enough, one day up showed the Britisher, stayed with the Richardsons awhile, then started chasing the horizon again.

"You never know what will happen with one of these," said Richardson, "Pres," to friends in many countries, pointing at the squat black set, over which a man in Clearwater, Fla., could be heard plaintively wondering where everybody went.

However, of all the strange conversations, Richardson, grinning, said he puts at the top of the list that Antarctic-East St. Louis chicken quiz.

"When do you think we'll hear from Harold again?" asked Mrs. Butler, eagerly.

Richardson explained it's impossible to tell. There is no way to know the exact time W-Zero-OBJ and Little America will get together—reception is tricky and unpredictable.

But when they do he'll put Harold right on the phone again. Mrs. Butler, not overly familiar with all the technical details, knows one thing for sure.

"We'll be waiting," she said.

Secrets of Charm

Glamorous Feeling

TO feel glamorous, you must look glamorous. This applies whether you are spending an evening at home or going out.

Whether housewife or career woman, you're usually in something like a uniform during the day . . . either housedress or suit. And there is no excuse for putting on "any old thing" in the evening . . . even if you are alone. Trailing around the house in an old housecoat won't make you feel relaxed—or happy.

TAKE TIME OUT to make yourself look pretty. Leisurely cleanse your face and peek into the mirror while you put on a gay lipstick.

The whole point is lost if you are looking wonderful "in case somebody just happens to drop in." Dress up for yourself. Invest in at least one attractive at-home costume. For late-day, go in for prettiness (this is important, as every husband will attest).

DRESS UP—EVEN IF YOU ARE ALONE.

You may try to justify it by saying, "I love the theater or music, but it isn't necessary for me to be dressed." The truth of the matter is that your evening out would seem much more glamorous and enjoyable if you lived up to its elegance. Sometimes just a little bit of whimsy for a hat or white kid gloves can do the trick.

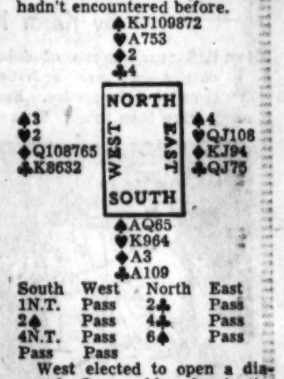
They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

Contract Bridge

By Sam Fry Jr.

WE suppose there's nothing really new under the bridge sun, at least as far as the play of the cards is concerned. But the handling of the heart suit on today's deal—we happened to be declarer ourselves—brought to our attention a combination we personally hadn't encountered before.



South	West	North	East
1N.T.	Pass	2♣	Pass
2♠	Pass	4♣	Pass
4N.T.	Pass	6♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

West elected to open a diamond. Our problem lay in the heart suit; we had to lose only one heart trick to make it. Obviously if the suit broke 3-2 we had no problem, but how could we take care of as many of the possible 4-1 breaks as were take-careable? The line of play which dawned on us was foolproof to win the hand against any heart combination except specifically the queen, jack, 10 and eight in the West hand.

We won the diamond ace, ruffed our other diamond in dummy and then completed stripping both hands of clubs too, drawing the trump on the way. We then led a low heart from dummy, not playing the ace first. Actually East played the 10 which we let hold. East continued the jack which he won in dummy and we now had the marked finesse up to our king-nine tenace against East's queen.

The reason this play would have worked against all 4-1 breaks as well as this one, but except the one mentioned earlier, is simple. If the first trick which is deliberately lost to either East or West loses to a singleton honor, leaving the other player with two honors still guarded, we're automatically given a ruff and discard to take care of our other loser. Finally if East has the lone eight and West the Q-J-10-2, the latter is trapped the same way East actually was.

Social Activities

Many Parties Scheduled In Honor of Debutantes

By Karin Hayward

THIS year's group of debutantes will wind up their coming-out year activities with a June calendar crowded with parties. Events early in the month already have been listed. Those later will start with a June 14 swimming party and luncheon in honor of Miss Marian Shipley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Westerman Shipley. The affair will be given at Old Barn Inn, St. Albans, Mo., by Mrs. Harold T. Hungerford. That night Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson Carpenter Jr., 35 West Brentmoor, Clayton, will be host and hostess at a dinner dance at their home in honor of Miss Julia Lamy and Miss Carol Smith, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lamy and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Platt Smith.

Miss Eleanor Price, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O. Price, will be honored June 15 at a luncheon to be given at Old Barn Inn, by Mrs. Gilbert K. Trimble. Here for the party and other June festivities will be four of Miss Price's classmates at Smith College, Miss Charlotte Burkhart, Woodsfield, O.; Miss Mary Virginia Lucas, Kansas City, Mo.; Miss Laura Grumpelt, Ridgewood, N.J., and Miss Ann Kirkland, Englewood, N.J. That night three young women, Miss Joan Bardenheier, Miss Patricia Dickmann and Miss Patricia O'Neill, will make their debuts together at a ball at the University Club planned by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Bardenheier Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Bernard F. Dickmann and Dr. and Mrs. John B. O'Neill.

Miss Lamy, a debutante of this year, and her sister, Miss Mary Winifred Lamy, who will be presented in the 1957-58 season, will be honored at a party June 16 by their grandmother, Mrs. Oscar Lamy. The party will take place at the home of Dr. and Mrs. William Bryan Lytton, uncle and aunt of the girls, at 29 Overhills, Ladue, where guests will swim before a buffet supper and dance afterward.

A buffet supper in honor of Miss Melissa Hickey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. Myron Hickey, will be given June 17 by Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Shelton and Mr. and Mrs. F. Carl Schumacher. The next night Miss Susan Robinson will be the honored debutante at a dinner for which hosts and hostesses will be Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Lortz, Mr. and Mrs. Roland C. Baer, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kropp and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Ford. The party will be given at the Lortz home, 12 Carrswold, Clayton. Miss Robinson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Robinson. Later that night a ball will be given by Dr. and Mrs. F. Gilbert Bickel at the Bath and Tennis Club, to introduce their daughter, Miss Wanda Lea Bickel.

June 19 Miss Caryl Green, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Rosen, will be the guest of honor at a cocktail party and buffet supper to be given by Mrs. Milton Greenfield Jr. While the next day Mrs. John S. Lionberger Jr. and her mother, Mrs. Joel Y. Lund, will give a luncheon at the St. Louis Country Club for two debutantes, Miss Shipley and Miss Julie Henson. Two hostesses, Mrs. Charles D. O'Keefe and her daughter, Mrs. Robert T. Matthews, will give a luncheon June 21 at Bellerive Country Club for Miss Linda Lindquist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Lindquist.

Mrs. Robert McKittrick Jones II, 909 Lay road, Ladue, will depart next Tuesday for New York where she will be joined by her son, Navy Ens. Robert McKittrick Jones III, who has been stationed in Bermuda. With him she will attend the commencement of her younger son, Thomas West Jones, at Rumsey Hall, Washington, Conn. Next year Thomas will enter Kent (Conn.) School. Mrs. Jones and her sons will then go to Poughkeepsie, N.Y., to attend the graduation of her daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Jones, from Vassar College. Also going to Vassar will be Miss Jones's aunt, who is also her godmother, Mrs. Charles S. Terry of Crescent, Mo. The group will return to St. Louis together.

Mrs. R. H. B. Thompson, 41 Ridgemoor drive, Clayton, left St. Louis Friday by motor for her summer home at Lake Pleasant, N. Y. She expects to drive to South Hadley, Mass., to attend the fiftieth reunion of her class at Mount Holyoke College, where she will be the guest of the college.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Huntington Bliss of Damascus, Syria, formerly of St. Louis, and their two daughters will visit Mrs. Thompson during the summer. Miss Margaret Bliss will be graduated June 10 from Wheaton College, Norton, Mass. Miss Alice Bliss has completed her sophomore year at Mount Holyoke.

Luncheon for Taylor School Seniors.

DR. AND MRS. EDGAR CURTIS TAYLOR will give a luncheon tomorrow at the University Club for the seniors at Taylor School, of which he is headmaster. Afterward the boys will attend the baseball game at Busch Stadium.

The Taylor School's twenty-seventh commencement exercises will be held Thursday, June 6 with the Rev. Sidney W. Goldsmith Jr., rector and headmaster of Shattuck School, Faribault, Minn., giving the commencement address. His subject is to be "Things That Matter." Summer school, with sessions for both boys and girls, will open June 10.

Dr. and Mrs. Taylor will fly to Europe July 5. After two weeks in London they plan to go to Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Finland, and later to three Russian cities, Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev. Visits in Czechoslovakia, Poland and Switzerland will precede their trip by air from Zurich to St. Louis before the end of summer school. In London and Finland the Taylors will visit friends.

My Day

Peace Is a Job for All

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK.

MEMORIAL DAY is observed annually in Hyde Park by special ceremonies in the rose garden where my husband is buried. But the day is one that belongs not to the memory of my husband alone but to every man who laid down his life in war for his country.

It is traditional for every man in this country to feel an obligation to play his part in time of war, either on the field of battle or in some capacity where he can be of the most use to his country.

But the world is changing now, and I think we should realize that what we teach our boys and girls must be different than what they learned in the past.

THE MEN we remember on Memorial day this year died in wars which for the most part were fought by the military, although in the last two world conflicts more and more civilians have paid with their lives for the folly of war.

But in the future there will be no such thing as a particular group of people dying for their country. Destruction will be so widespread that whole populations will die.

Therefore, I think it behooves us to teach our children that patriotism today requires a study of the world and its situations. We live in a democracy where the people can control their government if they understand enough of what is going on to form opinions on what they want done.

Statesmanship today requires us to prevent situations that lead to war instead of waiting until a crisis occurs and then trying to meet it as best we can. Each of our country's citizens should realize that it is necessary for him to learn how to get along with people of different races and nationalities at home and to spread this spirit to international relations. This responsibility no longer can be left in the hands of a few. The business of keeping out of war is the business of every citizen in a democracy.

This Memorial day each of us should think about how we can bring about the best understanding between people, how we can be better citizens ourselves. For today patriotism doesn't mean a willingness to die on the field of battle. The soldier in any future war will not die alone. Many others, once safe from war in their own homes, will be killed, too.

Conservation Club Installs New Officers

By Fay Profilet

MARGUERITE KRUEGER CONSERVATION CLUB installed officers at a meeting at Famous-Barr, Clayton, last Thursday. Mrs. Whately L. Chandler, past president of the Eighth District, Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, reviewed the book, "Across America."

Mrs. Arthur J. (Marguerite) Krueger, for whom the club was named and an honorary member, installed the following: Mrs. Ray R. Henley, president; Mrs. Wallace C. Gundlach, Mrs. F. Walter von Wehrden and Mrs. Sterling J. Alexander, vice presidents; Mrs. Albert H. Borcherding, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert E. Furlong, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. Harry Krabbe, treasurer, and Mrs. Roy C. Vickery, auditor. Mrs. William A. Wagner Jr. is the retiring president. The directors are Mrs. Wagner, Miss Stella Sauer and Mrs. Edward J. Scally.

Mrs. Leslie H. Martin, hospitality chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Loren T. Brockman, Mrs. F. Leslie Collins and Mrs. Charles T. Marcrander.

The Ruth Kelso Renfrow Art Club will hold its annual Play day beginning at 11:30 a.m. Thursday, June 6, at Westborough Country Club. Following luncheon in the Florida room, there will be a brief business meeting after which members and their guests may play bridge.

The committee for Play day is composed of the newly elected officers including: Mrs. Paul C. Reichle Jr., president; Mrs. Harry Hampe, vice president; Mrs. Andrew Bindrup, secretary, and Mrs. Ralph McKee, treasurer. They will be assisted by Mrs. Sterling Alexander, Mrs. William Anderson and Mrs. Russell Bovim.

The Junior Women's Chamber of Commerce will meet Thursday, June 6, in the Stockholm room of the Park Plaza Hotel at 8 p.m. Guest speakers will be two professors from Washington University, Dr. John M. Fowler, assistant professor of physics, and Dr. Walter C. Bauer, assistant professor of pathology. They will discuss "Strontium 90." Miss Jayne Adler is in charge of the program.

A luncheon in the Zodiac room of the Chase Hotel Saturday will be the final meeting of the season for Harris Teachers College Alumni Association, starting at 12:15 p.m. Guests will be the scholarship students. Installation of officers will be held and there will also be entertainment. Miss Mary Northern, chairman, Miss Marie Gaffron and Miss Kathleen Wall are in charge of the arrangements.

Play Post-Dispatch Cash-Crosswords for $1,000 IN CASH EVERY WEEK!

One thousand dollars in cash every week is waiting for the winner in the Post-Dispatch CASH-CROSSWORD PUZZLE, which will be published every Sunday and Monday, beginning next Sunday, in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. This sum will be divided equally among the winners if there is more than one winner.

If no correct solution is received for any week's CASH-CROSSWORD PUZZLE, $1,000 will be added to the prize each week until there is a winner.

Solve CASH-CROSSWORDS as you would any crossword puzzle. Appropriate clues, together with a list containing, among others, the correct words, will be included with each week's puzzle.

A $50 BONUS will be paid if the winning solution is submitted on a postcard not inclosed in an envelope. If there is more than one winner, the $50 BONUS will be divided equally among the winners who submit their entries on postcards.

All residents of Missouri, Illinois (except Cook county) or Arkansas are eligible to submit entries, except employees of The Pulitzer Publishing Co., its advertising agency and members of their households. There is no limit to the number of entries a contestant may submit, but all entries must be received not later than 9 a.m. on the Thursday following publication of the puzzle.

Be sure to see the $1,000 CASH-CROSSWORD PUZZLE NEXT SUNDAY AND MONDAY in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Dear Martha:

WE have entertained a certain couple in our home a number of times and hope to continue doing so. They seem to enjoy the home cooking and our pleasantly clean house. I am not a perfect housekeeper but I do love a neat home. They have hinted that they will invite us to their home soon. My husband wouldn't want to go because their home is so dirty. The beds are never made. Dishes are piled up, unwashed for several days, floors littered, everything out of place. How can we say a polite no?

ASHAMED.

I don't blame you for not wanting to go and perhaps if you plead a previous engagement a time or so, you can avoid hurting their feelings. If you really want to cultivate their friendship, keep on inviting them to your home so that when you do refuse their invitations, they won't be offended. Meanwhile, if you treasure her friendship, perhaps you can help her somewhat by talking over housekeeping problems with her. You don't have to criticize her in order to give her a hint as to orderly routine.

Dear Martha:

I HAVE FOUND OUT that a couple in our crowd plan to run away to get married. They think we don't know anything about it and want to surprise us. We know they're being married in a church and we're pretty sure we know what day it will be. Would it be all right if some of us drove over to surprise them and attend the wedding?

WONDERING.

It depends on their reason for going to another town to be married. If the bride feels she can't afford an elaborate wedding ceremony, so has decided against a hometown service with guests, it might be a very happy occasion if her friends would attend in the other town. But if they really want to surprise you all, and if you think they prefer a quiet and unobtrusive ceremony without any show, then don't spoil it by barging in.

Dear Martha:

I AM THE ONLY WOMAN in an office where five men are working. The men all smoke at their desks so I did so one day and was promptly called down by the boss. Do you think this is fair?

LINDA.

On the face of it, it does seem like unfair discrimination. But there may be reasons which you don't recognize. If you receive the public, for instance, it would be better not to smoke at your desk. Or the employer may feel that customers would object. For that matter, he may be one of the many men who still don't like to see women smoking, especially during business hours. Whatever the reason, follow his orders. He's the one to make the decision.

Dear Martha:

THIS IS IN ANSWER to "Lost." I, too, an not so young and have been married quite a number of years. My husband treats me the same way. There have been many other women in his life. I have felt like getting away, too, but after talking things over with two of my neighbors, I am able to keep going. They are not the gossipy kind, but true friends. My husband even slurs me in front of people and tells me to leave. But I have helped get what little we have now, so I am staying. I ask God every night to help me bear his treatment. I do not have any companionship but I think my husband is more miserable than I am. Maybe I could get a job and maybe not at my age so I am just sitting it out. It is hard to take all the things he says to me but I pretend I don't hear him. I think such a man must be sick, so please try to ignore it a little. Don't give up and let him cast you off. You will win some day.

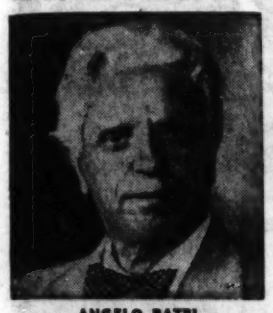
LOST TOO.

Write today for Martha Carr's leaflet, Guide for the Bride, which will answer many of your questions on wedding etiquette. Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

'Going Steady'

By Angelo Patri

"I'M in a jam. We have two children, a boy and a girl. The boy is 14 and the girl, 16. The boy gives us very little trouble with his activities in his free time. He did want to use the car one evening, but when his father said no and explained his reasons, he seemed content and did not ask again.



ANGELO PATRI

"But the girl—the latest is the worst. She came home recently with a ring on the third finger of her left hand, and when we asked about it, she explained she was going "steady" with a boy in her class.

"When we said this could not be allowed and that the ring must be returned, she had a regular tantrum, shouted, stamped and cried. We insisted but we had to send for the boy, explain our stand and give him the ring. She wouldn't do it. Since then she has scarcely spoken to us, droops about the house, won't go out with the other boys and girls, and we just don't know what to do. We feel terrible. To give in or to hold out? We just can't stand this much longer."

THERE is nothing to do but to hold on. This "going steady" idea that some children have taken up is not to be encouraged. When a young man and a young woman leave their group and go out with each other to the exclusion of all others, share each other's work and play while disregarding other members of their circle, it means just one thing—the preliminary step to marriage. That is the experience of the race.

It is all very well to say, "Times have changed." Maybe. But one thing is sure: human nature has not changed, nor have the consequences of "going steady" or of early marriage. They still spell hard work, home, children, self-sacrifice, duty.

CHILDREN of the early teens have no understanding of all this. They cannot have. When they begin to feel sex rising within them, they naturally seek companionship with members of the opposite sex. Very well, but that is not to say that this interest is to be fixed on just one of the many. They need wide and varied experiences in all walks of life—knowledge of people, things relating to people of all sorts, knowledge of life's ways with people. They have to be acquainted with grief and to have overcome it along with other difficulties that life sends their way. In short, they must mature in body, mind and spirit. To do this they must mingle, mix, share with their group.

It is undoubtedly hard for a mother or father or both to battle against a willful child, to hold fast against his or her demands to be allowed to make a mistake. But they have the strength to hold on. That is the very heart of the matter. Children have no shuch power and "going steady" is no way to gain it.

Personnel Problem At Home

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

MR. O'M. is a successful business man. "But in my own home I don't seem to be able to create an atmosphere of good personnel relations," he admits.

And you never will, Mr. O'M., if you consider your wife merely an employe who has to be made contented with her place. Any woman could tell you that. But let's talk this over man to man. A business survey made at the University of Michigan found five main factors that keep workers satisfied in their jobs.

LET'S SEE how you could apply them to your domestic plans.

1. Recognition—The need to feel that one's achievements are noticed and appreciated. How often do you compliment your wife on her appearance, on the attractiveness of the home? Do you ever say to her, "My own mother couldn't turn out biscuits as good as these?"

2. Achievement—The need to feel she has done something worthwhile. Do you remark, "You certainly have an easy life here; what do you do all day?" If you do, you shouldn't.

3. Autonomy—The need to feel one has control of one's own actions. Do you manage the budget, refuse to give her an allowance, and continually instruct her on how she should cook, dress and entertain?

4. Affiliation—The need to be related to people, to have friends. Do you discourage her from belonging to a church organization, woman's club, or P.-T.A., assuring her that "there's plenty for you to do right here at home?"

5. Evaluation—The need to feel that the standards for judging one's behavior and performance are reasonable and just. Do you continually inform her that your family did things better, or ask, "Why can't you be as glamorous as Mrs. Smith?"

THESE are just some clues, Mr. O'M. Of all five factors, it's recognition that's most important—and most neglected. Do as well with your wife as you do with your employes, Mr. O'M., and your wife won't ever want to change jobs.

Rice Ring

Preparing a rice ring? Add chopped stuffed olives, slivered browned almonds or minced parsley to it.

Summer Sweaters

The short sleeved sweater that is heavily ribbed but sufficiently open in its pattern to avoid a warm appearance is among the casual summer wraps appearing in the stores. Most of these sweaters are waistline length. Some introduce novelty patterns in the form of yokes or front decorations.

4TH BIG WEEK!

Never In The History of Greater St. Louis Drive-In Theatres Has One Attraction Stayed So Long!

"MOM AND DAD"
AND
"ECSTASY"

Why ? ? ?

"Mom and Dad" is a frank, revealing film that deals quite openly with the subject of reproduction and birth. Presented in good taste, this film brings out in the open the facts that people have only whispered about in the past—"Ecstasy" starring Hedy Lamarr is an unusual film, hard to describe, but well worth seeing.

THIS IS POSITIVELY THE ONLY GREATER ST. LOUIS SHOWING! WORTH DRIVING MILES TO SEE!

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

GALILEO made his first small telescope, or spyglass,, 348 years ago. He kept improving the lenses until his instruments gave him larger and better images of the objects which he wanted to study.

Q. Did Galileo receive any direct reward for improving the spyglass which had been invented in Holland?

A. Yes, his salary at the University of Padua was doubled.

Q. When did he start making important discoveries in astronomy, and what were the discoveries?

A. A year of effort was required before he had a spyglass, or little telescope, which would magnify 33 diameters. With this he managed to learn many facts about the solar system.

He learned, for example, that the moon has mountains and valleys. Before his day, people had little idea about the structure of the earth's satellite. Galileo was the first person to observe the moons of Jupiter. He saw four of them clearly, and discovered that they were revolving around the planet.

Galileo saw the "spots" on the sun. By using a darkened lens, he could study without being blinded. It is of utmost importance to anyone who gazes at the sun to protect his eyes, except near sunrise or sunset, or when the sunshine is softened by clouds. This is true whether we look at the sun with or without a telescope or a pair of field glasses.

Q. Did Galileo learn about the rotation of the sun?

A. Yes. He found that the sun turns on its axis by keeping records of sunspots. As all modern students of astronomy know, long-lasting spots may be observed for almost two weeks. Then they go out of sight for an equal length of time.

After due study and thought, Galileo became convinced that Copernicus (and others) had been right in thinking that the earth moved around the sun.

Play Safe While You Drive!

Keep alert—chew gum

Avoid traffic jitters and driving drowsiness. Chew gum while you're behind the wheel. Chewing helps relieve strain and tension—helps keep you feeling fresh and alert for safer driving.

Chew any brand of gum you like but chew while you drive. Naturally, we recommend refreshing, delicious Wrigley's Spearmint Gum—for lively, satisfying flavor and real chewing enjoyment.
